DEDICATION

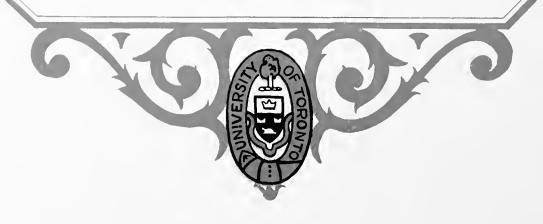

TO those who finishing, have just begun, we dedicate this book, in the hope that it may help to keep ever with them, the pleasant hours, the interesting people, the wonderful associations—the life of their University days.

"Help me to hold it!...

Such glife here, through such length of hours,

Such miracles performed in play."

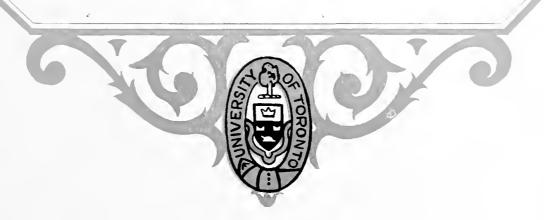

Browning.

FOREWORD

"Daughters of Time, the hypocritic Days, Muffled and dumb like barefoot dervishes And marching single in an endless file, Bring diadems and faggots in their hands. To each they offer gifts after his will . ."

EMERSON.

To The Members of the Graduating Classes

HEN years after this you casually turn over the leaves of Torontonensis the faces will recall to you at the time of their happiest youth some who will have proved vour warmest and most loyal friends. These at least the record will always keep for you as they were. You will review what has happened to each and will, I hope, be able to say that your old comrades have done well, that they have performed in the spirit and not merely according to the letter, the duties whether professional, public or domestic which have fallen to them to fulfil. Your university has provided you with a good foundation, and, unless you should be so unfortunate as to fall into bad health, you will have to take responsibility for what rises upon that foundation. The world does not owe you a living. In providing you with a university education it has given you more than it gives to most. Moreover the man-inthe-street is impatient with those who cast upon others the blame for their troubles. This vicarious imposition creates an unpleasing and profitless habit. Some, it is true, are favoured by fortune; others enter upon life with a handicap; but, as a rule, the initial advantages only mean a good start, and the handicap a somewhat delayed get-away. The real worth of the person soon begins to show itself. In our country society is so fluid that there are no hard and fast barriers which it is difficult to break through. Though the age of the pioneer is gone there still remains the spirit of free movement and the reward for initiative. Therefore I give you my word of cheer and high hope as you leave the university.

Class of 2T8, University College,

th cla

PIRIT" (and let not the vulgar misinterpret the term) is an attribute that 2T8 has never lacked. The enthusiasm of the members of the class for the year, for the College, and for the University activities has amply proved it. Our re-unions will reaffirm it. The vicissitudes of fortune, and the casualties of the Spring, have slightly thinned our ranks, but not our spirit. Our graduating class is (and still will be after exams) exceptionally large. The keen support of these large numbers has combined with the notable co-operation between the men and the women to place our year parties and functions, guided by a succession of exceptionally able executives, in the "best-ever" class.

Individually, as well as collectively, the year 2T8 is outstanding. The discriminating gaze of posterity (best represented in our case by the class of 3T1) can single out both individual men and women champions in the varying arenas of tennis, basketball, soccer, hockey, rugby, assault, swimming, track and other games whose name is legion. In inter-year, in interfaculty, and not least in intercollegiate sport, the name of 2T8 will survive.

Posterity will realize, however, that we have by no means entirely run to "brawn". Have we not a Rhodes and other scholars in our midst? Do not our voices rise in debate at Hart House and the Women's Union? What year predominated in the foundation of the "U.C. Parliamentary Club", and the "U.C. Magazine"? Have we not done our share, yes and more in the "Varsity" and the "Players' Guild"? Did we not (doubtless unwittingly) do more than any other year to get initiations banned from the University?

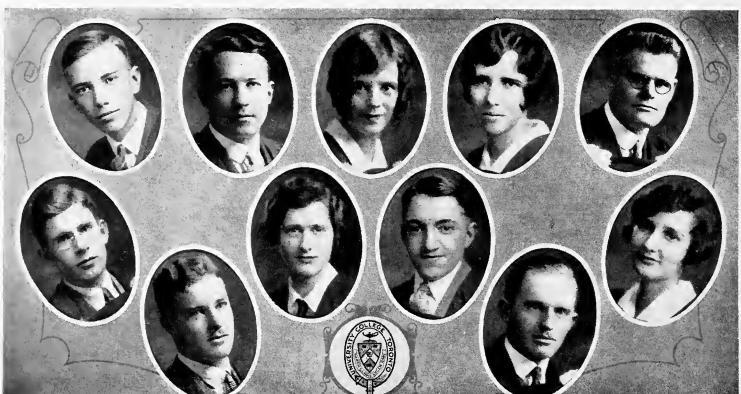

Yet, as we look back, we realize that although the limelight of publicity and fame may have settled upon us, the principal things have been the friendships formed, the continual enjoyment of four happy years and the conviction:

"Life's more amusing than we thought."

Commerce and Finance 2T8

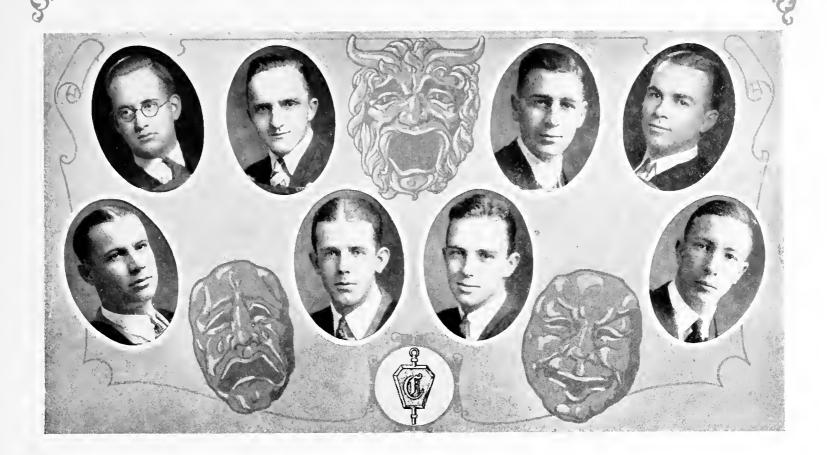

N this section is given a brief portrayal of the last stages in the academic career of the graduating year in Commerce and Finance. Reference must also be made to the Commerce Club, which has enjoyed one of its most successful years.

The Commerce Club has now passed its eighth milestone, being formed at the inauguration of the new course in Commerce and Finance. Its aim has been to bring together the Commerce students, of all the colleges, to further the interests of the Course, and to voice student opinion. The present popularity of the Course, notwithstanding the high rate of mortality in the merry month of May, is a sufficient indication of the success of these hopes.

In the Fall of 1924 some seventy-odd students took their place in the first freshman class to enter the new home of the course at Baldwin House. The hardships were great, and many succumbed to Actuarial Science and Economic Geography. The survivors, their convictions greatly strengthened by another hectic year, began to harbour a feeling of immunity. This presumption was rudely shattered by the inroads of Economics and Actuarial Science. The Junior year was more successful and safely weathered a storm of bewilderment in the realm of public finance, banking and foreign exchange. Although the graduating year sets no record in point of numbers, tribute must be paid to its industry and capabilities as displayed in all fields of activity.

Commerce men have always played a prominent part in College activities, and 2T8 has been no exception. Their achievements have been many and varied, but record of these will be found elsewhere in this volume. Suffice it to mention here "Al" Christie and Fred Dundas, who have given their best, both in athletics and various executive positions.

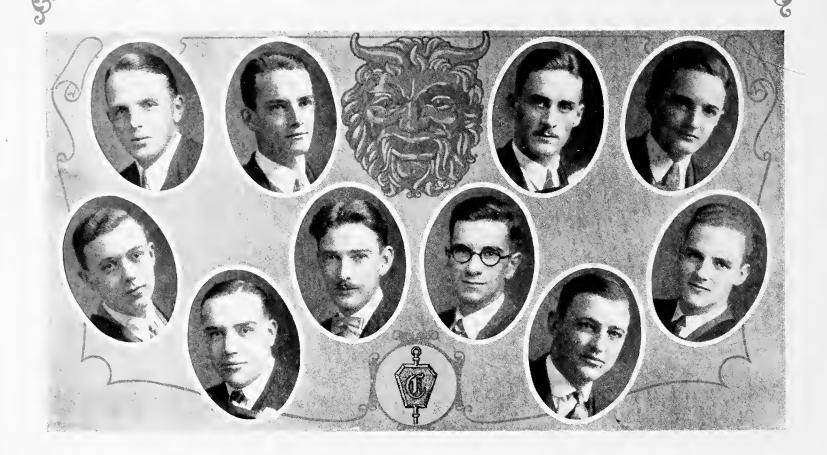

And now we stand ready and willing to accept our responsibilities in the complex organization of the modern business world.

Victoria 2T8 Class History

THINK it was our old friend Bill Shakspeare who once made a memorable remark concerning prophets and false prophets. Some of those prophets have come around Victoria College in the past and had the audacity to claim that 2T-something Victoria as a freshman year was hailed the best ever and that they easily lived up to the advance notices.

etc., etc. Therefore let us put all these vain babblings to rest and declare that once and for all the class purporting to graduate in the spring of 1928 heads the long list of aspirants for the title of best class, and that the maximum has been reached. Three conclusive arguments are advanced: (1) excellent freshman material to start with, strengthened by more excellent fresh-sophs and further strengthened by most excellent recruits from 2T7; (2) ditto; (3) the same.

But to continue the History in true biographical manner, let us say: Hike to the Humber (1); Dance at the Apollo Club (1); Get-together party at Central Y.M.C.A. (1); Hike to the Humber (2); Dinner Dance at the Brown Betty (2); Skating Party (2); Boat Trip to Queenston (3); Party at Annesley (3); Toboggan Party at Islington (3); Girls' Party to Boys, Characters from Books (3); Hike to Scarboro' (4); Dinner Dance at the Piccadilly (4); Boys entertain girls, a Kids' Party (4); Senior Dinner (4).

Meds 2T8 Class History

ATE in September, 1922, some hundred ambitious students made known their intentions to become famous in the Hippocratic calling. Modesty restrained more than feebly voiced words such as "surgeon", "research" and the upper classmen, in public spirited fashion, undertook to administer the first clinic in humility. So fair heads, black heads and red heads were adorned by ill-fitting straw hats, and necks and hats wide red ribbon. It was ignominy. Yet it served its purpose serving as a with wide red ribbon. It was ignominy. Yet it served its purpose, serving as a badge of recognition in the peaceful pursuit of acquaintances among the year and in the less amorous pursuit, combined rebellion against the sophs. Then initiation, how feared, anticipated, enjoyed that way—actually! Retrospect is even kinder and may perhaps gild the experience too gaudily. But no one would have missed it willingly for once initiated we were real Meds, Meds of 2T8. That year belonged to an almost mythical future. Time passed and with the inimitable Al Young as president the year was well led. A successful dance at Apollo Hall relieved the tedium of labs with rabbits, scales and things practical, such as difference of potential. From that first hectic, tumultuous year we had sincere and remarkable friends in the office. How the Misses Jones, Russell and Perry found time to remember each of us and all our worries no one will ever know. Perhaps some day they will disclose the secret. Meanwhile and always they have our kind regards and best wishes. Spring came and our first taste of examinations at University.

The second year, gathered under the presidency of Menzies McMurray, somewhat depleted in numbers as a result of the casualties of the spring. With all due rites and ritual the frosh were initiated in the lately razed "little Gym". What tales its dingy walls could have told! Soon the soph-frosh banquet at Rectar's renewed our intimacy with 2T9 under somewhat inauspicious circumstances. However, a howling time was had by all. Long hours of Anatomy; this was atmosphere indeed and closer to our ideas of the study of Medicine. A lively fracas with the freshmen in the Anatomy Building basement will long be remembered. Notes littered the floor and long after the owners sought among the strewn leaves lost lectures. Then came another outlet for pent-up energy in the muddy days of March. This time the ancient foes, Meds and S.P.S., united to demolish the Arts election parade. Before the gates of U.C., before an admiring crowd of co-eds, men struggled for supremacy. The muddy flower beds and soft turf made falling soft and soiled. It was a glorious fight. The year closed auspiciously at a post examination banquet at the Hotel Mossop.

The illustrious Tom Belt held the guiding helm of presidency in our third year. That was a period of labs, frogs, turtles, bacteria and vague chemicals provided for our experimentation and learning. The budding theatrical genius brought to light the year before at Daffydil Night blossomed forth at this year's performance. O. A. Kilpatrick made an enduring name for himself, and though the favoured prize was missed at least the competition was close. Between the close of this term and the next Fall we lost one of our original members in the tragic death of Jerry Wood, who was drowned while on a canoe trip. His modest ways and sterling worth had made him esteemed by all. It was a pleasure and privilege to have known him.

As an executive "Kil" proved to be as capable as an actor filling the chief office of our fourth year. This was our first contact with hospital work, and that privilege came at a time when stimulus to relieve the purely academical studies was needed. The B. and M. students joined us, adding 20 illustrious persons to our sadly thinned ranks. A combined party with 2T7 at the Palais Royal provided the social splurge of the year and a highly successful event it was. Then came Daffydil and an opportunity for our playwrights and actors. This time achievement crowned long efforts and the prized cup was won. A large measure of the success is due to the work and genius of Mel Campbell and "Kil". It was a cherished victory.

The president elect by our fifth year, Mel Campbell, unfortunately found it necessary to stay out a year, so we were bereft of his worthy leadership. Mac-Master, elected in his place, filled the office with expediency and efficiency. His genial personality bridged more than one stream of difficulties. Long hours of lectures and clinics filled the time to overflowing, but each day brought more intimable contact with the object of our studies. Again, the harsh days of Spring, when all the world should be light-hearted, for examinations confined 2T8 to long hours of toil. The regrettable death of one of our members, Miss Mary Cairo, came as a distinct shock early in the summer. In her early passing Medicine lost a student of promise, and the year suffered the loss of an admired member.

The president of our final year was J. R. Robertson. "Robby" arranged an excellent graduation dance and banquet, and in all filled his office with utmost perfection. "Doc" Willensky won the Ellen Mickle Fellowship, well deserving this the highest scholarship. The Medical Journal, under the editorship of Carswell, Kendrick and Coutts, maintained its excellent standard. Tom Belt as president of the Medical Society filled his rôle with the high degree of tact and ability that fortune has endowed him. The year goes out with an enviable record. In athletics there are eighteen first "T" holders, representing every branch of sport in the University. The executive positions of the University have numbered many men from 2T8. Soon we shall be separated from all this.

Of the hundred odd who started there are left only fifty-three of the originals. The number graduating totals an hundred and eight made up by the addition of fifteen B. and M. students, many from the West and others from previous years for one reason or another. These now pass quickly from the protected world of college walls. The days of demanded work are over. The outside world urges no man to work but judges from results. Those who would find success must form their own stimulus for in the test of competition there are no "supps", no second chance.

What the future holds no man can foretell and few care to prophesy. Soon now we shall be dispersed to the four corners of the earth never to meet again as a total unit. As time passes those who "follow knowledge like a sinking star, beyond the utmost bound of human thought", shall find unknown causes, formulate new theories, and add to the store of scientific facts. Their names we shall hear of hence. Those for whom the passing years holds but the realization that their less spectacular work is well done have their reward. At the end of six long years we have the reward of hope; and at our parting from happy companions on the path to this prospect let us say with Cassius:

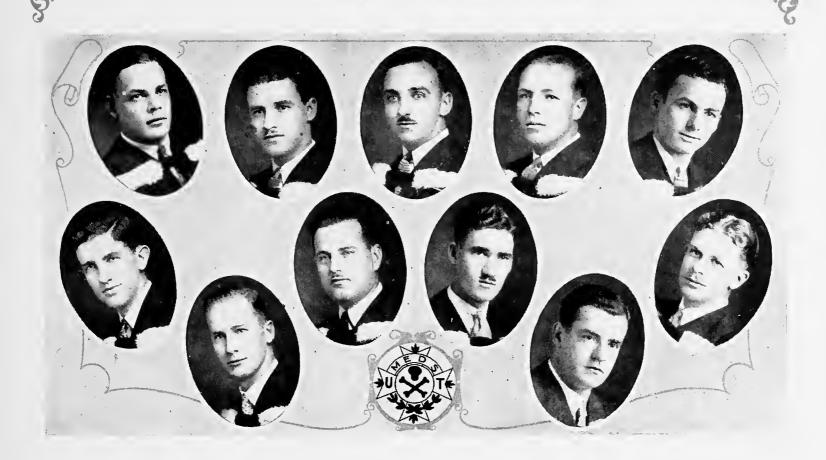

"If we do meet again we'll smile indeed;
If not, 'tis true this parting was well made."

Medical 2T8 "T" Holders

- "Bob" LAIRD—Has been very prominent in the last few years in rowing circles, a member of the Senior Crew for the past two years, and President of the Rowing Club, 1927-28.
- "Cy" Robertson—Packs a mean left and climbed to the top of the boxing game by winning the 135 lb. boxing championship for four years in succession.
- "BEER" RYKERT—A tower of strength on the line, of the Senior Intercollegiate Rugby Team since 1924. Although he had his knee injured two years ago he stuck right at the game and was always on the job when needed.
- "WHITEY" MASTER—At first on the line of the Senior Intercollegiate Rugby Team in 1923, later moved to snap position where he did valuable work. President of the Rugby Club, 1927-28. Athletic Stick Man, 1928.
- HAGAR HETHRINGTON—Only a fish when in the water, a valuable asset to the Intercollegiate Water Polo Team, and prominent in swimming circles.
- Ross Tilley—Also of swimming fame; played water polo for Meds and then moved up to Intercollegiate Team.
- BILL RIRIE—For many years prominent on Intercollegiate Soccer Team. Has done much to keep this sport in a prominent place in the Faculty as well as playing on University teams.
- "Debb" Hoare—May be small, but when he gets in the rear seat of a shell he has them all scared. As Coxswain of the Varsity Senior Crew, "Debb" has become a great favourite.
- "KIL" KILPATRICK—Is known not only in Medicine but throughout the University. Since his freshman year has worked hard and accomplished much to put lacrosse on the map in University sport.

Applied Science 2T8 Class History

N the early days of October, 1924, a new ship was launched on the college sea of Engineering, manned by 114 green, but ambitious freshmen. Yes, we were green, and of there was any cause for doubt, our ties stood out as waving sentinels of the fact—the sophs persuaded us that it paid to advertise. With this noble crew of embryo engineers, our first task was to find a captain. After a diligent and careful search Jack Annesley was elected to the helm.

Slowly as the initiations passed and "we learned about the tap" the well-known "School Spirit" was instilled into our ranks. We realized that we had no small reputation and honour to uphold in the ideals set for us by our predecessors. With these high ambitions we found many of our men taking part in all forms of activities, both for the University and the Faculty.

During our first year vacation the tragic death of Douglas Blight, while assisting on a crane which was wrecked, came as a great shock to us all. His sterling worth and personality had placed him as one of the leaders of our year, and his friends were many although his time with us was so short.

Our second cruise under the helmsmanship of Morley Lazier lead us into many strange but interesting waters. As we approached the customary port of "rough stuff" initiations, the clouds were heavy and a grave storm was threatening, we could not have docked; we sailed on and received our freshmen in a very formal and ritualistic manner. Thus once again School-men took the lead and created new precedents where such were necessary.

The Junior School Dance proved to be the best in years. Despite the many kindly words of warning predicting unsurmountable difficulties and large deficits at even the thought of such swank-Romanelli and the King Edward, nevertheless, we finished with a surplus and left a record for history.

The most perilous voyage of all, especially from an academic standpoint, was navigated under the skippership of Bill Duncan. Although labs were many and spare periods unthought of, there was still time for social and athletic activities throughout the year. The customary stag social evening was held, where all members of 2T8 enjoyed a large evening of diversities. First there was a dinner and smoker at Hart House. This was followed by a very enjoyable theatre party with a light supper afterwards. There was not a dull moment in the whole evening. Even during the intermissions, the rest of the audience, as well as ourselves, were kept in the best of spirits by the rousing strains of Henry VIII or other such classics of School.

The idea of a year dance which had been lying dormant at School for many years was resurrected by our executive and an exceptionally good time was had by all. This fact is very evident in the popularity that similar dances have achieved since that time.

The prominence of our athletic achievements can hardly be doubted when we find at the end of our third year four senior intercollegiate captains being chosen from our ranks to pilot their respective teams during their fourth year.

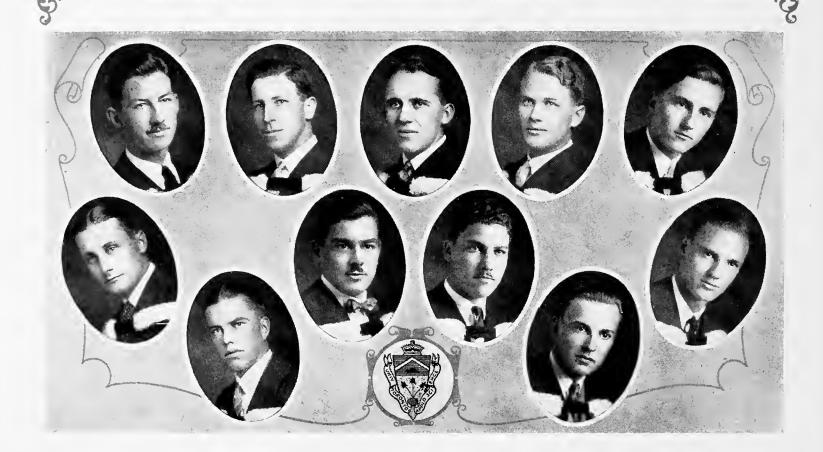

As the good ship 2T8 sailed out for its fourth and last great voyage there was a jolly crew aboard. What a send-off we had in the celebrations of the University Centenary and the Semi-Centennial of the School of Science! Fourth year men were in charge everywhere, with all School behind them to the man. Floats for the undergraduate parade gradually took form under the guidance of experienced designers who spent the summer shaping ideas and arranging for even the smallest details. Dances, dinners and all other forms of social activities were arranged and carried out with the success that always accompanies School functions. The General Centenary Committee for the University looked to Fourth Year School for no small portion of its executive ability. Morley Lazier, "Babe" Smith, "B" Hunt and many others, put their time and effort towards making the whole celebration a series of outstanding and unique events, with success the overwhelming feature of all.

The athletic abilities of our last year, add an unparalleled climax to four years of ever increasing prominence. "Fran" Trimble well deserved the honour and responsibility entrusted to him as captain of the Varsity Rugby Squad. Every team can not be Intercollegiate Champions, but they can all make a worthy effort and the true Varsity ending to a hard luck start surely demonstrates that captain and men were in it to the finish. Jim MacKenzie, as captain of the Track Team, personally took no small part in bringing the team to a victorious title. We also state with a great deal of pride that Jim won the Interfaculty meet for us, that is, he obtained more points himself than any other faculty. Many sports have tried to claim Herb Kirkpatrick, but he apparently made no mistake when he chose hockey for his major one. When it comes to fostering a minor sport into prominence a School man is sure to be right there, thus we find Bob Battye the chief of them all with his "jolly old ruggah".

Not only in athletics have we obtained distinction, but in all departments of undergraduate activities. Bill Duncan, Gord Adamson and Morley Lazier, an overwhelming undergraduate representation on the Board of Stewards, Hart House, will serve to illustrate that 2T8 has done its part.

The last great reef began to appear and in the dim distance we saw the port of our expectations—Graduation. We dropped anchor, and while awaiting the tide of fortune to waft us into port we cheered our souls with music and with merriment. Our Graduation Dance was the crowning climax to our social events, and as such will long be remembered.

Thus we have sailed through four years of troubled waters and calm seas. Some better sailors than others but in all a metamorphosis has taken place. Lives have been molded and characters made. The timid school-boy now realizes his possibilities as a man. He is endowed with the "Spirit of School"—a spirit of fair play and co-operation. With these qualities we square our shoulders and face the world as Engineers to bring honour to our University and Faculty from the four corners of the earth. Our interests will become diversified, but never shall we lose the influence and friendships made behind the doors of the "Little Red School-house".

RADUATION brings with it a sort of mental stock-taking. What have the past two years meant to us? What have we learned of technique and of ideals which will fit us to serve in the broader field of human needs? Have our two years as undergraduates in the University of Toronto been worth while?

In prospect, to most of us, busied over longer or shorter periods in some other profession, these two years seemed on the one hand a bore—an obstacle to be surmounted with as little effort as possible; on the other, a glorious opportunity to forget grown-up worries and to return to our student days of care-free irresponsibility. In retrospect, how different is the field of vision! Now we see evolving through lecture and reading, through field-work and conference, the social point of view, the case-work concept, the technique which is our tool in building human personality; and hand-in-hand with the acquisition of this wisdom, has come the humility which realizes our privilege of sharing in the development of an exploited childhood, a happier family life, a more loyal citizenship in this our "Promised Land."

The past two years have crystallized our hazy desires to help, and have given us the means of doing it. With such a vision and such tools we stand at the gateway to the future. We who are about to live—salute you.

INTER-COLLEGIATE

OLLEGIATE A

HE high objective set by the Athletic Directorate of the University of Toronto, designed for the development of the student mentally and physically and for the maintenance of the ever present spirit of loyalty to "Alma Mater" evinced by undergraduates, participators and onlookers alike, has been well maintained throughout the season of 1927 and 1928.

Too many are ready to gauge the worth of a season's activities by the measure of its success on grid-iron or hockey cushion, and although during the past eight months we have annexed more than our share of intercollegiate championships, we consider the spirit exhibited in adversity representative of true sportsmanship.

Pre-season opinion credited us with having a Senior Rugby Team as strong, if not stronger, than the championship team of 1926, but Queen's and McGill both came forward with exceptionally strong teams, and dashed our hopes of victory to the ground. In spite of the high quality of the oppositions we managed to come out on the long end of the score in two out of four games.

The Senior O.R.F.U. Team, under the able leadership of Les. Pearson, again vindicated their existence by their clever play and fighting spirit. Although not ultimate winners, they forced every game to the finish, and once tied the Canadian Championship Balmy Beach Team.

The Intermediates were more fortunate than usual, winning two out of four games.

Followers of the Junior Series witnessed the fine football that can be played by the youngsters, who, under the excellent coaching of Jimmy Douglas, once more brought home the Intercollegiate title.

For the third time in twelve years the trophy for track and field events remained in Toronto. Invading foreign fields the Varsity teams met and handily defeated their old rivals at the Richardson Memorial Stadium of Queen's University in a meet full of sensational performances, the McGill teams affording the only serious competition. Great credit is due the fine coaching staff.

The Harrier Team also invaded Kingston and walked off with the honours.

The Intercollegiate Golf Tournament, inaugurated in 1923, was held this year on the Rosedale Course, Toronto. The Varsity team, under Captain Jim Sihles, defeated their McGill rivals in a closely contested match.

The Senior Basketball Team fulfilled our expectations by winning the title for the first time in some years.

The Oarsmen did fairly well at the Canadian Henley. They won their heat, but were eliminated by the crew that eventually took the laurels.

The Swimming Team repeated their performance of last year and retained the cup for Varsity. The Water Poloists were unfortunately defeated by McGill.

The Tennis Team took a fall out of McGill. The fine play of Nunns, a Davis Cup player, featured their victory.

The English Rugger Team lost to McGill in a closely contested game. Unfortunately popular interest in this fine game seems to be lacking.

The Lacrosse Team made its annual trip to the States, and was fairly successful.

McGill again succeeded in winning the soccer title, but our material shows great promise for next year.

All in all, Varsity has had a very successful year in Intercollegiate Sport.

Senior Intercollegiate Rugby Team

NOTHER season has passed and the remnants of great expectations for Varsity's Senior gridiron representatives are now but clouds of disappointment. The hopes fostered by such an array of stars as one surveyed well on to a hundred huskies performing conditioning exercises on the back campus last September were dashed to the ground.

As they appeared on paper the Blue supporters had every right in the world to hope great things for their team of stalwarts. They ranked in their line-up old veterans, stars of many a hard fought gridiron battle. Names like Trimble, Sinclair, Al. Young and Murray Snider are ones to conjure with in Canadian football. Besides these a great many new stars had appeared in the Blue sky. Al. Stollery, husky middle wing from U.T.S., bids fair to surpass his brother Howard, which is some feat as Howard Stollery is one of the best line men of all time in Canadian football. Don Traynor, the Western flash of Regina Pats' fame, made the fans sit up and take notice when he started tackling. When he hits men they almost break in half. There were also several other promising new comers—Harrison, a rangy half back; Duncan, a smart outside wing; and Hallam, a quarterback.

This year, contrary to custom, the historic game with the "Old Boys" was dispensed with to the disappointment of a great many fans. This game was always a great drawing card, especially for the older fans, who delighted in seeing the heroes of yester year come forth to battle once more. And they doubtless would appreciate very much if this traditional game was renewed again next year.

One Thirty-six

The first game of the season was an exhibition affair with Argonauts. In spite of the appalling heat the students stepped right into the heavier scullers, and at half time were leading 10 to 0. In the second half, much to the surprise of the fans, the students, supposedly in much better condition than the Argo men, began to fade, and before they knew it the Oarsmen had a small lead, which they managed to retain until the end of the game. The week following this game was a strenuous one for the teams, as they were put through some heavy conditioning work with the Orphans. This hard work bore fruit the following Saturday when the Blue team met the Royal Military College outfit and easily came out on the long end of a 42 to 1 score.

The crucial moment was now at hand. Varsity was ready to put to the test the results of a month's hard work and the dreams of a year. The initial intercollegiate clash was with our old rival, Queen's. The Blue team, full of hope and confidence, travelled to Kingston and engaged the Tricolour in a mighty tussle. The results of that battle are now ancient history. It was a close game, but to the great disappointment of all loyal Torontonians. Queen's came through with a win. On the following Saturday Varsity received another crushing blow, this time at the hands of McGill. We must give credit where credit is due, and the Red men certainly deserved this victory. They played brilliant football, and the work of St. Germaine and Little was wonderful to see. Nothing daunted by these two heavy blows, the Blue team stuck to their guns and practised faithfully for the two weeks before their next game with Queen's. By this time they had given up all hope of winning the Championship, but they could still avenge their two defeats by winning over Queen's in Toronto and over McGill in Montreal. And this they proceeded to do. It seemed to be a different team altogether which met Queen's in the third game and easily defeated them. This same team, apparently now imbued with a new spirit, did exactly the same thing to McGill in Montreal in the final game of the season. They met McGill and readily defeated them, thus winding up the season of '27-'28 in a blaze of glory and thoroughly avenging the first two disastrous games of the season.

Throughout this whole campaign France Trimble once more stood in the limelight. It is comparatively easy to fight joyously when your team is winning, but France was always on the attack, even when the odds were all against him. Indeed this is the whole history of the team. Each man gave his best. They were glorious even in defeat.

Sinclair formed the other half of a brilliant backfield. His kicking was a treat to watch, and his catching and running were always fast and tricky.

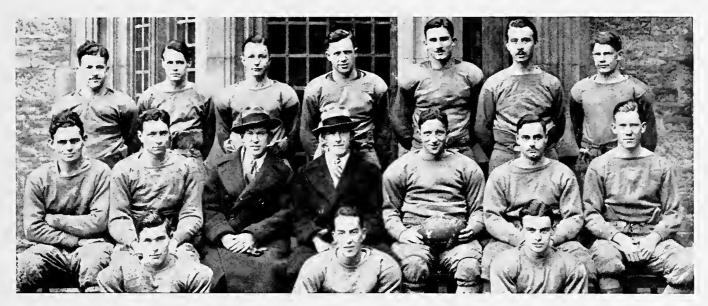

At the foot of this page is a picture of one of the high lights of the season, Traynor, a new man, after bucking through the whole Queen's line as well as the secondary defence, is going over the line for a touch. It is a unique picture, also, because it caught the famous "Red" Batstone in a very unusual and unbecoming position while Baldwin looks helplessly on.

The companion pictures on page one forty-two will delight those who are interested in the tactics of great games. The one picture shows the protection the Queen's kick-formation gave to Batstone's kicking. The rest of his team are well down. The other picture shows Sinclair getting his kick away.

Graduation once more removes a great many famous and favourite players. Some of these have been four years with the team and have carried the Varsity spirit through many a hard-fought battle.

Senior O.R.F.U. Team

ARSITY'S outstanding team this year, strange to say, was their Second Senior Team playing in the O.R.F.U. series. Although they were the ultimate champions the series was a nip and tuck affair, with Balmy Beach, the Canadian Senior Champions, eventually winning the cup by one game.

The first game of the season against Balmy Beach was a 12 all tie, much to the surprise of the fans, who hadn't conceded Varsity any chance at all. The next two games, with Hamilton Tigers at home and away, were easy for the Orphans. Then they stacked up against the Camp Borden Team, the black horse of the series, and overcame them rather easily. The second game with Camp Borden was a real battle. The Harding men were out to do or die, but this game meant everything to the Blue team, so they came through with a win. The O.R.F.U. Team had been getting really good crowds at all their games, and, as was expected, the final game with Balmy Beach was played before a capacity crowd. The game Blue team put up a great but losing fight with a team which outweighed them about fifteen pounds per man, and it was admitted by all that they died hard.

The team was again coached by Les Pearson, whose earnest efforts were a decided asset in moulding together such a smart aggregation. But we must also consider that the O.R.F.U. team ranked among its players men like McIntyre, Geordie Beal and Gay Kirkpatrick, all sensational halfbacks who would certainly have been starring in the Senior Intercollegiate series had they been eligible to The squad was well balanced and strong in all departments, but more particularly in their half-line offensive play.

This team developed a number of good players, who should all go well with the Senior Intercollegiate Team next fall under the very able leadership of Les Blackwell.

The Varsity Intermediate Rugby Team

NE more season has passed and for the first time in many years we are able to say that the Blue Intermediates have had a fairly successful season. They managed to win two out of fours games, outclassing Osgoode Hall, and O.A.C., and losing to Western University and St. Michael's College in two very interesting games.

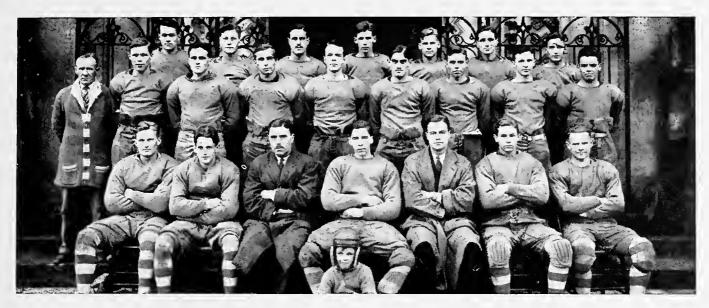

This year the Intermediates, contrary to custom, received a little more attention from the powers that be. They were outfitted with modern new uniforms instead of the old wrecks which they had been forced to wear the year before, and which had made them look like a team of the "Gay Nineties" instead of the third team of Canada's foremost University.

The added attention had the desired effect of obtaining a fairly large turn out, and with Coach Bartlett on hand early in the season things looked promising for a successful Intermediate year. Manager Schofield was a hard and faithful worker, and much credit is due him. Jimmy Johnson was the popular choice for captain, and deservedly so as he was an exceedingly good half back, and a likeable lad, which are two essential requisites for a football captain.

The above mentioned men kept the team down to hard work all season, and it wasn't their fault that the team didn't walk off with the Intermediate Championship.

Junior Rugby Team--Intercollegiate Champions

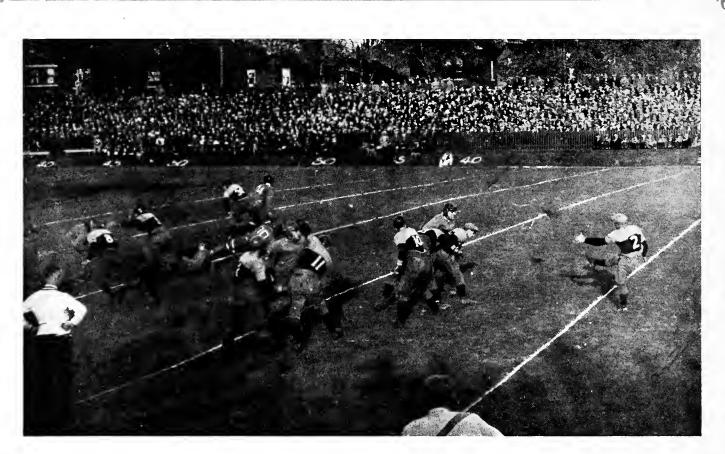

LTHOUGH it may seem rather a far-fetched idea, Varsity's Senior football battles are in reality won on the back campus, the stamping ground of the Blue Juniors. The backbone of the Big Blue team always consists of ex-junior players, men who have learned their football, and acquired their Varsity fighting spirit playing in the Junior Intercollegiate series. Even head coach Les Blackwell started his football coaching career on the time-honoured back campus, when he coached the Blue Juniors of four years ago to the first of their long string of consecutive championships.

This year a willing and hard-working crowd of youngsters were fashioned into a smart aggregation of hard tackling, clever ball, handlers by the astute coaching of Jimmie Douglas, whose ability may be estimated by the fact that at the beginning of the season the smart Junior Team was just a mass of green. unknown players. Jimmie Douglas, by the way, has quite deservedly been promoted to the position of Assistant Coach on the Senior Team. We predict great things for the team of 1928 with two such men as Douglas and Blackwell on its coaching staff. To get back to the Junior Team again, much of the credit is due the boys themselves, however, and their natural ability they turned to good advantage and played as reliable and ingenious football as has been witnessed by senior teams of a high calibre.

These men will be heard from in future years, so note their names and faces.

University of Toronto Track Club

Intercollegiate Champions, 1927

OR the third consecutive year the much-prized Intercollegiate Track trophy was successfully defended by the Varsity team. Victory came as the result of a great effort put forth by an All-Star team, which left McGill far behind in second place, with Queen's in third position. When the last event was finished it found the U. of T. team with twice as many points to its credit, this their closest rivals. As far as Toronto was concerned it was perhaps a new record in the history of Intercollegiate Track competition, for every man on the team returned a point winner. Five new faces added to the strength of the team, namely, those of Fitzpatrick, German, Crosby, Bladwin and Smith. It will be rather hard to fill the place vacated by Capt.

McKenzie who, in graduating, takes with him "Al" Christie, "Wally" Graham, "Bob" Crosby and P. R. Baldwin. The records of these men should long remain in the minds of the followers of this sport.

'Harley" Russell had just recovered from a pulled tendon which he received during Interfaculty competition and showed true sportsmanship when, through uncertainty as to whether he could finish the 100 yard dash, gave way to "Cam" Mabee. Harley has had the honour of winning both the sprint events for the last two years. However, his place was well filled by "Johnny" Fitzpatrick of Hamilton Collegiate fame, who equalled the record of 10 secs. flat, for the century dash. "Cam" Mabee ran a close second. "Fitz" is being watched with much interest as he is expected to make the Canadian Olympic Team of 1928. Again in the 220 yd. dash Fitzpatrick showed the way home, but was closely pressed by "Al" Christie, Canadian quarter miler on the Olympic Team of 1924.

In the meantime "Jack" Davenport and Hugh Crawford were fighting it out with Willy Consiglio of McGill for the pole vault honours, which resulted in a first for Jack and a third for Crawford. This gave Varsity a five point lead which was never lost or in doubt throughout the meet.

"Bob" Crosby grabbed the discus with such determination that, when he saw what his team-mates were doing he scored a victory for himself. It was a mighty fine effort on his part. "Bill" Finlayson scored an added point as he placed third.

RUSSELL

The spirit of victory was catching for "Freddy" McTaggart, after being behind on his first two throws of the javelin, made a mighty fine effort and hurled the spear beyond the old record distance. The new mark was disallowed owing to a strong wind blowing from the rear and favouring too much the conditions for throwing of the javelin.

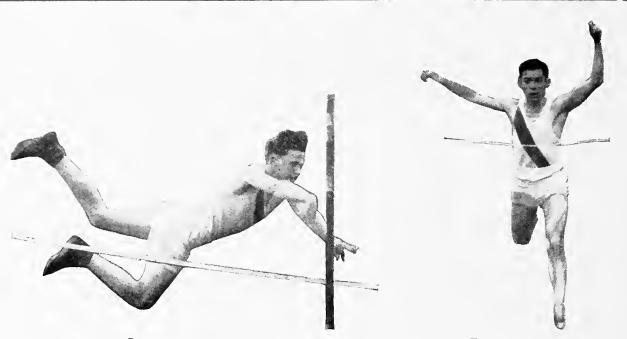

Much interest was shown in the half-mile event owing to close competition. "Mo" Mitchell, Canadian mile champion, and also of Intercollegiate basketball fame, took the lead to score another victory. He not only scored one for himself but he so encouraged his team-mate "Gord" Jermyn, to turn the tables on "Bobby" Thompson of Queen's, who was at one time Ontario half-mile champion.

"Mo" Mitchell redemonstrated his class when he took the mile event, but only after a hard fight against "Jack" Walters, also of Varsity, who was always close up on "Mo".

All this time Capt. "Jim" McKenzie was competing in the broad jump, shot put and high and low hurdles, and when he finished many more victories were added to those previously scored. "Jack" Marshall had rather hard luck when in his high hurdle event "Jim" McKenzie upset one of his hurdles, which fell in "Jack's" lane and almost caused a sprained ankle. Coach "Frank" Halbus found a new athlete in "Pete" Smith, whom he took from the sprints and started to teach the art of hurdling. "Pete" showed the results of good coaching when in his first Intercollegiate race he gained third position.

R. M. MITCHELL AND BURN

FITZPATRICK

In the three mile event Wally Graham ran a beautiful race to take first place and although on a slow track he finished within a few seconds of the record. R. Baldwin, of the Varsity Harrier Team, won himself honour by placing second.

The big day for the Blue team ended with Al. Christie winning the quarter-mile dash for his third consecutive year. "Sandy" Somerville at the start of the race dropped back to last position in an effort to avoid a strong back stretch wind, but found himself too far behind at the 220 yd. mark and striking his stride sprinted hard to finish his race in third place. It was a fine effort and had it started earlier might have resulted in a second.

On the following Saturday the Intercollegiate Relay Race was run off at halftime at the Queen's-Varsity Rugby Match.

Johnny Fitzpatrick opened the race and passed the baton onto Sandy Somerville, going a thirty yard lead, who opened up a similar distance for "Mo" Mitchell, who ran in third position, and gave. "Al" Christie a good lead which he increased and finished over one hundred yards in front of the McGill rivals. On a small soft track, and with a strong wind blowing down the back stretch, the Varsity team were only $1\frac{1}{5}$ secs. behind the new Canadian record set by the Varsity Four of 1926.

CTOBER twenty-ninth saw the second Interfaculty Harrier Meet run over the new course at Upper Canada College. Ninety-five aspirants to fame faced the starter. Wally Graham again led the field home, capturing the Brotherton Cup for the individual championship for the fourth successive time. He was closely pressed by Banks of O.A.C., who led his team to victory for the fifth successive year in the team prize. Meds were again second and Trinity a close third. (The first eight runners finished in the order mentioned: Graham, Dents; Banks, O.A.C.; Crozier, O.C.E.; McLennan, Meds; Cowan, O.A.C.; Kerr, O.A.C.; Baldwin, Trinity;

Grffin, O.A.C.)

The Intercollegiate Meet held the following Saturday saw several veterans in action. Varsity was represented by Graham, Mitchell, Crozier and Baldwin of last year's team, and McLennan, a Med. freshman. "Mo" Mitchell was included on the team on his past record, being unable to compete in the Interfaculty. It is fitting that in his final year Wally Graham should once more captain the team. He has been a member of the team ever since a freshman, and has been instrumental in bringing the championship to Varsity in four out of five years. He achieved the height of his career by winning the Intercollegiate Individual Championship for the first time. McLennan, the freshman from Meds, shows great promise. He displayed a wonderful finish, working himself up into third place. Mitchell was away below last year's form, when he beat Trenouth for first place but helped the team out with sixth place. Baldwin and Crozier settled the team championship by placing eighth and ninth respectively. Varsity retains the Little Cup for team competition by scoring 18 points. R.M.C. were second with 30. McGill and Queen's counted 35 and 76 points respectively. This year sees the passing of many who have been instrumental in maintaining Varsity's supremacy in this sport with five championships in six years. However, with prospects like McLennan and other developing stars, it is to be hoped that Varsity teams will continue to be sucessful in the future.

HE Swimming Team of 1927 won the title for the third successive year. As Coach Roy Lowndes was retiring at the end of the season, the boys were all eager to register a win for him. There were enough candidates turning out to make two teams and their times in trials were very good. The McGill squad, led by their veteran Clayton Bourne, was easily defeated by the Blue. From the start of the meet there was little as to the superiority of the Toronto "fish". Several records fell that doubt as to the superiority of the Toronto "fish". Several records fell that night. Johnny Goss broke two records himself, Fran Lorenzen hung up a new one and so did Clayton Bourne of McGill. The team was composed of the following: Captain Fran Lorenzen, Leo Latchford, Johnny Goss, Ross Thompson, Eddie Sinclair, Jack Gundy, Ted Keast, John Shortreed, Harold Nimmo, Urq Curtis.

This year the new coach, Fran Lorenzen, developed a strong team. The squad was again a large one and there was much doubt even in the Coach's mind as to who should make the trip to McGill. Munro Bourne, a Freshman at McGill, nearly proved the undoing of the Varsity team for he put up three new records himself. However, Varsity won the meet due to the all-round ability of the swimmers. On the other hand, the Red and White team was made up of two or three star performers. The victorious Blue team was made up of Captain John Goss, Leo Latchford, Ross Thompson, Eddie Sinclair, Bill Bertram, Jack Gundy, Don Gunn, Lloyd Boddy, H. C. Scott, Tommy Marsh.

A STATES

HE 1927 Polo Team brought the Championship to Toronto for the first time since the introduction of this sport to Intercollegiate circles—thirteen years ago. This was also Les Blackwell's last year as coach, and it was very gratifying to win in his last year. He has worked with the squad for several seasons, and last year saw the results of his work—the smoothest working polo machine that ever represented Varsity. They won the game here in Toronto by the score of 6-2, and in the return game ran up the larger score of 6-1. The team was made up of Captain Irv Lorenzen, Fran Lorenzen, Tommy Flommerfelt, Hagar Hetherington, Ross Tilley, Kel Spence, Thompson, Eddie Sinclair, John Shortreed.

The new coach, Paul Copeland, built up a very good team this year out of practically all new material. The team worked well together and in practice showed fine form in passing, shooting and swimming. In Montreal the Blue team, playing a defensive game, held McGill to a 3-2 victory, expecting to out-swim and outscore McGill in the larger tank in Hart House. However, playing the Varsity style of game McGill won 4-1 in the return game. The team: Captain Hagar Hetherington, Wansborough, Sinclair, J. Walker, Leo Latchford, Johnny Goss, Ross Thompson, George Baker, Harvey Graham.

resignation of Connie Smythe, the mentor who had guided the destinies of Varsity hockey teams for four successive seasons, Professor "Mike" Pearson was appointed to the vacancy with "Jim" Robson as his assistant, and an early call brought forth a host of would-be material from which selections for two teams, senior and intermediate, were carefully made.

The expense of intercollegiate hockey forced Queen's to abandon the College series for a year, and the necessity for more games than those provided for in the series with McGill and the University of Montreal were factors that urged the Blue and White to once more enter the Ontario Hockey Association. With the addition of several "finds" the Pearsonites opened the S.P.A. season with a good victory over Marlboros, the only other senior entry in the O.H.A. from the city, but then succumbed to the Grads, but only after a real battle in which both teams were called upon to display high class form for so early in the season.

The annual Christmas trip to New York and Boston disclosed the fact that the American teams were either improving rapidly or else that the local students had not hit their actual stride when Harvard and Yale secured better than an even break for the first time in history. A win for McGill over Harvard indicated that the Montrealers were strong, and it was realized that Varsity would have to look to her laurels if she was to repeat for her tenth consecutive intercolelgiate title.

Prospects for the Blue looked black, indeed, when McGill took the opening tussle of the Intercollegiate season by using a superb defensive system at the Forum, Montreal. But hope was again aroused when a determined Varsity squad turned the tables on the Red and White here and eventually took the lead by beating the U. of M. in two straight games. Preparations were being completed for a sudden-death play-off game with McGill when the Flying Frenchmen sprang the biggest hockey surprise of many college seasons by beating McGill in the final game of the schedule and thus assuring the U. of T. of the title.

Meanwhile, with the situation gloomiest in the Intercollegiate, all was well in the O.H.A., the Blue having a commanding lead over Preston and Kitchener, nearest rivals for group leadership. Varsity finished the season two games in front of the second place Kitchener team, but the latter sprang another surprise when they won both games of the play-off series to oust Varsity from the running. The second game, in Toronto, was probably the best and most hard-fought to be seen on Toronto ice during the season, and it was freely said that the students proved themselves to be one of Varsity's greatest teams by winning much glory in defeat.

Having captured the district Intermediate O.H.A. title the preceding season the Blue Seconds appeared strong contenders for the title until a slump late in the season necessitated a play-off series with Newmarket. The latter finally won out by the smallest of margins and the students appeared to be out-lucked rather than out-played on the series. Improved after a rest Varsity entered the play-offs in the Intermediate Intercollegiate series, where they disposed of Western, western district winners 8-5, in a home-and-home series, and Loyola, eastern winners, 4-1 in a sudden-death game in Montreal, the Robsonites thus capturing the Intermediate title for Varsity for the first time within the recollection of the present undergraduate.

Wesley Richards and Herbert Kirkpatrick, two of the Senior's most experienced and brilliant performers, will be lost to the team through graduation, while Bob Crosby, Bill Park and Doug McKnight will be missing from the ranks of the Intermediates. The Senior Intercollegiate champions will have five proven performers back in the ranks in the persons of Mel Harley, Jimmie McMullen, Bill Stewart, "Red" Whitehead and Murray Snyder, and with these as a nucleus a fine team should again be rounded out for the season of 1928-29. With probable promotions to senior ranks the Seconds will have to be almost entirely rebuilt but, nevertheless, prospects are not dark for the coming season.

Frank Sullivan's Juniors were strong and were contenders throughout the greater part of the season, but Marlboros, ultimate O.H.A. winners, finally disposed of the Blue.

Despite incessant thaws and poor ice the Interfaculty series, under the management of Nixon T. Berry, was finally completed late in February, when Victoria disposed of the Dentals in the finals for the third successive season.

THE "GRADS"

PORTER

ORLD'S CHAMPIONS! Gratifying indeed to their many friends are the achievements of the Varsity Grads. Only a few short years ago this wonder team went down to a glorious defeat at the hands of the lads from Port Arthur in a heartbreaking struggle, loosing the Allan Cup after winning the Intercollegiate and O.H.A. titles. The following year they took the Cup for which they had struggled so hard the previous season, and this winter at St. Morritz captured the coveted Olympic Championship.

During their stay in Europe, the Crads gave many exhibitions of hockey as it should be played. The smooth combination, the wonderful exhibitons of goal tending, and the famous Porter rushes were "a new thrill" to the representatives of all countries gathered to see them, and they were even more appreciated abroad than at home.

All Toronto turned out to give a royal welcome to the victorious team on their return, and colourful and jubilant were scenes on the busy streets as the now world famous team paraded up to receive the official civic welcome.

Since their return many of the players have been offered contracts to join the ranks of the professionals, but it is doubtful that they will be accepted. College days, for most of them, are over, and the time to settle down to their chosen professions has arrived. Though we are sorry to see the breaking up of this wonderful team, they go forth to sterner battles with best wishes from all for the men who have done more than any others to spread the fame of the Blue and White.

U. of T. Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing Club

HE fourth time in succession Toronto boxers, wrestlers and fencers won the Intercollegiate Meet held in 1927 at McGill. The boxers, as usual, were the most fortunate in the matter of annexing the various championships, the fencers won handily, while two wrestlers became titleholders for the first time; Thompson, who was in the 118 lb. class last year, winning his second title at 123 lbs. As in 1926 the assault was closely contested with McGill and Queen's showing slight superiority in the mat division.

The Club commenced activities in January with the annual trip to Guelph. The Agricultural College, having no boxers on their roll, sent a well-trained team of wrestlers against Toronto, and, as has been their custom for the past few years, won a fair majority of these bouts. The Toronto men, however, put up strong and clever exhibitions against their opponents and several newcomers showed to advantage. This trip proves each year to be a great help to Varsity in that the team must be at amid-seson form to compete with the O.A.C. The wrestlers especially find that the succeeding meets are made comparatively comfortable for them, and because of the frequent defeats registered against Toronto men at Guelph, the newcomers have always a chance to make a place on the team, edge is given to competition, and every man has to be continually out and in condition.

The West Point meet, soon following, gave the boxers each a hard battle, but this division of the team won 4 of the seven bouts quite handily. Two fresh-

McClennan at 135 lbs., who were taking the place of Fidler and Robertson, put on excellent exhibitions of hard punching and ability to "take it," each winning their first Intercollegiate bout in a hard battle. Carrick. as usual, won the heavy bout with ease. wrestlers, benefited by the O.A.C. trip, gave the Army men much opposition but did not succeed in winning the majority of their bouts. With only a few weeks in which to round off training, candidates for the Intercollegiate team turned out in force and prepared for the Interfaculty assault-at-arms held immediately before this trip. Many new men sought places so that both boxers and wrestlers did not lack in practice bouts. The fencers attracted a large number of candidates to their duelling room, and judging by results later on, drilled them rapidly in the finer points of the art of fence.

O.A.C. again won the Davidson Cup emblematic of the Interfaculty Championship in boxing and wrestling, their mat men turning this trick for them once more. The boxing bouts were chiefly featured by Wilton's win over Jackson in the 145 lb. class and Ken Fidler's victory over Kirkland. Both bouts were marked by their heavy hitting and by the gameness of the contestants. But Wilton gave the spectators an exhibition of cool, heady boxing in addition, thus defeating a stronger opponent who had previously won from him twice, by knockouts. Reggy Hill, 126 lbs., and Robertson, 135 lbs., both intercollegiate titleholders of last year, won their events without difficulty. Of the wrestlers Calnan, Thompson and Galsky appeared to be the most likely to win at McGill and made very credible showings against experienced men.

In Montreal the team was prepared for heavy opposition by glowing advance notices from the two other contesting teams. Queen's, in particular, presented a formidable array of experienced talent in their wrestlers, while McGill, with a fair sprinkling of football men among their boxers, appeared to have a good chance in this division. The preliminaries, however, left Toronto with a man in all but 5 of the 16 bouts for the finals. These latter proved very close for the most part, and until late on in the evening McGill were close on the heels of Toronto. The Varsity boxers for the most part won their contests easily, Robertson winning his fourth consecutive title, Carrick and Fidler their third each. Jack Beer started the wins by his defeat of Schlieffer, McGill's performer in the 112 lbs. class since '22. His hard punching, clean boxing and condition were too much for his more shafty opponent. Raney, who won for Varsity 2 years ago, again defeated Brain, another McGill old-timer. In spite of his years of rest Al. possessed all his former punching ability and speed. The lightweight class was again won by H. F. Robertson, whose long range and usual combination of fast punching with clever defence gave him the verdict without much trouble, although his Queen's opponent had come billed as their one certain winner by a K.O. Ken Fidler also won once more in a thrilling slug fest with Hughes, McGill's football halfback. These men have fought before and this was Hughes' chance of revenging his former defeat. As in former contests, he extended himself to the limit, but Fidler's greater strength and endurance enabled him to both outbox and outbattle his man. Carrick met another football player in Taylor of McGill. This bout lasted scarcely one minute, Carrick drawing his man into an open position and driving a hard right to the jaw. Taylor vainly endeavoured to continue, but another well-placed blow finished the contest which had been, while it lasted, full of clever boxing by Carrick, who finally tricked his heavier opponent into leaving an opening for one brief moment.

The fencers won the team championship handily by some clever work on the part of Campbell and Parkinson against McGill's best foil men. Of the wrestlers Thompson, Galsky and Calnan brought championships to Toronto. These wins were well deserved and were the outcome of scientific mat work by boys well trained by a series of heavy early season contests. Mooney, at 158 lbs., lost to one of the best men at that weight in Ontario after an interesting bout.

CARRICK

To close the season the annual trip by Intercolleginte winners was made to Navy, at Annapolis, the home of Uncle Sam's Midshipmen. As has been the case for several years, the embryo officers won the majority of bouts in both boxing and wrestling. Their men are always at top form for Canadian day, and the contests attract a huge crowd of spectators from as far away as New York. Unfortunately a few of the Canadians were unable to make the trip, but this did not materially weaken the team. The Midshipmen have a fine sportsman-like team of mat and ring men, and their wins are always clean and well deserved. Canadian champions will long remember the hospitality extended to them by the Navy.

University of Toronto Tennis Club

ENNIS at Varsity has this year enjoyed the most successful year it has experienced for some time. Not only was the interfaculty tournament a great improvement over the past, but for the first time since 1919 the intercollegiate tennis title was brought to Varsity from McGill—the holder for the seven previous years.

In the Interfaculty Tournament, held the first week in October, Nunns won the singles title by defeating Martin in the final, and Nunns and Martin defeated Salmond and Balfour in the final of the doubles.

The University was represented at the Intercollegiate Tournament by Gilbert Nunns, Walter Martin, Donald Gunn and Donald Beath, and this team won the Intercollegiate Trophy with an overwhelming score. Wright of McGill won the singles title, but Nunns and Martin won the doubles title without great difficulty. The point score is as follows: University of Toronto 13, McGill 7, Osgoode Hall 5, University of Montreal 5, R.M.C. 2, Queen's 1.

Regarding the personnel of the Varsity team, Gilbert Nunns, captain of this year's team, played for Canada in the Davis Cup matches last summer, and in addition was ranked number three in Canada and number one in Ontario. Walter Martin, the second man on the Blue team, received first place on the Saskatchewan and tenth on the Canadian ranking list. Donald Gunn had several creditable victories during the past season and was ranked number nine in Ontario. Donald Beath, another player of promise, played well in the Intercollegiate at Montreal and with Gunn annexed many important points for Varsity.

Intercollegiate Basketball

HE season 1926-27 was featured by the closeness of the score in the majority of the games and by the excellence of the teams represented in the Intercollegiate Union. The University of Western Ontario, comparatively newcomers to Senior Intercollegiate basketball, were successful in carrying off the championship.

Despite the fact that the champions were defeated in both their league games by the representatives of the Blue and White they made sure of their games with McGill and Queen's, suffering their only defeats to the Toronto quintet. On the other hand the Varsity team was unable to stave off defeat by the McGill five, losing two games t h e Easterners. Queen's turned defeat into victory on the Hart House court, when they came from behind to win by a one point margin. In the final game of the year with McGill at Toronto, Varsity's championship hopes were running high as a win would mean tying the series with Western. McGill, however, were not to be denied, and the Blue and White championship hopes were crushed.

Although the championship was not brought home to Toronto it was an eventful and interesting season and one that saw University of Toronto represented by one of the most colourful teams turned out in recent years. It was a team of veterans, headed by Capt. George Hutchison and W. A. "Biff" Potter, both serving their fifth year on an Intercollegiate basketball team. Harry Sniderman, a freshman, who previously had starred with Broadview Y Seniors, worked as a regular forward with the two veterans. On the regular defence Roy Currie and J. R. McGillivray formed a guard that was equal to any in the Intercollegiate. Frank Gaudin, C. W. Potter, and G. L. Lewis formed a relief trio that was very useful throughout the long season. Dr. W. L. Deeton acted as manager of the team and performed his many duties in a very capable manner.

W. A. POTTER

Prior to the Intercollegiate season the team toured the State of New York and engaged some of the leading colleges and clubs in a series of pre-season games. This trip proved very instructive and was wonderful training for the championships eason. Although they were only successful in winning one of the twelve games played they were by no means disgraced as the scores were in most cases very close and only the wearisomeness of a road trip and the playing of several games on successive nights prevented them from registering in the win column more frequently.

Rowing

HE rowing season of 1927 was not characterized by any noteworthy Varsity victories, but aside from this fact it was a successful season. Over one hundred and fifty aspiring oarsmen turned out on the machines early in January, and by the middle of April three well-balanced eights were ready to take the water for the heavy training.

"Over to the lagoon," "along the island shore," and "down to the ship canal" filled up the days until the Dominion Day Regatta at the Island. when the crews first met competition. The 150 pound crew, made up of Baxter (bow), McKnight, Furber, Starr, Campbell, Anderson, Matthews, Thom (stroke), and Brandon (cox), rowed first but finished third to Argonauts and Leanders of Hamilton. The Junior Heavyweight crew, composed of Kenny (bow), Sinclair, Calnan, Dundas, Bramah, Thomson, Halldorsin, Keith (stroke), and Chalmers (cox), then came up to the line. After a false start Varsity finished second to Argonauts with St. Catharines third and Varsity Tacks fourth.

The next day the Lightweight crew went to Ottawa to the Centenary Regatta at the capital and lost to Lachine. The Juniors went to Hamilton to the first regatta of the Leander Rowing Club and again lost to Argonauts, just being nosed out in a longer race.

With one change in the Lightweight boat training continued. The monotony of the training was broken by an occasional hard row out to Sunnyside and back, so that by the last week in July all three crews were in the pink of condition. Then came the Henley. Varsity crews went over three days early to get acquainted with the course and to give "Debby" Hoar the chance to do a little road work and so get down to weight.

The first crew to swing into action on Thursday was the lightweight eight, which rowed a good race but lost to Leanders and Lachine. The same afternoon Varsity Juniors defeated Wyandottes and St. Catharines in a driving finish, having held the lead from the start.

"Tommy" Loudon

Friday was a day of disasters. The Senior Eight, with Nicholson (bow), McGillivray, Bell, Ruggles, Smith, Langford, Laird, Dale (stroke), Hoar (cox), rowed their first race of the season against Winnipeg and Lachine, but went down fighting. The Junior Eight, which had lost its final race to Argonauts, were entered in the next Senior heat two hours later and lost to Wyandotte Seniors.

The following Monday, Civic Holiday, Varsity Juniors and McGill, who were the sensation of the Henley, met in Toronto and rowed for the Intercollegiate title over the Exhibition course. The race did not get started until seven-thirty p.m. owing to rough water, but even in the darkness Varsity could not sneak in ahead. The finish found McGill leading by a quarter length.

The unsuccessful season spurred the oarsmen on to fresh efforts, and from September to November a Senior Eight took advantage of the fine weather to get in some extra training.

After a month's lay-off the old grind started again on January 11th, the crews were on the water about April 1st, and are trying hard to retrieve lost laurels. Everybody is right behind the coach, Professor "Tommy" Loudon, and great things are expected of his newly designed, all-Canadian shell. George Smart was assistant coach during the past season, giving most of his attention to the Lightweight Crew.

ART BELL

There is particular interest in the Canadian Henley Regatta this year as the Olympic Trials are being held in conjunction. On this account the date has been moved ahead to the first week in July, and the races should be the best in years with the prize for the winning "eight" and "four" a trip to Amsterdam.

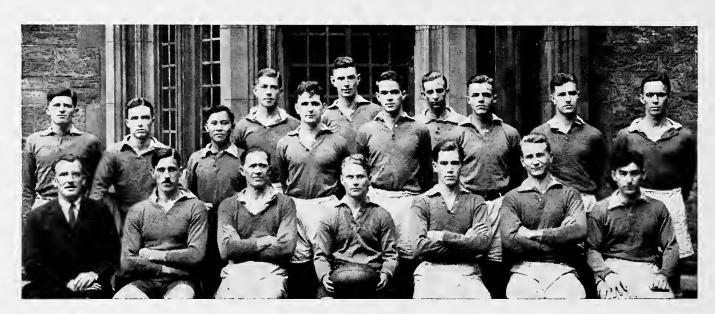

One of the finest means for bringing new oarsmen is the Interfaculty Regatta which is held every year at the palatial quarters of the Rowing Club at the foot of John Street. This year competition was unusually keen with Dentistry being a newcomer. University College, Victoria, Dentistry, School of Science and Medicine all had crews. The races were run in heats, and S.P.S. won the title, repeating a feat which is sure becoming monotonous, as that faculty has held the championship ever since the inception of Interfaculty Rowing.

During the regatta the Senior Eight picked up a new stroke in "Jerry" Whittaker, late of Fenora, who has stroked Fenora eights in western regattas.

English Rugby

HAT the period of infancy of English Rugby is now over in this part of Canada has been well shown by the interest taken in the game this season. In Montreal the McGill team has greatly benefited by competition with five newly organized clubs, while in Toronto the City Club has fielded a stronger team than in former years.

Early in the season plenty of keen recruits were available to make good the loss by graduation in the Varsity team.

The first game with the Toronto British Rugby Club resulted in a victory for Varsity 12-6. The three quarters, playing together for the first time, showed considerable promise.

The first intercollegiate game was played at McGill. Varsity was handicapped by the loss of Johnson in the forward line, and by Battye, not playing on account of an injury in a previous game. Varsity had bad luck in losing Wilson, who was carried off the field with a sprained leg. Playing one man short, Varsity put up a splendid fight but was defeated 20-0.

Under perfect playing conditions the return match was played with McGill the following week. The home team showed marked improvement, the forwards tackling well and the three-quarters making some clever runs. A strenuous tussle resulting in a score of 3-0 in favour of McGill. This was the first time since Rugger started that McGill has won the championship.

On November 12 a match was played on the Back Campus with a strong team from the Toronto Rugby Club. It was a very fast game, and Varsity were in the lead until a few minutes from the end, when the visitors scored the winning try with a good end run. 8-6.

Throughout the season Varsity benefitted much from the coaching of Mr. Russel Donald, a recent Scottish International. The marked improvement evident in the standard of play of all teams this year is already stimulating great interest in the coming season.

Golf as an Intercollegiate Sport

HIS year's golf match with McGill again brought forth the question of recognizing golf as an intercollegiate sport. But, as usual, nothing definite has resulted and the golfers are still in the same old position they were before.

Since Dr. Ruttan donated the Ruttan Trophy in 1921 there has been an annual game between Varsity and McGill, each being represented by a chosen team of six players. These games have been played alternately in Toronto and Montreal. To date Varsity has had very notable success.

The Athletic Directorate have quite rightly required that all members of the team comply with their regulations, as well as with those of the Intercollegiate Union as to eligibility, in return for which they give them official sanction to use the name of the University and represent Varsity as an official team.

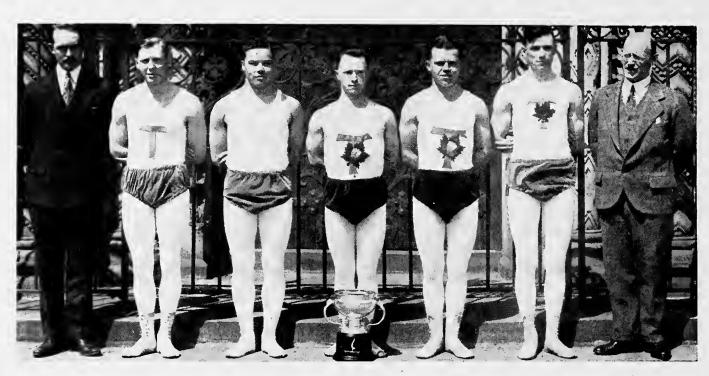

Just what are the objections to recognizing golf as either a major or minor sport and giving the lad whose abilities lie along that line a chance to win one of the coveted "T.s"?

The matter of finances seems to be the outstanding one, but surely this cannot be a very serious objection, for although no revenue comes in from golf, this is also true in the case of tennis, soccer, gymnastics and English rugby. In fact there is no University sport with the exception of rugby that is self-supporting. Their teams are composed of many more men also.

Possibly the comparative lack of interest shown in the golf matches might be raised as an objection. This is hardly fair, however, when it is considered that a great many golfers, who would have otherwise turned out were prevented from doing so because they could not afford to pay their own expenses. The awarding of "T's" to the members of the team would also do a great deal towards stimulating interest in the sport.

Golf has succeeded very well in both English and American universities, where it stands well up on the list of athletic activities. The annual Oxford-Cambridge golf match in England is an important sporting event in which a widespread interest is taken. A few American universities have adopted golf to the extent of having their own private golf courses.

Golf at Varsity is still in its infancy, but it is hoped that as it has done in other universities it will come in time to take its proper place among the major sports.

AST year the intercollegiate gymnastic competition was held in Toronto, and the Varsity Gym team was successful in winning the championship in their own gymnasium for the second time since the intercollegiate series was inaugurated. Varsity has now won the Intercollegiate Gym Championship four times and McGill has won three times. The championship team was made up of: R. Lymburner (Med. IV), I. W. Mix

(O.C.E.), J. A. Williamson (S.P.S. II), D. R. Gunn (Med. II), W. G. Heslop (S.P.S. I), and D. A. Campbell (Dent. I). Of these men Mix has graduated, and Lymburner has decided not to compete this year. Irenus Mix was intercollegiate champion.

Mr. A. R. Caron of Montreal presented a very handsome silver cup to the Intercollegiate Gymnastic Union, to be presented each year to the winning team in the intercollegiate competition. The cup was competed for, for the first time last year and was won, as stated, by Varsity.

The Harold A. Wilson cup, emblematic of the Interfaculty championship, was won for 1927-28 by S.P.S., with Trinity College second. The cup was held by Meds last year. The interfaculty competition decides the personnel of the Varsity intercollegiate team which is to meet McGill in Montreal. The team which will represent Varsity this year is composed of: D. R. Gunn (Med. III), J. A. Williamson (S.P.S. III), D. F. Adams (O.C.E.), D. A. Campbell (Dent. II), and E. G. Heslop (S.P.S. II) with either W. G. Heslop (S.P.S. II) or A. V. Malone (Trinity I), as spare. Of these men Williamson and Gunn are veterans of two previous teams, while Campbell and W. G. Heslop were intercollegiate men last year. The newcomers, Adams, E. G. Heslop, and Malone, are all excellent gymnasts and help to form a very strong team to represent Varsity at McGill this year.

Intercollegiate Soccer Team

HIS year W. B. Ririe was captain of the Soccer Team, and under his leadership the men worked hard, and a very promising team was organized.

On account of the Centenary Celebrations the practices were delayed, but an exhibition game was arranged with a country team, and this game proved to be the makings of the team. Although Varsity lost by 3 to 1 the men learned their mistakes and the next week found them practising hard for the opening of the season, which took place at Kingston.

The first game at Kingston, 15th October, was a gruelling contest, but Varsity led by 2-0 until about the last 5 minutes, when R.M.C. was awarded their first goal.

Cox, the Toronto goalie, had apparently cleared, but the referee claimed that he had carried the ball over the line when he threw it out.

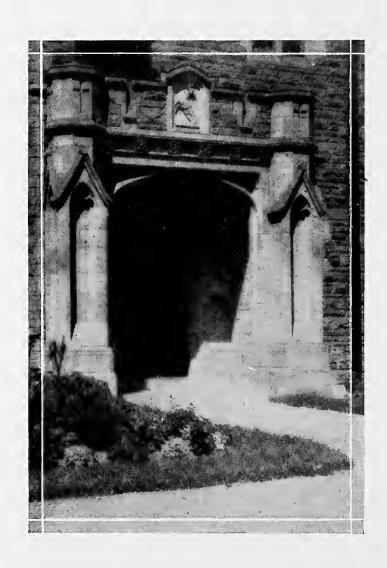

The Thursday following this, on the 20th October, the crack Penn. State team visited Toronto, and the game was played at the Varsity Stadium. The game resulted in a 3 to 1 win to Varsity. This was considered very good since Penn. State had the distinction of not losing a game for many seasons.

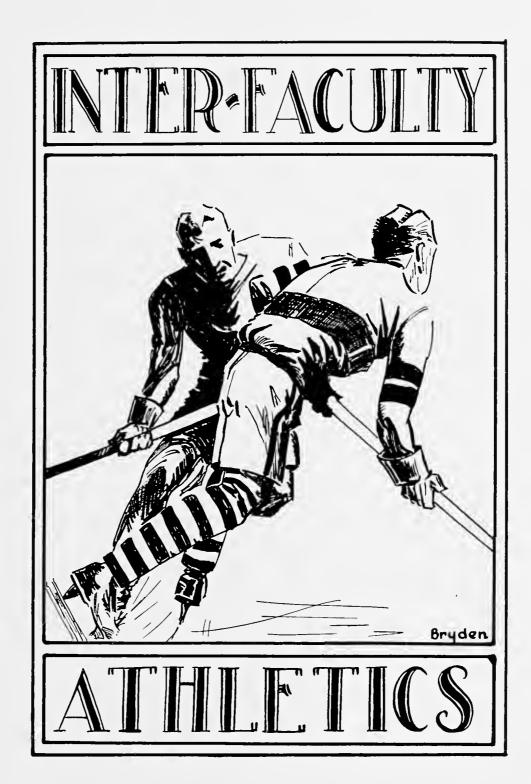

The concluding game of the series was played in Toronto against McGill, which was won by the latter 2-0. Both goals were scored on penalties. The first game was at Montreal, R.M.C. being the visitors. This game was a tie, thus giving the championhip to McGill.

The 1928 season has very bright prospects as almost all of last year's men will be back, and besides the executive is endeavouring to obtain Mr. Halliwell as coach.

A trip is being arranged to the U.S. for next fall so that a good season is in store.

W. H. Jackson has been chosen to manage the team for 1928, but as yet a captain has not been picked.

U.C. Basketball

OR the first time since 1921 the Sifton Cup, emblematic of the Interfaculty Basketball Championship, will bear the name of University College for 1928. The Junior U.C. quintette brought back the title to U.C. after one of the hardest fought series in the history of the trophy. Losing the first game to Jr. Meds. they came back with a two point win in the second game and later won the play-off game.

In the semi-finals with Victoria College Seniors they did the same thing, winning out in the third game.

They lost the first game of the finals to the fighting Forestry team by seven points much to the surprise of their supporters, but in the second game they displayed their true form and decisively trimmed the "tree doctors" by seventeen points.

All year the team showed its ability to stage a fighting come back when they were behind. No member of the team can be singled out for special praise. Howard Riggs, of last year's Windsor Junior Ontario Champions, and Paul Young, who captained the team, were the high scorers. On defence "Mush" Goldenberg and Harry Dobrindt turned back the attacks of the enemy forward line successfully all season. But no team is any stronger than its substitutes, and it was proven in the play downs that this was true. The team was ably managed by Arch. Wood. The Senior U.C. team provided the much-needed opposition in practice, which played no small part in developing the best team that has gone out from University College in recent years.

U.C. Track Team

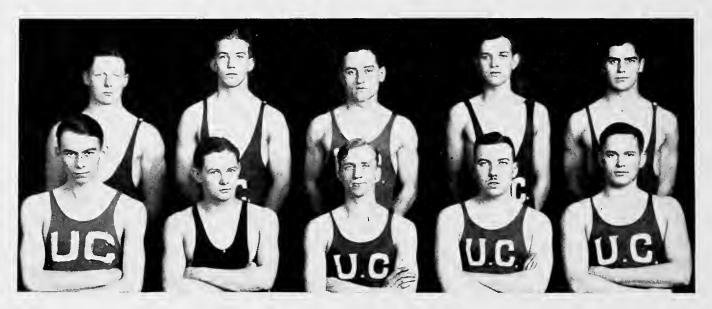

NIVERSITY COLLEGE has enjoyed another very successful year in track and field athletics. She has continued to maintain a prominent position, in this sport, among her sister colleges and faculties. Many of her athletes have achieved success on the cinder path and athletic field in recent competitions and some indeed are classed among Canada's best.

The Annual Interfaculty Meet held during the Centenary Celebrations was won by the School of Science, who secured a slight margin over the U.C. team, which was handicapped by the absence of Bill Finlayson, a sure point winner. The Arts team, however, was a well-balanced squad as it included hurdlers, sprinters, middle and long distance men, several good jumpers, weight throwers and the winning relay team. It is a significant fact that practically the entire University College team found places on the intercollegiate team, which again carried off the honours at Kingston.

The Annual Interfaculty Indoor Meets for the past two seasons have been won by University College. The struggles have been close, and several records have been hung up by the U.C. men as they have competed from week to week.

It may be said in conclusion that interest in track and field sports is very much alive around University College. The younger men are being developed to fill the places of those graduating, and time alone will tell what new honours this college may win in the years to come.

U.C. Swimming Team

HE U.C. Team kept up the good work established by former teams in winning the Fitzgerald Cup for the sixth year in succession. We have uncovered a new breast stroker to take the place of Fran Lorenzen—who now coaches the Intercollegiate Swimming Team—in Bill Bertram.

Another new swimmer who shows a great deal of promise is Scott, who was second to Poyntz in the 50 yards free style. The diving honours went to Jack Gundy of Meds. Johnny Goss beat Leo Latchford by $\frac{2}{5}$ of a second in the 100 yards free. Latchford and Thompson had a nice even race in the 50 yards back stroke, with the honours going to the former by a very narrow margin. Boddy made Johnny Goss step in the 200 yards, which was much slower than he can do.

In the Relay Race U.C. First Team of Boddy, Poyntz, Thompson and Latchford nosed out the Second U.C. team of Scott, Lowndes, Graham and Bertram quite handily.

U.C. only loses one swimmer by graduation, so we can look forward to seeing the Fitzgerald Cup in its proper place in University College next year. Urq. Curtis of polo fame was responsible for the start U.C. got in winning the long plunge for the last time as this event has now been dropped from the list of events.

The score of $43\frac{1}{2}$ to $14\frac{1}{2}$ for S.P.S. indicates nicely just how far ahead U.C. are in swimming.

U.C. Senior Water Polo Team

R. U.C. this year won the coveted Eckhardt Cup from Jr. U.C., who defeated last year's cup holders, Jr. S.P.S. Under Captain Baker and and Coach Leo Latchford, the Seniors proved too much for the inexperienced Juniors. With Dave Walker in goal playing his usual sterling game, assisted by Curtis and Jim Walker as defence, all the forward line had to do was to score—which they did. The most noticeable feature of Sr. U.C.'s play was the unselfish way in which they combined to defeat the best that the other faculties could send against them.

In Latchford, Jennings, Thompson, Poyntz and Graham Sr. U.C. have undoubtedly some fine intercollegiate material for Coach Copeland to work upon. For the Juniors may we say that Spence, Lowndes and Ayers, with a few more years' play should develop into first class players.

Now that we have the trophy back again let's get together and keep it in U.C.

semi-finals with Guelph. A strenuous game in that city resulted in a 0-0 tie. The return game in Toronto ended with a 1-0 victory for Vic. This placed the team in the finals with Knox. In the first game against their fast team Vic. won by a 3-0 score. The second game resulted in a scoreless draw, with Vic. playing an invincible, defensive game throughout. The success of the Vic. team is noteworthy as viewed from the total score of the season. Fifteen goals were scored while the Vic. goal-line was never crossed for a goal. This success was due not to any outstanding individual play, though all players were capable of a good style of game, but to the unselfish team-play exhibited. The team played an unexcelled, harmonious, combination system which netted results. It was supremely fitting that this team should come through with eight of the players graduating. With a record to uphold, and with many fine players left, there should be a strong team in 1928.

Victoria College Rugby Team

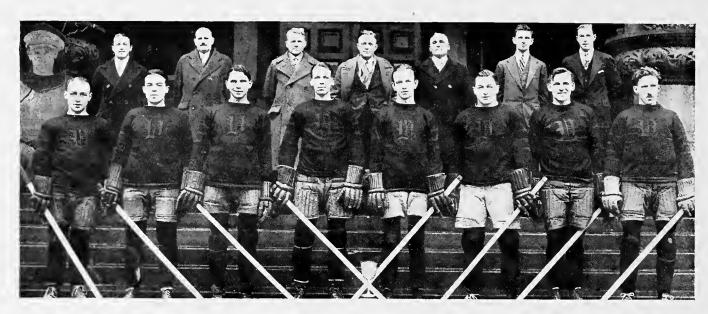

HE interest in rugby in Victoria was very great this year, the turnout to practices being the greatest ever seen on this corner of the campus. With a good many of last year's semi-finalists to form a nucleus, and such a large group of newcomers to work with, a coach of the ability of Mr. Hill (better known as Skipper) had no difficulty in rounding out

Grouped with Trinity and Sr. U.C. the team had to fight for every game, but succeeded in winning the group without a loss. Hard work was the order of the day until the play-offs. The result was perfect condition which was a large factor in the winning of the semi-finals against School and in the final triumph against Dents.

This year's team was a model of a well-balanced machine; a heavy, staunch holding, hard hitting line; sure tackling wings, and fast, tricky backs.

Much credit is due to the coach for his conscientious and energetic labours in building up so smooth working a team, for it was that quality of playing the game as a team that won the championship for Vic. Every man played his position and played it well. It would be impossible to pick out the stars as practically every man on the team would have to be mentioned, and that is beyond our space.

Let the Mulock Cup speak for itself in praise of the team.

Victoria College Hockey Team

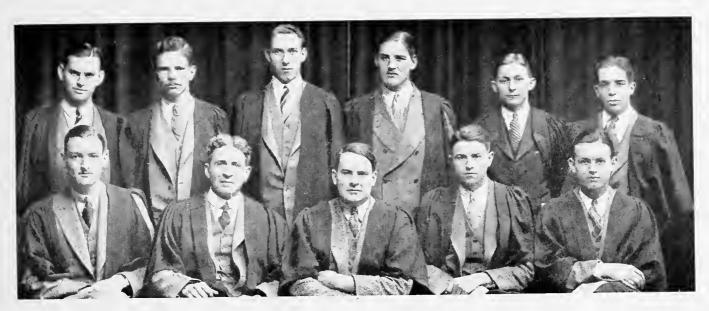

OR the third successive year the Victoria College Hockey Team did not lose a game in the Interfaculty Series. The Jennings Cup captured by Victoria for the fourth time in 1926 and retained last year remains for another year in the possession of the wearers of the Scarlet and Gold. In winning the cup in 1928 the scoring record of the 1926 team was surpassed. The aggregate score for the six games played and won being twenty-six goals for and only two against.

Grouped as usual with Trinity and O.A.C. Vic. encountered stiff opposition. Superior team-work and better condition were responsible for the Scarlet and Gold victories. In the second round Union Theological College—Victoria's younger sister –furnished the opposition, but again experience told in favour of Victoria. In the semi-final Jr. U.C. tried hard but were unable to break Vic.'s three years' string of victories. In the finals Dents and Vic., old time rivals, battled once again for the silverware, Victoria winning by the score of 3-0.

There was no particular star on the team. All of the eleven players were regulars. The system of play worked out two years ago by our Coach, Joe Bishop, reached the highest degree of perfection this season. The winning of the Jennings Cup in 1928 was the result of the unselfish co-operation and good feelings among the players and management.

Trinity College Amateur Athletic Association

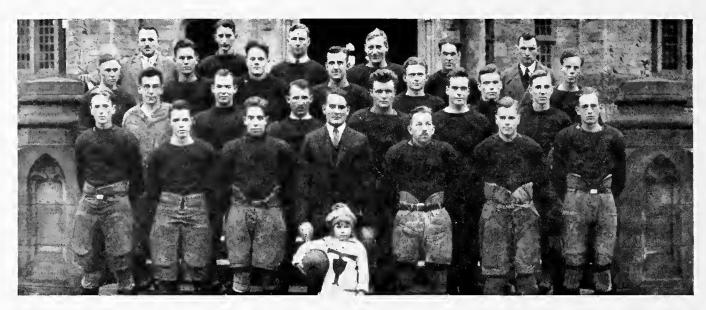

LL athletics at Trinity are under the control of the Trinity College Amateur Athletic Association acting through its executive, which is elected annually. It consists of ten undergraduate students and one member of the staff of the college. The executive administers the affairs of the Association, controls its finances and appoints the coaches and managers for the interfaculty teams.

Realizing the value of inter-year competition as a training ground for interfaculty and university athletics, the Association has always made these games a feature of its athletic policy. Handsome cups are presented to the winning year in each brand of sport. Much of Trinity's best athletic material has been developed in this way.

When Trinity moved to Queen's Park, the Association at once felt the necessity for an athletic field of its own, due to the overcrowded condition of the campus. Last summer its ground back of the College and the U.C. residences was filled and levelled, and it will be seeded next spring. The playing surface of the field is of regulation football size, and it is hoped to have it ready for use next September. The cost of such an undertaking was made possible by gifts from friends of the Association and the College.

The Association was represented this year on the Senior Intercollegiate Football and Soccer teams, the O.R.F.U. team and the Junior Intercollegiate Champions. It also had members on the Intercollegiate Track team and the Intercollegiate Golf team.

St. Michael's College Athletic Directorate

HE Athletic Directorate of St. Michael's College is an active executive group composed of elected members, one from each of the first three years and two from the senior year. Each and every one of the directorate is keenly alive to the trust placed in him by the student body and jealously strives to perform conscientiously the allotted tasks. The college has always realized that it should lend whatever encouragement is necessary to sporting activities, fully believing that a healthy body is of incalculable assistance to academic work. Among other club room activities, Football night was fostered by the Directorate.

The executive accepts the obligation of appointing managers to the various teams representing the college in different sports. Care and deliberation is exercised in the selection in order that each team may have the best man available.

Perhaps the task in which the Directorate most keenly realize the great trust placed in them is that of deciding who among the students have merited the "M". The greatest care is taken that the awards are based on unbiased judgment.

To be adjudged worthy of the letter the student must have excelled in one of the major sports. The "M" is so carefully guarded that those to whom it is finally awarded are undeniably worthy representatives of St. Michael's and men who will forever keep the highest honour of the college as one of their most cherished possessions.

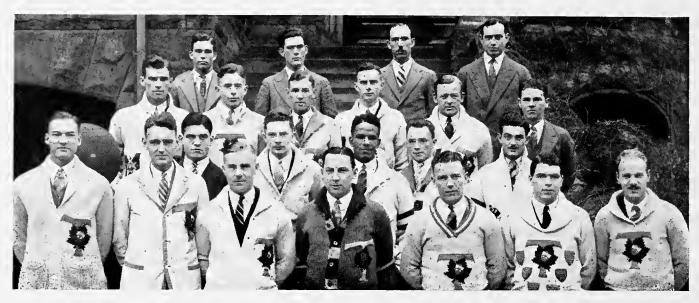

Medical Athletic Association

HE administration of Interfaculty and Inter-year athletics is governed entirely by this executive. Members are elected annually by a vote from the entire Faculty. One man is elected from each year—the President from the Sixth Year, Vice-President from Fifth Year and Secretary-Treasurer from Fourth Year. Added to this a Quartermaster is appointed by the Executive to look after purchasing of equipment for each sport and its disposal.

Owing to the different years being so scattered in their work it has been very difficult to carry on Interyear sports, we have attempted this year to carry on the good work of last year's executive, and the Annual Field Day was held with much success in spite of inclement weather. Inter-year basketball and baseball schedules were arranged to interest the different years in the picking of Interfaculty teams.

Time for practice in athletics is very limited in a course like Medicine, but in spite of this the executive is well pleased with the showing of the men who have turned out. A reasonable time given to athletics is not lost, since the physical side of life is very important in the development of good students. This executive has endeavoured to co-operate with the University of Toronto Athletic Association, which is the governing body of this aspect of student life.

First "T" Holders in Medicine, 1927-28

HE honour of Medicine in the athletic side of university life has been well maintained this year as it always has been in the past. Among the holders of First Colours for athletic prowess the undergraduates in Medicine are proud to boast of a goodly percentage, to the number of twenty-seven good men and true. Of these the large proportion are in the final two years, and twelve are being lost to undergraduate sport by graduation, but there is an excellent representation in the younger classes, and it is to them that the task of upholding the honour of the faculty is handed.

Of the various sports rugby has the best representation with six holders of First Colours, of which three are in the graduating year. Rowing and hockey are next, with five and four representatives respectively, then the other activities, basketball, swimming, track, boxing, soccer and lacrosse in order.

Interfaculty sport is very important, especially in the Junior Years, since it is the training ground for intercollegiate material. All men are urged by the Athletic Association to try out for the interfaculty teams and the yearly increase in the number of "M"s granted is very gratifying to those interested in the welfare of Medicine in the Field of Sport.

Junior Meds Basketball

(Winners of Sifton Cup)

R. Meds have always put on the floor a scrappy and enthusiastic basketball team. Last year they displayed marked ability in addition to other qualities to win the much coveted Sifton Cup emblematic of Interfaculty Championship.

As the competition was very keen the schedule was a hard strenuous uphill fight for the Junior Med. team. In winning their own group the hardest opposition was encountered with the exception of the finals, which were played against Sr. Vic. The finals were of the usual high calibre and were intensely exciting. Jr. Meds entered the last game of the finals with a two-point handicap. They emerged from the last game, which was a hard and clean fought battle, the victors by the same margin.

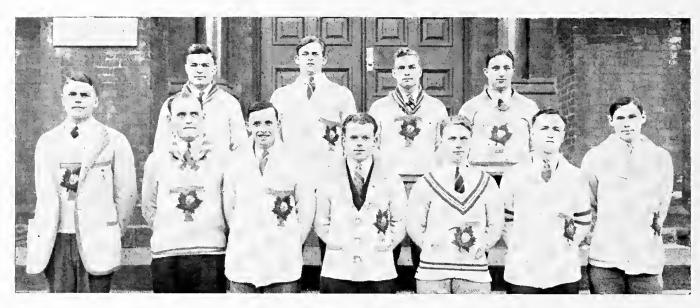

School Athletic Association

LL the activities of School in interfaculty athletics are directed by the Athletic Association of which all undergraduates in School are members. The executive is composed of a President, Vice-President, Secretary-Treasurer, and a representative from each of the four years. Within the Association there are several clubs which promote one particular. Of these the Rowing, Track, Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing, and Soccer sport. Of these the Rowing, Track, Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing, and Soccer Clubs are the most active.

School teams, in every branch of sport, have given a good account of themselves. To date two championships have been won, namely, the Interfaculty Track and Interfaculty Rowing. The Junior Rugby Team won all its group games, and it was only after a bitter struggle that Victoria, the ultimate winners of the Mulock Cup, defeated them in the play-offs. In Soccer and water-polo "School" teams were serious contenders for the Trophies.

In addition to interfaculty sports the Athletic Association sponsors interyear competition. This year a tennis tournament was staged as well as the Soph-Frosh track meet.

School "T" Holders

ESPITE the loss of fourteen "T" holders in last year's graduation School still has a formidable list of "T" holders. On that list will be found many of the most outstanding athletes of the University. Of the fourteen "T" holders in School this year four were Intercollegiate captains -Trimble captain of the Rugby Team, McKenzie captain of Track Team, Battye captain of Rugger Team and Kirkpatrick captain of the Hockey Team.

School Track Team

HE S.P.S. Track Club had a very successful autumn season.

The outlook at the beginning of the term was not as bright as in previous years due to the loss of one or two stars by graduation. At the interfaculty track meet, which was finally held after having been postponed twice, School outpointed all other faculties by a wide margin, thus winning back the Langford Rowell Cup emblematic of the Interfaculty Championship.

The outstanding feature of this meet was the wonderful showing made by D. J. MacKenzie, intercollegiate track star, who single handed scored 23 points. This is a record for interfaculty sport. The score made by the faculty second to School was 25, which makes the achievement even more outstanding.

A "soph-frosh" track meet was held after the interfaculty meet and uncovered some promising material for future teams.

S.P.S. was well represented on the Intercollegiate team, by Harley Russell, Jack Davenport and Jim MacKenzie.

This year will see the last of J. H. Russell and D. J. MacKenzie, and it is hoped that someone will step up and take their place.

S.P.S. Water Polo

R. SCHOOL, though fortunate in winning the trophy this year, proved real opposition for the champions. The team, with one or two exceptions, was the same one that won the Eckhart trophy last year playing in the junior ranks.

The keen competition and interest in this series brought forth a full attendance of players at all practices and games, and they are to be congratulated on this.

The play of the team had a tendency more to individuality than to team play, the lack of passing and clever plays being in evidence. This probably cost us the championship. Captain John Goss, as centre man, was the outstanding player on the team. His rushes and spectacular checking, which was responsible for a large number of his team's goals, were particularly brilliant.

Graduation will remove three stellar players whose places will be hard to fill for next year's team, namely, H. Hermance, L. Howard and H. Farah, but we feel that J. Goss, L. Bullen, D. McCarthy and D. Irwin, who remain, together with new blood from Junior School, will ably uphold School's reputation of hard workers and good sports whether winning or losing.

School Soccer Team

HOUGH failing to reach the semi-finals, as did last year's aggregation, the School Soccer team acquitted itself nobly, doing honour to the organization and the faculty.

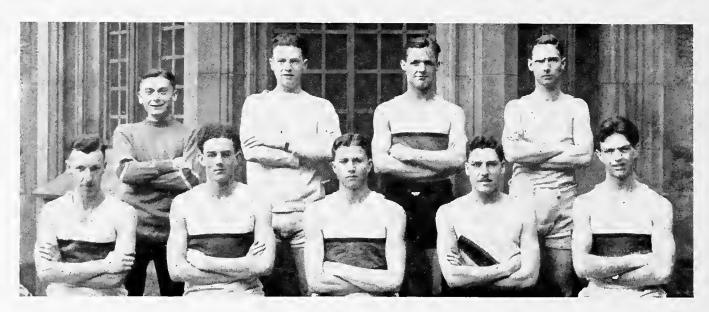

School waltzed away with two games each, from Dents and U.C. They met a snag, however, in the formidable and well-organized Knox team. The old School fighting spirit was in there every inch of the way, and on several breath-taking occasions the Theologs almost had heart failure, but Lady Luck turned an inexorably cold shoulder on the boys. Thus Knox won the right to enter the semi-finals.

Special mention is due three men whose work places them in Intercollegiate class, "Nate" Helper, stellar goalie of many sensational "saves"; Jim Downing and M. Ward, star performers on the forward line.

This year graduation removes Harry Magnan, our big full back, the only fourth year man on the team.

With a little more coaching, this team, practically intact, will have reason to be feared by all.

The hearty co-operation and fine brand of sportsmanship displayed by the players, their willingness, sincerity and indefatigable efforts have knit the organization into a unit, upholding the high standards of School endeavour, and adding greatly to her prestige and prominence.

School Rowing

CHOOL has again lived up to her fine record in Interfaculty Rowing, but not without strong opposition from the other faculties. During the week previous to Saturday, October 22nd, on which day the Regatta was held, the men turned out morning and night to get into as good shape as the short time would permit. The Interfaculty Regatta is primarily to encourage new men. So great was the enthusiasm that two crews had to be formed to represent School, and it was not until the day before the races that the crews were finally chosen. School's First Crew disposed of Arts and Meds in the first and third races, while School's Second Crew won from Victoria in the second race and lost to Dents in the fourth race. The final race found School's First Crew and Dents on the line at the foot of Church Street. At the crack of the gun every man exerted his utmost, but neither crew gained any advantage from the start. Dents managed to pull out a slight lead and then School extended themselves to even the crews again. The race developed into a see-saw affair, and finally School managed to pull out the lead which gave them the race by about half a length. This was undoubtedly the best race the Interfaculty Regattas have seen. It was a great race to win and a hard one to lose, but it can be said that the winner could not be declared until the finish line at the foot of John Street was crossed.

This year the Olympic trials will take place, the winner of which is to represent Canada at the Olympic Games. School men have always been prominent in Varsity rowing and can be counted on to do their utmost to give Old Varsity the honour that was hers in the 1924 Olympics, when Varsity's Eight was second only to Yale.

Dental Athletic Association

OLLEGE spirit to a large extent depends upon athletics and it is on the field of sport that the best friendships of our college days are made. Athletics in Dentistry are upheld by these worthy representatives of the various sports who are elected by a student vote and who in turn elect one of their number as President of Athletics.

"WALLY" GRAHAM of track and harrier fame, is President of Athletics.

GEORGE MORGAN—Noted intercollegiate "snap" who coached the rugby team to the finals.

"Bolt" Hewitt—Guardian of the nets for Dental hockey teams during four consecutive years.

"SANDY" SOMERVILLE—Who will lead the baseball team into action for their ninth consecutive championship.

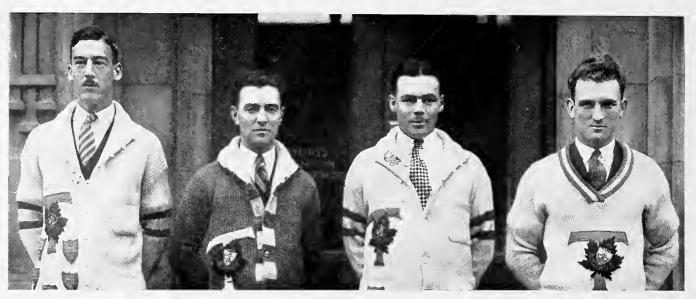

"Bob" Langstroth—who, with his rifle team, brought back the shield this year.

"Perc" Devins—President of soccer as well as a senior intercollegiate hockey player.

Roy Currie—Captain of the senior intercollegiate basketball team.

"AL" GRANT—Intercollegiate wrestler of note.

EDDIE SINCLAIR—President of swimming and a credit to Dents in nearly all branches of sport.

First "T" Holders in Dentistry

O these four men of the graduating class in Dentistry the University has granted the highest award possible in Athletics. Not only have they brought honour to their own year and Faculty, but to the whole University which they worthily represented in various sports.

"Wes" Richards

Even as a freshman "Wes" broke into Intermediate hockey and has skated rings around the boys ever since. One year proved enough in intermediate ranks, and ever since he has played consistently on the senior team. Three Senior Intercollegiate Championships and twice in the Allen Cup finals is his record.

"Rus" Sparling

An advocate of the strong arm, made the wrestling team in his third and fourth years and won the Intercollegiate 158 lb. title. "Rus" also proved his strength at Annapolis and West Point and his executive ability as President of the Dental B. W. & F. Club.

"Perc" Devins

From intermediate hockey in his first year "Devy" rose to senior ranks and has been with the champions ever since. Allen Cup finalists in 1926, Captain interfaculty soccer champions for two years and coach of the girls' intercollegiate hockey championship team is his record.

"WALLY" GRAHAM

Won his "T" in his third year on the track and has travelled faster ever since. "Wally" leaves with a string of championships after spending five years on the Intercollegiate Harrier team, four years on the Intercollegiate Track team and four times Interfaculty Harrier Champion.

Senior "D" Holders

ISTINCTIVE and exclusive the Dental "D" is a prominent letter in Interfaculty competition. Only those who have played continuously for several years on a senior team, or have emerged victorious with a University championship are entitled to this faculty letter. It is the highest athletic honour that the college can bestow with the exception of "Willmott Crowns" which are given to outstanding athletes of the final year.

of "Willmott Crowns," which are given to outstanding athletes of the final year. In rugby Dents have fought their way to the finals in the last two years, only to be eliminated in a last hard fought battle. Many men have earned their D's in baseball, retaining the trophy for eight consecutive years. Those "D" holders with the educated toe are worthy of all honour for winning the soccer championship twice in the last four years. The Jennings Cup, emblematic of the University Hockey Championship, has four times been grasped by eager "D" holders in four consecutive years only to be lost in the final game. Many times has the rifle shield resided in the Dental College during the last four years, and the basketball team has been rarely eliminated before the finals. Credit must also be given to those men who have won their letter by winning for their faculty in the individual sports of boxing, wrestling, track and harrier.

Difficult to obtain and the result of untiring effort the "D" remains a thing of pride to the graduating man and the source of glowing admiration to his grand-children.

Dental Rugby Team

AST fall Dents placed on the gridiron perhaps the strongest team they have ever entered in the interfaculty series. For years Dents have been content to take things as they came, but since 1923 there has been a steady improvement in the team. But two men of the 1923, Roland and Keenan, were with this year's team, having played twenty-five consecutive games.

Last year's team was a good one and won every game handily till stopped by Jr. School by the score of 1-0 in the finals.

This year, Ed. Sinclair, of Varsity Junior and U.T.S. fame, strengthened the team as kicking half. He teamed with Hudson, Chalmers and Brown. Moore this year's captain, was at the pivot position. Grouped with Sr. School and Sr. Meds, Dents won all their games by large scores and then defeated Forestry and St. Mike's in the play-offs. The finals saw Dents favourites against Victoria with an impressive record of eighty-three points to their opponents three. In the finals Victoria, however, won by 16-2 and Dents lost out without an alibi. The game was a heart-breaker as eight of the regulars graduate this year. This year's graduating class formed the nucleus of a great team. Lappin, McDougall, Grant, Moore, Roland, Lipson, Layter and Keenan have played their last games for Dents. "Lapp" and "Mac" were the line stars of the team, shining on the offensive. Special mention should be made of Grant, the 135 lb. star lineman. George Watson, manager, and George Morgan, coach, deserve great credit for the way they handled the team this year, and Moore made a great quarter and captain.

Wycliffe College Athletic Association

HE Wycliffe College Athletic Association has just completed one of the most enjoyable years of its history. We have not won any trophies; but the enthusiasm shown by Faculty and students alike, combined with the sportsmanlike spirit displayed by all in spite of reverses, enables us to call it not only an enjoyable year but a successful one.

The Soccer Team again did well. It came second in its group, and only suffered two reverses.

It was our privilege to be able to supply the University Soccer Team with three players, each giving a very creditable exhibition.

This year we entered a Baseball Team into interfaculty competition. Great keenness is displayed by all the players. We hope many victories will be the happy lot of this our new team.

If support means anything, basketball is very much to the fore. It is generally possible to field two full sides at the practices.

Our Field Day was one of the most interesting in years. Mr. Wilkes took most of the honours, his total number of points amounting to twenty-five. Mr. Gilbert battled hard with Mr. Wilkes, but he had to content himself with second place

The cross-country race had more entrants this year than any other year in our memory. Mr. "Hap" Gilbert won easily. "Hap" will likely make the University of Toronto Harriers next year. He just missed the team this year.

Women's Athletics

HE end of the academic year 1927-28 once more finds women's athletics at the University of Toronto in a most flourishing condition. Athletic affairs have been carried on most successfully by the Women's Directorate and Club Executives. Directorate members for

1927-28 are: Dr. C. C. Benson, President; Mrs. E. A. Linell, Vice-President; Miss A. E. M. Parkes, Sec.-Treas.; Mrs. W. A. Kirkwood, Dr. Edith Gordon, Miss I. G. Coventry, Mrs. J. D. Williamson, as graduate and faculty representatives; and Misses Edith Buchanan, Dorothy Fraser, Phyllis Howard, Marion Laird and Elizabeth Rous as undergraduates. The Club Presidents are: Basketball, Miss Tillie Jackman; Hockey, Miss Eileen Ditchburn; Baseball, Miss Edith Quinlan; Tennis, Miss Helen Dore; Swimming, Miss Marnie Rieder. The Centenary year was marked by the first women's Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament. Invitations were sent from Toronto to McGill, Queen's and Western, and were accepted by the latter two. A two-day tournament was played, two players from each university playing singles and one pair from each playing doubles. The singles were splendidly won by Miss Olga Miller of Western and the doubles by Misses Joyce Finlay and Norma Bateman of Toronto.

The next intercollegiate sport played was hockey. The beautiful Beattie Ramsay Cup, donated by the undergraduates of the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering in 1922, was won back from Queen's in a great struggle in 1927, and the 1928 team started practices to defend it early in January. Two games were played, the first in Kingston and the second in Toronto, both won by Varsity 5-2 and 3-2 respectively. Too much credit cannot be given this team under the coaching of Mr. A. T. R. Armstrong of Trinity, the captaincy of Jessie Mooney, and the management of Cecil Cassels. They had lost their veteran captain and star, Marion Hilliard, their coach, and one or two other regulars, and for the first game were without Eileen Ditchburn, who was under doctor's orders. The fact that several of the players have one or two more years at college augurs well for the future. Once more the generosity of the men's Directorate has given the girls regular and convenient practice hours at the Arena.

Basketball was the last intercollegiate sport of the year and, though the team did not have such success as last year, the season was a most satisfactory one. Due to pressure brought to bear by McGill and Queen's, it was necessary to have a woman coach, and the team was particularly fortunate in having Miss Phyllis Griffiths, Captain of the 1925-26 and 1926-27 teams, who most generously gave her time to the coaching of the team. Varsity seems to have been running in hard luck this year in a basketball way, for in addition to losing Phyllis Griffiths through graduation, Willene Wallace and Pat Wood both were lost for "academic reasons". Then Marion Forward, the brilliant side-centre and pivot of Varsity's attack, developed mumps just three weeks before the tournament and was lost to the team. The tournament was this year held at Toronto and won by Western, competing for the first time. Western defeated Varsity the first night, 28-17, while McGill did the same for Queen's, 34-33. The following day Queen's won out by one point in a gruelling overtime with Varsity, 36-35, while Western defeated McGill for the championship and the custody of the "Bronze Baby", 39-16. The team was efficiently captained by Edith Buchanan and managed by Dorothy Wood.

EILEEN DITCHBURN

Varsity also played in a city series with Margaret Eaton and the Varsity "Grads, which was won by M.E.S. in some very close games. This series was featured by the first appearance of the Grads, who did remarkably well, splitting their games with M.E.S. and being defeated by Varsity in the first game played. A second team also played exhibition games with various collegiates in the city and did very well considering their lack of regular coaching and practice.

The usual exciting struggles took place in most of the interfaculty series this year. The tennis was particularly interesting as the intercollegiate team was chosen from the finalists. St. Hilda's won out by a considerable margin, having the individual champion, Margaret Grout, and two semi-finalists as well as a good showing all through.

The indoor baseball series was not so good as usual as the new ruling preventing girls from competing on both basketball and baseball teams weakened most of the colleges. St. Hilda's dropped out and Vic., U.C., O.C.E., and St. Mike's were left to battle it out, the former winning in two close games from U.C.

The basketball was fairly easily won by Senior Victoria in the finals against Senior U.C., and the earlier games of the series were really harder fought. St. Hilda's, for the first time in years, was a real contender, and with a young team much is expected of them next year.

The hockey was also won by the Victoria Firsts in a play-off with U.C., but here again both St. Hilda's and Meds. had much more than usual to say in the original argument, and it was really anybody's series until the end. One noticeable thing was that for the first time in years the majority of games were won by actual scoring and not by one fluke goal.

EDE BLACKWELL

The Swimming Meet held in the middle of March, produced a new champion in the long plunge, when Sophie Goode, second year St. Hilda's, plunged sixty-five feet four inches to break the former record of sixty-one feet.

The University College Women's Swimming Team repeated history by winning the meet by a margin of twenty-two points over Victoria who were second with sixteen points, and St. Hilda's who secured nine points. Marge Macdonald of U.C. won the individual championship with thirteen points and Kathleen Scholes was second with eight points.

St. Hilda's Athletic Association

HE St. Hilda's Athletic Association includes all students in the college, and the executive is elected in March for the following year. Dorothy Cox, President for 1927-28, called the first meeting early in October. Joyce Muirhead, Captain of the Baseball Team, reported that there were very few interested and experienced players in the college, and it was definitely decided there should be no team entered in the interfaculty series. The Tennis Team, captained by Dorothy Langley, again secured the Interfaculty Championship. In addition, Margaret Grout won the Individual Championship of the University. At the first women's Inter-University Tennis Tournament held this fall in Toronto Margaret Grout and Joyce Finlay were players on the Toronto Team. Dorothy Fraser, who won the Individual Championship 1924 and 1925, would also have played for Varsity had she not injured her knee in the semi-finals of the Interfaculty series.

The Basketball Team (captain, Phyllis Tilston) played its first game November 22, and although eliminated in the first round of the series, made a very good showing, and was stronger than it has been for some years. The Inter-year games, as usual, were a source of much excitement and some amusement. The cup was won for the third successive year by '29.

At the time of writing this report, the Hockey Series has not yet begun. St. Hilda's expects, however, to have a fairly strong team, captained by Gladys Martin. The Captain of the Swimming Team, Margaret Grout, also intends to enter several swimmers at the Interfaculty Meet in March.

Victoria College Women's Athletics

IEWING the achievements that Victoria women have made in the field of athletics one cannot but realize what wonderful results have come from the adoption of the slogan, "Every girl in some line of athletic endeavour".

Inter-year activities have been more popular than ever. The shield, presented for the first time last year, for inter-year competition in the various sports, is being keenly contested. The tennis tournament had an unusual number of entries and a merry battle was waged for places on the team. The points to count for the shield were 3T0, 4; 2T8, 3. The baseball inter-year games displayed a type of baseball that was amazing, and provided much fun and exercise for many other than the Interfaculty players. The points were: 2T8, 4; 3T0, 3; 3T1, 2; 2T9, 1. "Basketball for Beginners" has been a feature at Vic. this Fall, and some seventy girls have attended the practices. The inter-year teams were picked entirely from this group. The games have not been completed yet, but 2T8 and 3T0 are ahead so far. Hockey has suffered this winter from lack of ice, but the cold weather has come at last and the inter-year games will be played soon. Last year for the first time Vic. staged an inter-year swimming meet which was wonderfully successful. We hope to have an equally successful meet this year.

It is obvious that such interest in inter-year athletics would have a great effect on the teams mustered by the College to compete in the various interfaculty series. Such was indeed the case. The Vic. tennis team achieved second place in the interfaculty tournament. The baseball team went through the season without defeat. In basketball the Senior team again won the champion-ship, while the Juniors were defeated in their group only by the more experienced Senior U.C. team. Hockey and swimming are still to be accounted for, but hopes run high for success in these sports also.

Thus we are endeavouring, as always, to include every girl in some sport, to play the game for the sake of the game, and for the sake of Vic.

The Joint Executive, Students' Administrative Council

UT seldom heard of and little understood, the Joint Executive is nevertheless the moving force behind many of the activities that the undergraduate takes for granted.

Created in the first instance to achieve a joint responsibility in the administration of finance, the Joint Executive has since expanded its province to take in all those many affairs which concern the whole body of undergraduates and are not the special function of either of the Councils.

Chiefly, its duties are the promotion and management of the publications, "The Varsity", TORONTONENSIS and the "Students' Handbook" as the property of the students, are under the control of the Joint Executive.

During the past two years the Joint Executive has worked under the tremendous disadvantage of a large debt which came to them as a legacy from the past war years of business depression. The existence of this debt has necessitated a policy of the strictest economy and a curtailment of many of the projects which would be of service to the students. If, however, the debt has been a handicap in this respect, it has also been a great incentive to the Joint Executive. The student members have been made to feel their responsibility in the task of regaining financial stability, and it would be proper to say that during these lean years the Joint Executive has functioned as a strictly efficient and business-like organization.

The first annual conference of the National Federation of Canadian University Students was held in Toronto during the Christmas holidays, and the five Toronto delegates presented to the Executive an exhaustive report on the work of the Federation and its proposed activities.

The participation of the Executive in the Centenary Celebrations and the N.F.C.U.S. conference, in addition to thorough consideration of finance and organization, has made the duties of the members of the Executive particularly heavy during the past year. The executive feels, however, that the work accomplished will greatly influence the future activities of the Joint Executive.

The Students' Administrative Council

NIVERSITY history records that the Students' Administrative Council came into being in 1914 as a natural development from the old Students' Parliament. Fourteen years of uninterrupted existence will qualify it for an honourable position among student organizations and, further, will testify to the useful function that it has served.

In its present form the Council is composed of thirty-six members elected or appointed by the various colleges and faculties. The Executive Committee of ten is made up of eight elected by the Council from its own members; the President, who is a graduate still associated with the University chosen by the Council and the Secretary, who is an officer on salary.

By virtue of liberal powers conferred upon it by the Caput, the Students' Administrative Council exercises a legislative and governing function for the undergraduate men. The Students' Court, as one of the departments of the Council, is entrusted with the preservation of the general discipline. At the time of writing it has not been found necessary to convene the Court in a single instance.

This year the Council, through the Debates Committee, has sponsored a debating tour into the United States, and in conjunction with the Hart House

Debates, arranged the visit of the Maritime Team.

The Rooters' Club and the Students' Band were more active than ever in supplying the colourful note at the football games. At the present time the Council is assisting the Athletic Directorate in working out plans for a fuller participation of the students in these events.

The Centenary Celebration in October occupied the first attention of the Council. Sub-Committees were appointed to take charge of the various phases of student participation. As a result of their efficient and enthusiastic work the students played a prominent part in the celebrations and contributed two very noteworthy features—the parade and the Undergraduates' Ball.

By way of experiment this year the Council has inaugurated open meetings. Apparently the male undergraduate has no fear of secret diplomacy for he has shown no tendency to attend in large numbers. The system has, however, proven satisfactory and will be continued for this year.

Women Students' Administrative Council

HE Women Students' Administrative Council is one of the organizations which came into being during the stress and strain of the War years. Until that time the women of the University had always carried on all activities except interfaculty athletics entirely in the individual colleges and faculties. During the War, however, the need for some central body which could discuss and organize affairs of interest to university women as a whole became apparent. After a year of effort and constitution making, the Women Students' Administrative Council was brought into being in the spring of 1916 with the Presidency in University College.

The Council is composed of representatives from the women undergraduates' societies of all colleges and faculties. There are seventeen seats on the Council, each college or faculty having representation more or less according to size. The presidents of the undergraduate societies in University College, Victoria College, Trinity College, St. Michael's College, and the Faculty of Medicine, with the General Secretary-Treasurer, who is a graduate appointed by the Board of Governors, make up the Executive, and are the women members of the Joint Executive. The other faculties and departments represented are: O.C.E., Social Service, Dentistry and Public Health Nursing.

The offices rotate among the colleges each year, Miss Marion Forward, Vic. '28, being this year's President, and Miss Joyce Finlay, St. Hilda's '28, the Vice-President.

The Council is responsible for various undertakings. A free book exchange is maintained, and tickets for the women's sections at games, debates, etc., are handled by the Council. Since 1918 the women have taken joint responsibility with the men in the publication of The Varsity, Torontonensis and the Handbook, and in all other matters in which the interests of both men and women students are involved. This year the part of the women in the Centenary Celebration was organized by a Committee of the Council and representatives also took part in the annual meeting of the N.F.C.U.S. in order to keep the Council in direct touch with the work of that body.

University College Literary and Athletic Society

NIVERSITY COLLEGE this year enjoyed perhaps the most momentous year in her history. The Fall term opened with more enthusiasm than ever before. The men returned with a keen realization that they were about to celebrate the Hundredth Anniversary of their College, and their enthusiasm was evidenced by their hearty participation in the Centenary Celebration. The spirit of enthusiasm survived the celebration of the first two weeks, and it seemed to pervade the activities of the "Lit" throughout the year.

The "Lit" had the honour of playing an important part in the festivities of the celebration. A University Undergraduate Committee was formed and the "Lit" was asked to co-operate with them as much as possible. The Junior Common Room was offered to the Committee, and it was there that the banquet was tendered to the visiting undergraduate delegates. The "Lit" also co-operated with the Parade Committee and entered five floats in the undergraduate parade. Three of the floats very fittingly represented outstanding events in the history of the College. They portrayed in turn "The Signing of the Charter", "The Laying of the Corner-stone" and "The Advent of Co-education." The floats, in arrangement and sentiment, were very much in keeping with the dignity of the College.

There was, however, a tinge of sadness felt at that time, particularly by the undergraduates of University College. To our great sorrow during the summer we lost our enthusiastic and energetic Honorary President, the late Maurice Cody. One of the first acts of the "Lit" was to establish in his memory a prize, which is known as the Maurice Cody Memorial Prize. This prize is to be presented annually for public speaking and interest in the activities of the Society, and it serves as a very fitting token of our friendship and esteem for the late Maurice Cody.

When the school term opened we were very fortunate in obtaining Mr. H. J. McLaughlin, a former Vice-President of the Literary and Scientific Society, to fill the position of Honorary President.

The "Lit" followed the precedent set last year, and tendered a reception to the freshmen. The old form of procedure was, however, departed from since the first year nominations were held during the evening. The result was that a great interest was stimulated in the elections that followed a week later. The Soph-Frosh Banquet concluded the election, and on account of a novel scheme of ticket selling that was introduced the banquet was one of the largest ever held.

This year, in accordance with the new clauses in the Constitution, the Literary Director and his Committee were in charge of all debates, and the interest aroused in debating and public speaking was mainly the result of their work. The Parliamentary Club held eight meetings during the year, and on all occasions marked interest was displayed.

The publication of the much-talked-of University College Magazine was one of the greater undertakings of the Literary Director. It is many years since University College has boasted a magazine of her own, and we believe that here the "Lit" set a precedent that will grow in importance as the years go by.

Athletics in University College did not begin the year auspiciously, and our rugby and soccer teams lost several games. In "track", however, we fared much better and lost the Championship to "School" by a very small margin. Unfortunately we were without the services of a certain double winner, who was later Intercollegiate Champion. But with the opening of the indoor season U.C. stepped to the front and won the swimming and water polo titles with little difficulty. In the latter Senior and Junior U.C. repeated their feat of 1926-27, and the two teams played off in the finals for the title.

This year was the first in many that University College has had a College Assault, and the interest shown in it was also evident in the Junior Assault, which was won by our College for the second consecutive year. Although there was no particular activity in tennis this fall in the College, U.C. was honoured by having two of her men wrest from McGill the Intercollegiate Doubles Title that she has held for so long.

The social programme of the "Lit" was an extensive one. The Fall dance held at Jenkins' was the first of its kind sponsored by the Society, and the hope has been widely expressed that this dance will become an annual event. The "Follies" were, as usual, the popular social event of the College during the Fall term.

The "Lit" this year followed the policy set last year of fostering musicals in the Common Room and a great demand for tickets signified their popularity. The most brilliant function of the season was the Arts Ball, and it made a very formal conclusion to the series of social activities of the year.

We men of University College reflect with a great sense of appreciation and pride when we consider that we have added another successful year to the history of our College. We are justly proud of the work of our predecessors in the hundred years that are past; we must thrill with hope as we trust to our successors the years that lie ahead.

The U.C. Women Undergraduates' Association

HE Women Undergraduates' Association is the officially representative and administrative body of the women students. It is the one organization to which all women of the College belong, and as such it seeks to unify their interests.

The W.U.A. co-operated with the Literary and Athletic Society in the undergraduates' share of the Centenary celebrations, principally by means of the floats for the Student Parade.

On enrolment day the W.U.A. gave out the usual handbooks and information to the Freshies. Later the initiation party took the form of stunts performed by the Freshies, followed by an impressive ceremony at which the seniors formally initiated the first year women.

In November the Annual Autumn Tea was held in East and West Halls, when the Freshies were introduced to the wives of the Faculty and graduates.

At Christmas time Mrs. Malcolm Wallace and Mrs. Dow very kindly assisted the students in putting on a Nativity Play at the Annual Christmas Party at the Union.

The W.U.A. sent a delegate to the Convention of the Student Volunteer Movement in Detroit.

In January a Bridge Party was held with the idea of promoting greater friendliness between the graduates and the undergraduates, and with the purpose of raising money for the U.C. Women's Building Fund.

The annual Oratorical Contest was held in February, the prize being awarded by the St. Margaret's College Alumnae Association.

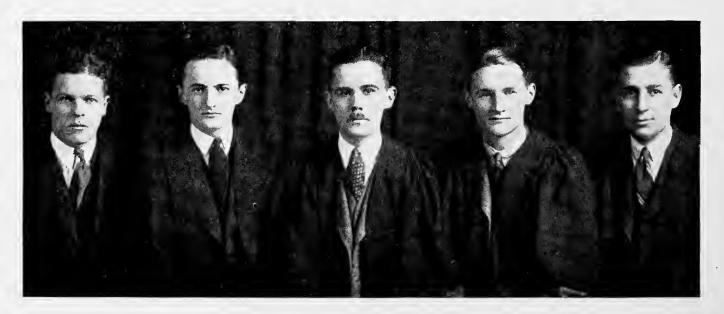

A gown week was held in each term to foster the academic spirit among undergraduate women.

Victoria College Students' Parliament

ROM the days of Plato's Republic, Moore's Utopia and Rousseau, political thinkers have been concentrating on the ideal of a representative government, free from faction, friction and forensic futility which should guide the destinies of a people with a maximum of efficiency and a minimum of effort. Alas that such men did not live in the days of the Victoria College Students' Parliament! Their worn reeds would be broken, their thinking ended as they recognized in that organization the consummation of their dreams, realized after strenuous and tedious processes of evolution and development, in the present constitution of that body.

Despite the renowned example of Demosthenes our parliamentarians have discovered that pebbles do not even approach Chelsea-buns for efficacy in developing all that is latent in an orator. Only infrequently, however, four times to be specific, did the student body consent to partake of the apparently unwelcome diet of guns and bombast. The executive of the Parliament, indeed, has no small reason to feel pride in the implicit confidence placed in its administration by the student body in general when no word of criticism of its jurisdiction was so much as breathed at the aforesaid open meetings. Nay more, it is well known in College circles that its president, the quondam blood-curdling despot of the "Mikado," commands the love and respect of his people in a way only equalled by the reverent devotion of the Russians to their Little Father. And what a group of Lord High Executioners has he assembled to execute his every whim! Hoary Seniors, who, in some inadvertent moment, were placed at the head of their respective societies, shoulder their responsibilities and deliberate in solemn conclave with youthful second year representatives. "At Homes," Freshman ties, Oratorical Contests, Floats, Parades, Debates, etc., are all sparks from the anvil of this Cyclopean forge.

Victoria Women Undergraduates' Association

HE Women Undergraduates' Association officially represents and is in charge of the administration of all the women students of Victoria College. On the executive are representatives from each year with the presidents of all societies. Thus it is in close touch with the various interests of all four years, and can ably express the opinion of the undergraduate women.

The need for increased residence accommodation led the W.U.A. to sponsor a campaign for this. It also supervises the Women Students' Union under the council of the Dean.

The Sunday evening musicales at Wymilwood have become an important factor in the life of the College. The programmes are planned by the W.U.A. These informal evenings have been a means of furthering friendship and goodwill among the students.

The W.U.A. is not only a representative organization but a unifying force for all the general activities of college life.

History of Class 2T9 Victoria

A charming child, Mrs. V., and such a comfort to his parents.

HE Class of 2T9 is now in the third year of its lusty life, and Mrs. Vic., like all fond mothers, has kept a complete account of all the events in the life of the youngster.

Arriving in the fall of 1926, little '29 was the last of Mrs. Vic.'s children to be started on the maxim "Spare the rod and spoil the child." This class will go down through history as the butt of the last Soph-Frosh initiation and fight in Victoria College.

At the early age of two months '29 became addicted to parties, and since that age has "thrown" four each year, which have attained such fame as to be mentioned in the same breath as the School At-Home, the Vic. At-Home and the Masquerade.

Far from becoming exclusively a tea-hound the class of '29 early showed signs of athletic ability, and bravely shook its rattle in the face of age and experience. The sophomore year exhibited increase in strength and stature, and intervear victories again came to our young hero. The girls attained the swimming championship and members of the class were stars in basketball, water polo, tennis, and baseball. The child has leaped into its third year of athletic prowess with characteristic vigour and confidence.

All brawn and no brains? Certainly not, as the part taken in Lits, S.C.M., and Student Parliament work readily show. Whether in social, athletic, or academic spheres '29 will always be found among the leaders. Three years is a rather mature age for a college class, and in the next, and last, year of '29's life we may, judging from previous experiences, expect great things from this great child.

3T0 Class History Victoria

EPTEMBER 1927 witnessed the return of 3T0 to the precincts of Victoria. Just a year before we created a record for being the largest year to enter Vic.; this year we are even greater numerically, and, of course, intellectually.

The Bob went off with a gusto unsurpassed by any former Sophomore year. Although we were denied even a "tapping" party for the Frosh we made them look the part by the winged collar and yellow bow effect. The women held their annual initiation with more than usual success.

The first social event, a hike, was planned for early in October, but was unavoidably postponed due to the "Great Plague" which passed over us. We, however, managed to hold a very successful reunion at Scarboro Bluffs immediately after the quarantine was lifted. A bonfire, haunted house, and impromptu skits provided a hilarious evening.

Early in December the year turned out en masse to Annesley Hall for the gayest party in our history. A snappy orchestra delighted the dancers, and the Uptown provided a good time for the balance.

Both men and women of 3T0 have been well represented in athletics. Prominent on basketball, football, hockey, rugby and soccer teams are members of the class, a number of the men winning their V's in interfaculty series.

A strong spring executive is presided over by Earl Lautenslager, and under the able supervision of Dr. J. D. Robins the outlook for the future is indeed bright.

Trinity College Literary Institute

N a resumé of the Lit. the first thought that comes to mind is that this society is very old as University institutions go. For, although it was founded under its present title in 1853, it was descended from the days of the Diocesan Theological Institute in Cobourg. In the activities of its new surroundings it still remains established and vigorous, which is shown by the success of our speakers in the Inter-College Debating Union last year, when Messrs. T. H. Taylor, F. M. Reid, W. L. Smith and C. J. Frank remained undefeated in the struggle for the Kerr Shield.

Debating has been emphasized for some years now in the interpretation of our motto, "Feros Cultus Voce Formare". At the regular meetings on Friday evenings the Common Room is the scene of Party debates under the Parliamentary system, with due attention to ceremony and traditional usage. Upon defeat in two successive party debates the Council of nine members goes out of office. It is succeeded by the official Opposition of five members, with the necessary additions, who then form the "Government". The Council has full executive authority and arranges the Oratorical Contest each year and other entertainments. Lately the combined debates with the St. Hilda's Literary Society have met with encouraging approval and not being partisan the debates allow all members free discussion upon which ever side they choose. The Conversazione is held annually under the supervision of a special committee, which each year has earned the commendation of the members.

St. Michael's Students' Administrative Council

HE Students' Administrative Council of St. Michael's College has as its formal object the supervision of the conduct of the students in relation to the ordinary regulations of the College and the University, and the organization and promulgation of student activities and societies within the College.

The personnel of the Council consists of the President and Vice-President of the senior year, who retain their respective offices in the council, the President of the junior year who acts in the capacity of Secretary-Treasurer, and the Presidents of the Sophomore and Freshman years who function as councillors.

With the exception of the President of the Freshman year these officers are elected by their colleagues during the latter part of the spring term. The President is ex-officio St. Michael's College representative to the Students' Administrative Council of the University.

All student activities apart from the academic and athletic phases of College life, are included under the jurisdiction of the Council. This embraces such affairs as the Freshman Reception, Students' Parliament, the oratorical contests and inter-year debates, and the various societies and clubs flourishing among the students. In all these endeavours the Council has as its aim service to the student body.

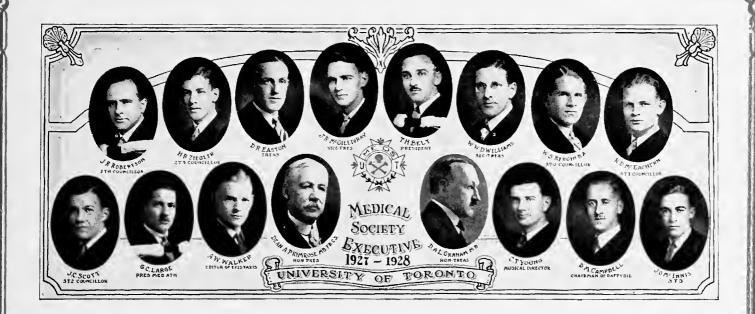

The Council acts as a nexus between the Faculty and the student body in matters pertaining to student life outside of lecture hall.

During this term the Council was successful in promoting a number of interesting and novel entertainments for the students and their friends. The Smoker, held in Hart House in the early part of the term, was an outstanding success and brought favourable comment from graduates and undergraduates alike.

Possibly the most important social event of the year is the Arts' Banquet, which this year was held in the latter part of January. From a gastric and forensic point of view it was the most successful of all the various enterprises sponsored by the Council.

This centralization of student government and organization probably tends more to the success of the year's activities than any other factor in the life of the student body.

The Medical Society

ROM the far-off days of '95 the medical students of the University of Toronto have had an undergraduate organization, elected for the purpose of administering student activities. Though the changing years and altered customs have made necessary many additions to the original constitution, the basic purposes which the first Society served still exist. Elections are held each year in February, and the incoming executive takes office when the Fall term begins. Besides president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer and assistant those comprising the executive are the various year presidents, a musical director and a "Varsity" reporter, together with the president of the Medical Athletic Society.

Had it no purpose other than that of administering faculty social events, and business matters pertaining to the student body, the Medical Society would have served a useful purpose. But there is a far broader aspect. It is the aim of the Society to promote co-operation between staff and students and to arrange educational meetings which may serve to draw the various years together for the discussion of topics, both academic and extra-mural. It is under the auspices of the Medical Society that the University of Toronto Medical Journal is published. This publication, the only one of its kind in existence, is the special protegé of the Society. The administration of the Medical Sick Fund is another of the important functions of the Society.

Daffydil Night that annual fun fest held in Convocation Hall, is a Medical Society production, as are the Annual At-Home and Faculty Dinner.

The Engineering Society.

HE University of Toronto Engineering Society, the oldest Engineering Society in Canada, came into being on February 6th, 1885. During its first three years, from 1885-1888, the late Dr. J. Galbraith, then Dean of the School of Practical Science, was the President, but in the following year the members of the Society elected their first student president. Since that time the affairs of the Society have been entirely in the hands of the undergraduate body.

The objects of the Society are the promotion, organization and control of student activities, social and athletic, within the Faculty of Applied Science. It also aims to supplement the technical education of its members as laid down by the curriculum by holding general meetings for which the first Engineers and best known public men of the day are procured as speakers. These meetings are held regularly every two weeks and, in addition, meetings are organized, from time to time, by the five federated and affiliated clubs. At these latter meetings, matters of local importance, too technical and detailed for general consideration, are discussed.

The affairs of the Society are administered by its Executive, which consists, according to the recently revised Constitution, of a President, two Vice-Presidents, Secretary and Treasurer, who are the officers of the Society, together with the four Year Presidents, the Chairmen of the federated and affiliated clubs and the President of the Athletic Association. The Senior Students' Administrative Council representative and the Director of Publications and Publicity are members of the executive ex-officio.

The President and First Vice-President and the Presidents of the four years form the recognized means of communication, on behalf of the students, between the undergraduate body and the Faculty Council.

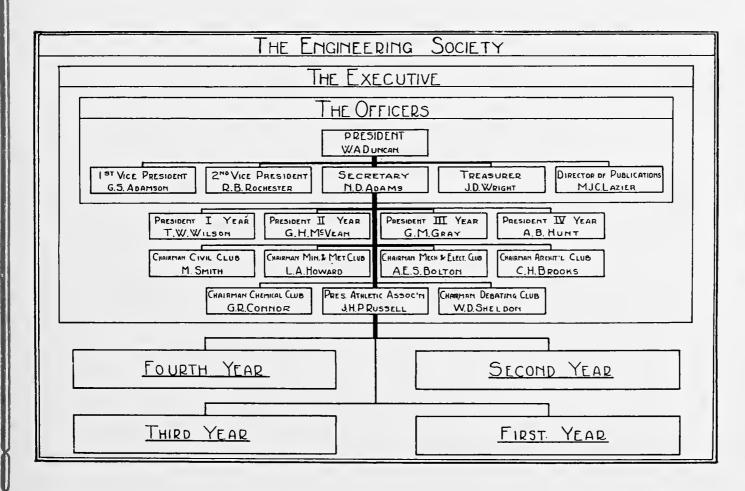

The First Vice-President, besides being the President's chief assistant, is directly responsible for the Society's social activities. To his lot falls the assembling and the Chairmanship of the committees which organize the Annual "School" Dinner and the Society's formal "At-Home."

The Second Vice-President is the manager of the Society's Supply Department—a small store which carries a supply of stationery, draughting materials and other merchandise calculated to fill the daily wants of the Society's members.

In the hands of the Director of Publications are the "Transactions and Year Book," published annually in the Spring and the "Toike Oike," a small paper published from time to time, as occasion demands, and containing freshman instruction, news, gossip and matters of local importance.

The Year Presidents and Club Chairmen, with their several executives, are responsible for the activities, social and otherwise, of their particular year or club.

The Society, through the President of the Athletic Association, takes care of all athletic pursuits in "School". Through the Chairman of the Debating Club it assists one to become an orator of parts if one so desires. The Society co-operates with the Student Christian Association, the strongest organization of its kind in the University. In short, the Engineering Society is interested in and influences every phase of student activity in School and in the University as a whole.

The Civil Club

S the latest addition from "School" to the Civil Engineering profession, we, the Civils of 1928, feel that we owe a solemn debt of gratitude:

To President Falconer and the University of Toronto for the excellent educational facilities provided;

To Dean Mitchell and the Honorary Officers of the Civil Club, viz., Professors Gillespie, Young and Loudon and other members of the Faculty, firstly for their uncomplaining, conscientious efforts in our behalf, academically and socially, and secondly for their splendid example as gentlemen;

To the founders of Hart House and to Warden Bickersteth, under whose wise guidance "The House" has given to us privileges and associations to be treasured throughout life, and last but not least;

To the creators of "Varsity Tradition" and "School Spirit" which have made these four years the best we shall ever live in that the thoughts of associations we have enjoyed, and the friendships we have made thereby are among our dearest treasures.

We relinquish, to those who are to follow, our task of upholding only the best as regards our University. May they go further where we have succeeded and advance where we have stood still.

We hope to accomplish in the world of Engineering that which will prove of service to mankind. Thus we strive to prove ourselves worthy of the confidence that has been placed in us, and to show our appreciation to those who have given us this splendid advantage. May the sacred memories of "School" and the University of Toronto keep us from faltering in our purpose.

The Mining and Metallurgical Club

We are miners seeking riches

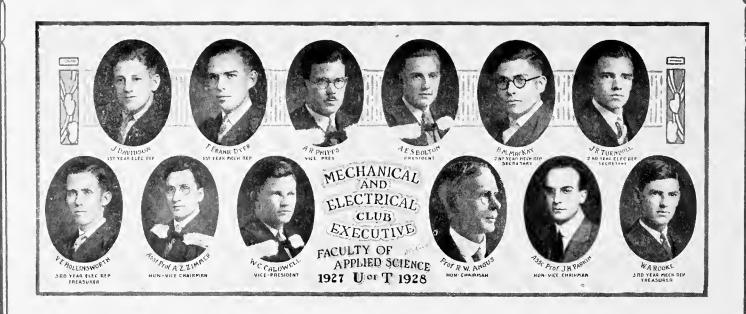

UT not only riches, for Canadian Mining has even more to offer than great wealth. All the recent optimism is more than justified by our great country to the north, and as more and more big camps are opened up we realize that this great region, bounded on the East by the Atlantic, on the West by the Pacific, and on the North by the Arctic Ocean, has barely been touched.

The lure of riches is only a minor part of the attraction for there is no life anywhere quite as free, as healthy and as interesting as the life lead by a Mining Engineer. It is no exaggeration to say that some of the finest men in the world are those who have chosen to follow what is now one of Canada's most important industries.

The Club was fortunate in having a man of this type accept the position of Honorary President, and to Mr. Bob Bryce goes the credit for most of the splendid speakers who have addressed the Club this year.

The Freshman class of thirty-two has broken all records, and if a cause may be judged by its apostles, the professions of Mining and Metallurgical Engineering rank among the first.

The Mechanical and Electrical Club

HE Mechanical and Electrical Club, a subsidiary club to the Engineering Society, has operated this year under a new policy. Due to the very large membership, about 250, it was decided to split the Club into two sections, Mechanical and Electrical. This innovation has met with a great success as it allowed each section to hold small meetings of its own, thus encouraging a general discussion, and also trips for twenty-five to fifty participants. In our estimation this idea should be continued and enlarged upon until the Club is able to offer something of interest to each of its members and thus become a very influential part of the Engineering Society.

The sectional meetings were held in Hart House and followed a dinner in the Great Hall. After a short sing-song the paper or papers of the evening were delivered by members of the section and then discussed by all those present.

Along with the regular meetings of the Club and sectional and club trips, which took in Niagara Falls, Dundas, the Toronto Transportation Commission's Hillcrest Yards, Buffalo, and a Toronto Telephone Exchange, another innovation, a dance, was tried. This took the form of an open meeting held at U.T.S. on December 17th, where all and sundry tripped the light fantastic from eight to twelve with a short stop at ten for eats and repairs. This dance was so successful that as a closing function the long halls and library were again visited, en masse in March for another happy four hours well spent. And just at twelve midnight, the short pause before the venture into another day, the year's activities were fittingly brought to a close with a lusty TOIKE OIKE.

Architectural Club

HE Architects are like a large family. We live on the top floor of the Engineering Building, for the most part happily. Of course, if one lays down his paint-mug his brother acquires it, but then the wronged one takes his sister's, and all is right again. It is a tradition of the family as in all families of thirty-five or more, that seniors bequeath their cast-off smocks to the younger ones. We must work. If at night you see lights in the Engineering Building you will know that the Architects are working. We have our black sheep and our white-headed boys. We have a family cake of soap.

Last autumn we had our annual dinner, at which Mr. W. L. Somerville, the Honorary Chairman of the Club, gave us a humorous speech on what not to do in our profession. Professor C. H. C. Wright gave an interesting address on the ideals of the profession. The freshmen entertained with speeches, skits and music.

Owing to good weather our sketching trips were many and profitable, under the direction of Professor C. H. C. Wright and Mr. C. W. Jefferys. Every now and then we have meetings, inviting prominent men to address the Club on subjects relating to Architecture. These meetings are very popular. Tea is served afterwards.

The Architectural Club has a tradition. That is so, but we look to the future. In the prosperity that Canada most certainly has before her, we may build beautifully for her, and do our part by a sincere effort to express her national character in her buildings.

The Industrial Chemical Club

HE Industrial Chemical Club is one of the federated and affiliated clubs which make up the Engineering Society, and, as such, represents the students registered in the course in Chemical Engineering of the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering. The Club was started in the School year 1908-1909 for the purpose of organizing the students in Chemical Engineering to promote sociability, to possess a means of getting in touch with the Faculty in a united way, and to facilitate a means of getting in touch with the staff of the Faculty in a united way, and to facilitate the visiting of manufacturing plants throughout the city and elsewhere.

The meetings take the form of Smokers and Dinners where papers are read by graduates, men prominent in various industries or the students themselves. In this manner the students become better acquainted with each other and with their professors. They learn much from the experience of graduates who address them, gain a greater conception of the scope of the field which they are entering, and some idea of the opportunities which it affords.

The Club trips are not confined to this city alone, but often visits are made to industries many miles away. This gives the members of the Club a practical conception of the application of Chemistry to industry, and an opportunity to get first-hand knowledge of the machinery used, methods of handling production which are otherwise difficult to obtain. The social side of these trips is not to be overlooked either. Members get to know each other, and for a real good time such trips have no equal.

This year is a noteworthy one for the Department of Chemical Engineering because for the first time in history more men registered in Chemical than in any other Department in the First Year of the Faculty. This is just one instance of the increasing interest being shown Chemical Engineering.

And now 2T8 graduate and leave to take their places in the world outside. May a full measure of success be theirs and may they be a credit to their Department, their Faculty and their University.

Foresters' Club

HE Foresters' Club of the University of Toronto was founded in 1909, with the object of furthering the social and technical education of the undergraduates, and to promote a feeling of goodwill among the undergraduates, graduates and faculty.

The activities of this year were particularly well carried out by the executive of the Club, and express to the fullest extent the object of the Founders.

In a social way the Club conducted the unique annual Stunt Night, the Annual Banquet, at which Dr. Zeigler of the Pennsylvania State Forest School was the speaker of the evening, our Annual At-Home and the smoker.

In a technical way, the Club has been addressed by prominent men in the profession and related sciences, on hydro-electric power development, forest pathology, lumbering and entomology. Through these lectures the members have an excellent opportunity to learn some facts that are extra curricula.

The members of the executive are to be congratulated on the programme for the year, and the class of '28 sincerely wish the Club the best success for the future.

The sports of the School are governed by the Athletic Association. Forestry has teams entered in all the interfaculty leagues, and while few championships are won, the teams do their best.

The executive of the Athletic Club for the year 1927-28 was:

Hon. President	Prof. T. W. Dwight
President	L. Simpson
Secretary
Treasurer
Councillor	A. P. MacBean

Students' Parliament of the Faculty of Dentistry

HE Students' Parliament is the medium through which the undergraduates of the Faculty of Dentistry are represented in social, athletic and other activities of the University and Dental Profession. Every undergraduate is a member and pays an annual fee.

The Cabinet, the executive body of the Students' Parliament, is chosen by ballot at the end of each university year, all the officers being undergraduates who are elected with regard to their respective ability to cater to the demands of their fellow-students, their Faculty, and their University. The executive is composed of a president and thirteen officers.

The President is directly responsible for the Parliament's activities and is the Faculty's senior representative on the Students' Administrative Council of the University.

The President of the senior year is vice-president and is the President's right hand man in all activities.

Knox College Undergraduate Association

HE Knox College Undergraduates' Association reports an eventful, interesting and successful year. The fortnightly meetings of the K.C.U.A., following the annual elections in October, have been well attended, and much latent debating ability has been disclosed—especially by the Opposition.

The House Committee has functioned ably and well, and has shown remarkable stoicism toward the customary abuse directed against such bodies. Everything under the direction of this committee has run smoothly and efficiently.

The Programme and Worship Committee has done much to create the proper religious tone in the devotional exercises of the Knox men. In addition they have put on highly enjoyable social functions, which have enabled the boys "to forget dull cares" for a few hours at least.

Knox athletics have been capably supervised by the Athletic Committee. The Soccer Team—the Pride of Knox—although composed mainly of new players, battled its way successfully through its group and through the semi-finals to the Interfaculty Finals, when after two hard-fought contests, the Purple and White warriors bowed to the boys from "Vic." The Rugby Team, weakened by injuries, played valiantly and well, although not victorious. At the time of writing the Basketball and Hockey Teams are still in embryo, but we confidently predict that they will maintain the proud record for sportsmanship earned by Knox teams in the past.

Old Knox goes proudly forward, assured that the future is hers.

The United Church Students' Association

NEW college, known at present as Union Theological College, is in the process of formation. It will be the theological college of the United Church of Canada in Toronto. The announcement of this fact was made last spring by the Joint Faculty of Knox College and the Faculty of Theology of Victoria University. There was included in this announcement the decision to bring together at once the two student bodies concerned. This meant that a new student organization had to be formed, and a committee was appointed to prepare the way.

At the opening of the present session the United Church Students' Association was constituted, the purpose of which is to direct the various aspects of student life. It functions through an Executive Committee, which consists of the officers of the Association and the Chairmen of the Standing Committees, The Committees are five in number, namely, Residence, Missionary, Social, Athletic and Common Worship.

Despite the difficulty of new conditions, many worthy things have been accomplished. Meetings have been held at which subjects of special interest to men preparing for the service of the Church have been discussed; a delegation of four was sent to the S.V.M. Convention at Detroit; communion services, discussion groups with prominent church leaders, musicales, and social events, embracing the whole Church student body, have been found helpful and enjoyable; football, basketball and hockey teams have taken their places in interfaculty sports. In all a fine spirit of real unity has been manifest, and the developments of the future are awaited with a greater hope born of confidence.

Wycliffe College Literary Society

HE Wycliffe College Literary Society is the official representative organization of the undergraduates of the college and transacts their business, governing most of the non-athletic activities of the student body. While membership in the Society may now bestow upon the modern student those rare advantages which caused Boswell such great delight at his election to a place in the famous Literary Club of the exclusive Johnsonian circle, yet the "Lit." has a most valuable contribution to exclusive Johnsonian circle, yet the "Lit." has a most valuable contribution to make to the life of the undergraduate by providing an opportunity for self-expression in a most stimulating atmosphere. The Society plays a most important part in the general education of the undergraduate by the encouragement of literary taste, the development of the art of public speaking, and the training of its members in the public conduct of business; and the memory of the hours spent in association with its lesser Burkes, Goldsmiths, Reynolds and Johnsons will ever be treasured as one of the richest legacies of college days.

Under the able leadership of Dr. H. S. Coulthard the Society has held a very successful series of meetings during the past year, at which an increased interest in the true objects of the Society has been manifested by its members. New emphasis has been placed on the motto of the Society, "Magna est admiratio copiose sapienterque dicentis", and the inauguration of the new party debates system has had the result of arousing an increased interest in debating. But although floods of oratory have flowed from the lips of the enthusiastic members of the two parties at these debates, it must be admitted that some times the debaters follow too closely the example of other worthy politicians in speaking "copiose" but not "sapienter". The forces of the Government, under the leadership of Mr. M. T. Newby, M.A., have faced a very vigorous Opposition party led by Mr. H. R. Perkins; and so close has been the contest that the Government is generally in the precarious position of a tree on the brink of a precipice from the roots of which the earth is crumbling.

In addition to the party debates and the inter-divisional debates for the Taylor Trophy, the Society also provides for an interesting programme of literary and musical evenings, an oratorical contest, and open meetings with popular speakers; while the social life of the Society finds expression in autumn hikes and bus rides and winter sleighing and skating parties.

O.V.C. Students' Administrative Council

HE Students' Administrative Council of the Ontario Veterinary College is the executive head of the student body. It is composed of eleven members, three of which are representatives from the senior year, three from the junior, three from the sophomore, and two from the freshmen. Its officers constitute a president, who is a senior year representative, a vice-president, secretary and treasurer.

Meetings of the Council are held every two weeks, at which time all matters appertaining to student activities are discussed and decided upon. The council is able to veto or sanction any movement brought before it by members of the student body, as it has full power to act on all such matters.

Any dissension existing within the student organizations is brought before the Students' Council, the decision of which is final. Student activities are governed by the Council, none taking place without its ratification.

All athletics are controlled by this board of student officials, which furnishes full equipment for every branch of sport. Athletic fees are paid to the Council annually, which are to be used, at its discretion, in a manner most advantageous to the student body.

Such a governing body is absolutely essential to student life, as it stands for co-operation and rigid discipline among the students. Without the existence of this organization it would be difficult to handle matters of paramount consequence relative to the academic life of every student.

University of Toronto Rifle Association

Intercollegiate Champions 1926-27

HE University of Toronto Rifle Association was organized in 1904 by such men as Dean DeLury, Dr. Henderson and Prof. Lash-Miller for the purpose of creating within the University the means of taking part in the competitive sport of rifle shooting without the need of joining one of the Militia Units.

The Association built up a membership of over three hundred and became one of the most active clubs in the University. The organization of the C.O.T.C. found many men who had become skilled in the handling of the rifle through their membership and participation in the activities of the Rifle Association.

The War caused a suspension of the Club's active work, but the task of reorganization was taken up in 1919 by a small body of enthusiasts.

To-day the Association has a membership of around one hundred. The majority of these are expert rifle shots, as is shown by the winning of the D.C.R.A. Intercollegiate Trophy by a score which raised the record 14 points and would have done credit to any military rifle team in the country. This match was fired on the Long Branch Rifle Range. The Hart House Range on which the winter activities of the Association take place, is classed by the shooting fraternity as the finest indoor range in Canada.

The Club is under the following officers:

Hon. President—Gen. Mitchell.

Hon. Capt.—Major Utton.

Directors—Dr. Henderson, Dean DeLury, Prof. Lash-Miller.

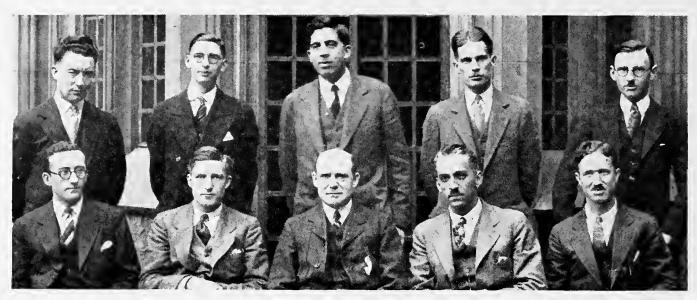

President-Prof. Lucas.

Captain—Lieut. Hayhurst.

Secretary—A. Somerville.

Treasurer—Lieut. Foley.

The Student Christian Association

is asked for; not the least part of the value of the Association being the opportunity it affords to individuals of searching for Truth in company with others engaged in the same task. To this end, one of the main activities of the Association is the arrangement of Study and Discussion Groups in all faculties under competent leadership, and covering a wide range of subjects.

Another important element in the programme of the S.C.A. is the series of addresses by prominent speakers that is arranged for each term, and the occasional noon-hour talks by outstanding visitors to the city. In addition, services are held in Hart House Chapel, and from time to time in one or other of the College chapels, for both men and women.

Each College and Faculty in the University has its own local association, and the men's and women's Cabinets respectively are comprised of the Presidents of the local units together with an executive committee.

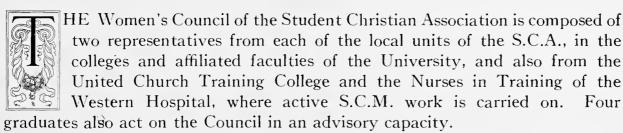

The Headquarters of the Men are in Hart House (Rev. F. J. Moore), and of the women in the Household Science Building (Miss Mary Rowell).

The Student Christian Association of the University of Toronto is itself a unit in the Student Christian Movement of Canada.

The Women's Council of the Student Christian Association

The Council held a conference at Oakville early in October to outline plans for the year, and has since met once a month. Its purpose is to provide an opportunity for fellowship, interchange of ideas and co-ordination of plans, and to co-operate with the Men's Cabinet in any joint undertakings.

The aim of the Movement is to lead students to an understanding of life, and it is based on the conviction that in Jesus are found the supreme revelations of God and the means to the full realization of life. This aim is pursued in the local organizations through study groups, services of worship, general and social meetings, social service work, etc.

During the session 1927-28 activities of the Council included International teas for foreign women students, noon hour addresses, and in conjunction with the men, the bringing of speakers, such as Dr. Bruce Curry, who held a series of study groups on Life Problems; and Max Yergan, the well-known Negro student secretary. Two conferences have been held which drew the interest of many students. Toronto women were represented at Elgin House, the Central Conference of the Canadian S.C.M. in September, by some forty delegates, and about thirty went to the Quadrennial Convention of the Student Volunteer Movement which was held in Detroit at Christmas time. This has created a wide interest in international and missionary affairs.

The Newman Club

EWMAN CLUB is a club for Catholic students attendant at institutions of higher learning in the city of Toronto. Founded by His Grace Archbishop McNeill, D.D., in 1913, it has just completed one of the most successful years in its history. The intention of the founder and the patrons of Newman Club was the union of Catholic students for their common helpfulness in promoting their religious, intellectual and social welfare.

From small beginnings the institution has grown into a powerful organization and its advance has been very rapid. The first club house on St. Joseph St. served the purpose admirably for a few years, but the increase in membership made a removal to larger quarters necessary. The directors of the Club accordingly purchased the old Matthews residence at St. George St. and Hoskin Ave. This magnificent home made a palatial club house and affords accommodation for twenty men as well.

A beautiful chapel has been erected, which has received a great deal of praise from architects who have examined it closely. While it follows Gothic lines strictly and may be compared with many small churches in England, it is not modelled after any existing example. In point of beauty it is in keeping with the other University buildings.

The spiritual exercises of the student are well directed by a resident chaplain. The intellectual advancement is fostered by debates, public speaking contests and addresses by men prominent in professional and political life. The social activity of the Club is one of its most pleasing features. Dances, teas, smokers, and other entertainments take place with agreeable frequency, giving the members congenial associations which they would not otherwise obtain.

Under the leadership of the Chaplain the executive of the Club has worked to ensure the most successful year in the Club's history, signalized by the greatest membership the institution has known and the introduction of many novel features, both educational and social.

University of Toronto Menorah Society

HE University of Toronto Menorah Society was founded in the year 1916, practically absorbing the Toronto Hebrew Students' Association, which had been organized some years previous. It is the local chapter of the Intercollegiate Menorah Association, founded, as the Menorah crest indicates, "For the study and advancement of Jewish culture and ideals," and except for a few social functions all efforts of Menorah are bent in this direction.

The Menorah Society furthers its purpose through study circles which meet under capable leaders, through lectures on relevant subjects by authoritative lecturers, through debates, both local and intercollegiate, and through "The Menorah Mentor," a magazine published locally by the members of the Society. It endeavours to promote open-minded discussion of Jewish life and thought, past, present and future, that its members may arrive at intelligent opinions and convictions, and may be prepared for intelligent participation in the solution of Jewish problems, although no particular point of view, whatever, is imposed. It maintains a splendid section at the University Library and makes available to its members the Menorah Journal, a cultural magazine of the highest type. And through its efforts, the Menorah Prize, the gift of B. M. Greene, Esq., is offered for competition to all undergraduates.

The literary programme, this session, following the form adopted last year, has consisted of alternating "open" and "closed" meetings, at fortnightly intervals. The open meetings, open to all undergraduates, graduates, and the public in general, have been occupied with lecturers of sufficient merit. The closed meetings, available to undergraduates and graduates only, have taken the form of debates, Hart House style, upon subjects of Jewish interest. In addition the members are staging a play, which will be accompanied by a lecture on Jewish drama. Then there is the annual debate with McGill, the victors, being awarded the "Bennett Cup," won last year by Toronto. Of course, there is sufficient social activity, the smoker, teas, soirée and dance, being annual events.

Mathematical and Physical Society

HIS year has seen the Mathematical and Physical Society safely launched on the second fifty-year period of its existence. Keeping in mind the fact that the University had celebrated its centennial in the autumn, each of the regular meetings were introduced by a short talk on the development of some branch of mathematics or physics up to the time of the founding of the University. Besides this, the regular custom of having a specialist in some branch of science address the Society was adhered to, with excellent results. The large percentage of the membership present at each meeting was a compliment to the executive's good fortune in obtaining such interesting speakers.

The social events which form a pleasing part of the function of the Society were of a calibre which fully justified the hearty support of the members. The hike, at which the members of the first year were welcomed, was enjoyed by all. The annual At-Home was held at the Women's Union this year. The curves traced out by the figures present, wrought feelings, ranging from the amazement of the frosh, to the unbounded delight of the members of the Faculty present. The skating party set a new high standard of enjoyments for events of its kind. The social activities of the year were happily terminated by the open meeting at which, following the nomination of officers, the members spent an enjoyable hour or so dancing.

The Polity Club

HE Polity Club is a club for university women, open to all colleges' faculties and graduate members. It was organized in December, 1923, due to the efforts of Miss Reid, of the History Department. Miss Mildred Walker, first president of the club, is this year's Graduate Representative.

The aim is to encourage discussion on political, economic and historical subjects, and the meetings, held every two weeks, take the form of two papers, one on each side of the question which is proposed in the form of a motion. This is followed by an informal, open discussion. The colleges are visited in turn in order to ensure a fair representation from each and to preserve a cosmopolitan nature in the club.

This year the subjects have ranged from lighter papers on matters of general interest, such as "Censorship" and "Capital Punishment" to more profound current problems, such as "Disarmament," "Canada's Place as an International Power" and "China."

Membership is restricted to the three upper years, the first year being admitted on the motion of a member. There has been a great increase in membership this year, the full quota of forty active members being attained during the three open meetings at the beginning of the Fall term. In addition to these, one of the last meetings is also open, to which all interested in joining the following year are cordially invited.

U.C. Women's Literary Society

ROMINENT among the various activities of University College is the Women's Literary Society, which has a wide appeal for most women undergraduates. In the beginning the Society included in its scope debating and dramatics, but as these aspects became the nuclei of separate societies, it was concerned solely with literary subjects.

As the aim of the Society is to create an interest in literature, especially in contemporary writings, the modern novel has been discussed from every angle. Authors representative of nearly every land were the subjects of interesting papers prepared by the undergraduate members. John Erskine, the American; Arnold Bennett, the Englishman; Dostoevsky, the Russian; Tagore, the Indian; Mazo de la Roche, the Canadian; and many others typical of the countries to which they belonged were introduced, some for the first time, to the Literary Society. The widely discussed Vers Libre was the subject of animated discussion at one meeting, while at another short stories proved an interesting feature. At the annual open meeting of the Society Mrs. Carroll Aiken, well-known advocate of the Little Theatre movement, gave an illuminating address on the subject, "Art and Entertainment in the Theatre," which attracted a large and interested audience.

Last, but not least, must be mentioned the regular custom of tea-drinking which always provides the necessary stimulus to informal discussion.

University of Toronto German Study Club

HE present year has been a banner year for the University of Toronto German Study Club. Not only is it celebrating the fifth anniversary of its formation, but enjoying a membership which has doubled since last year. Now, it has members from every College and Faculty in the University. Six monthly meetings of the Club are held during the year at Wymilwood. The October meeting was held in commemoration of the centennial anniversary of Ludwig Beethoven, while in November Professor Barker Fairley spoke of his impressions of Germany of to-day. In February the programme was devoted to Franz Schubert, whose centennial anniversary is being universally celebrated this year.

Two plays in German were presented in January to a large and enthusiastic audience at the Women's Union—"Die Meisterschaft" of Mark Twain and Wilhelmi's "Einer Muss Heiraten." The Club is very grateful to Professor Surerus and Mrs. Surerus, who directed the plays so successfully.

An innovation which has proven very enjoyable is the formation of a Swedish Group under the direction of Professor T. Hedman. This group meets each week and is rapidly acquiring fluency in reading Swedish, besides receiving delightful insights into Scandinavian mythology.

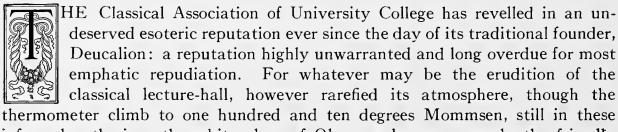

Perhaps the most enjoyable part of the Club is the social hour when "nur Deutsch gesprochen wird" and when singing and laughter, and many valiant attempts to express ourselves as "echte Deutschen" make an intimate and friendly circle which envelops all.

informal gatherings the white glare of Olympus becomes merely the friendly glow of a mortal fireside, and like Bottom, we can gleek upon occasion.

The occasion has been found at the homes of our professors, who have for many years extended to the Society their kind hospitality.

Mark Pattison, on being asked for his autograph above a suitable quotation, was much exercised in mind. "Fancy going down the ages," he said, "arm in arm with Carpe Diem!"

The French Society of University College

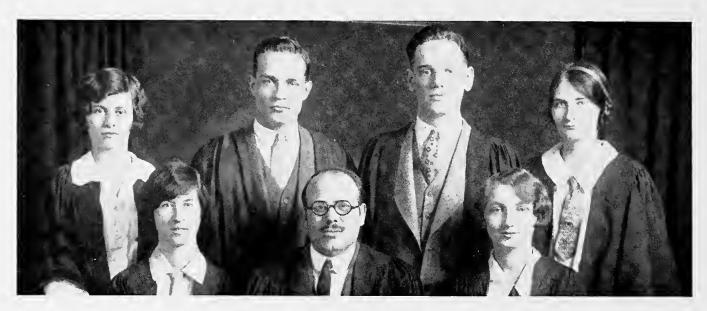

HE French Society of University College paid flying visits to France this year in search of entertainment. On several occasions French provinces were explored, as though by a magic carpet, a speaker acting as guide to an entranced audience. A charade, a recitation contest, and short plays afforded a change from voyaging. At the sing-songs, always a feature of the meetings, the songs of Britanny were especially popular, and the Women's Union resounded to the strains of "La Paimpolaise" and "Le Petit Grégoire," until the timely arrival of refreshments.

The annual production of the Society took the form of two plays, "La Cigale chez les Fourmis" and "L'École des Belles-Mères," which were ably directed by M. de Champ. An enthusiastic capacity audience applauded the performers to the echo.

The Society owes its successful year in great part to the President, Miss Isabel Balthazard, who has devoted both time and labour in the interests of the Society, and assisted by a competent executive, has contrived to offer a series of stimulating and enjoyable meetings.

The Italian-Spanish Club

Without a constitution . . . there can be little progress or permanent improvement.
—Calhoun.

HE Italian-Spanish Club, formed early in 1925, has this year received its formal constitution. As if this outstanding event were a talisman, the interest in the Club has increased considerably, and now the attendance numbers nearly a hundred at every meeting.

Although the Club is interested primarily in University students, its membership is not restricted to them, but includes students, professors and their friends who are interested in Italy or Spain. Among those who, by their kind assistance, have contributed to make the Club a success are: General Medina Barron, Mexican Consul; Mr. Sauer, American Consul; Dr. and Mrs. Craigie; Dr. Coleman; Maestro Carboni; Ferrari Fontana; Mr. Guerrero; and Mr. Stupin. Too much cannot be said of the splendid manner in which the Faculty in the Department of Italian and Spanish have co-operated with the executive of the Club.

The meetings have been exceedingly interesting, and there has been the greatest variety in the programmes in which the literature, art, music, customs and history of Italy, Spain and Spanish America all had their place. There have been illustrated talks, readings and interpretations of works of literature, musical selections, plays and motion pictures.

It seems as though there has been some mysterious Aladdin, who, rubbing his lamp, has conjured forth genii to minister to every wish, for many artists and others have appeared as if by magic to offer their services.

The same romantic and fascinating charm which has characterized the meetings of the Club from its beginning, has still pervaded the atmosphere of the gatherings during the past year.

Victoria Women's Literary Society

HE Women's Literary Society of Victoria College has this year carried on its work under definite departmental groups—a system which was begun in a small way, three years ago, and which was adopted this year in its entirety.

There are five departments—Art, Music, Current Events, Literature and Debating—which take in twelve groups with an approximate total attendance of two hundred and fifty.

One of the most outstanding groups has been Mr. Atkinson's in Music, with a compulsory attendance of one hundred. Prominent artists of the city have joined with Mr. Atkinson in presenting an attractive and instructive programme every two weeks.

Mr. Arthur Lismer has again taken a group of twenty-five in Art for third and fourth year students.

"Modern Biographies," the subject of Mr. Underhill's group of the Current Events Department, has been both popular and interesting from the start, while Dr. Lawlor's Browning group has been a decided departure in literary study among University students.

The Debating Department has in co-operation with the Students' Parliament arranged a mixed debate which promises to draw a large audience.

Groups of special interest have been opened to others than those enrolled in them, thereby providing the opportunity for a wider appreciation.

The change to the group system has been a most successful one, and this form will, no doubt, influence the type of organization of the Literary Society in the future.

Victoria College Orchestra

HIS season of 1927-28 is the ninth in the history of Victoria College Orchestra. The Orchestra was organized in October, 1919, by the late Dr. Vogt, to whom it is particularly grateful for having secured the services of Mr. Frank E. Blachford as conductor.

The traditional schedule of the Orchestra's session is a series of two hour practices held one evening each week from the beginning of October until the end of January, when a concert is given. Each year the programme includes a variety of numbers from such eminent composers as Mozart, Beethoven, Wagner, MacDowell, Liszt, Dvorak. This year the orchestra played selections from Mascagni's famous "Cavalleria Rusticana," and some selections from German's "Henry VIII Dances." The training afforded interested amateur musicians in studying under the able direction of such a splendid musician as Mr. Blachford cannot be rated too highly.

The organization offers an excellent opportunity to anyone in the University of Toronto who plays an orchestral instrument. Miss Addison, Dean of Women of Victoria College, has been Honorary President and constant friend of the Orchestra from the beginning, and has been encouraged in her efforts by other friends of music who help to support this organization. Membership and executive positions in the orchestra are open to students in all colleges and faculties in the University.

There are splendid possibilities in the future of the Orchestra, both because of the excellent leadership of Mr. Blachford and because it is the only orchestra in the University which is doing serious symphonic work.

Victoria College Student Christian Movement

HE S.C.M. of Victoria College is an integral part of the Student Christian Association of Toronto, and through it a part of the Student Christian Movement of Canada, a unit of the World Student Christian Federation.

It exists that students may find fellowship and assistance in their pursuit of life, truth, beauty—call it what you will.

Study, worship and service are included in its programme. Through study groups under competent leadership the S.C.M. offers an opportunity for students to prepare themselves to cope intelligently with Christian problems. The group work is complemented by open meetings. Outstanding events of this year have been the visit of Margaret Crutchfield, the travelling secretary for the Student Volunteer Movement, the report of the Detroit Convention and the S.C.M. dinner held in Burwash Hall on November 9th.

A service of worship, led by Dr. Edward Wallace, was arranged for February 19th in the College Chapel. This was the response of the S.C.M. to a desire expressed by many students; and it is hoped that such services may be continued next year and become a part of the life of the College.

Trinity College Science Club

ONG before the days of confederation with the University of Toronto the students of Trinity College were deeply interested in Science. Many of these have since made a name for themselves in the scientific world by their inventions and improvements.

This interest in Science continued to develop after federation and took concrete form in the organization of the "Science Club," which later became the Trinity College Science Club.

The founders of the Club were Mr. David A. Keyes, Mr. F. M. Turner and Professor Simpson. A whole issue of the Trinity University Review, at the initiation of the Club, was given up to Scientific articles contributed by members. The Great War interrupted the continuity of the Club during the period 1916-1919.

In the latter year, 1919, the Club was re-established at the instance of Mr. Percival Warren, and since that time has been very fortunate in the keen interest taken by Canon Rollo.

Among the members who have contributed to scientific research there may be mentioned: L. V. Redman, discoverer of Redmanal; S. H. Tomlinson, who developed a process for the manufacture of carbide; and Mr. Bertram Collip, Ph.D., D.Sc., recently appointed head of the Department of Biochemistry, McGill University, who was associated with Professor MacLeod, Dr. Banting and Mr. Best in the development of Insulin.

The Club meets once a fortnight in College during the college year, usually in a students' room.

The members in this way take their turn in extending hospitality to the Club. Papers from all branches of Science are read and the ensuing discussions prove very interesting.

Refreshments are served during the discussion to complete the evening's programme.

The interest is well-sustained and good fellowship characterizes all proceedings.

St. Michael's Oratorical Club

S each year goes by one sees new clubs spring up like mushrooms and die as quickly, their days of usefulness done, and their guiding genius departed. One by one the older clubs quietly drop out of sight and there is no one left even to mourn their departure. Through all this upheaval the Oratorical Club continues on its serene path with its reputation enhanced and its prospects bright.

The oldest club in the College in continuous activity, it has as its guiding principle the fostering of the art of public speaking. At first its membership was limited to fifteen, but due to the number of applicants for the vacant places, this year it was raised to twenty. Meetings are held weekly, and every member speaks at least once a month, and as the members criticize each other's speeches, the opportunity of speaking comes much more frequently. Occasionally we have a critic from the faculty present who delivers particular and general criticisms to the members.

For a criterion of success, one has but to look at the success and activities of the members outside the club. The winner of the Harris Gold Medal for oratory, the interfaculty debating team and nearly all the prominent speakers in the College belong to this Club, and received their early training and experience in it. We have been represented in the Hart House Debates, and in debates and contests at Newman Club and kindred organizations.

The success of the Club would seem to justify whatever labour is demanded from its members; it takes time that one needs for other things to prepare a speech to deliver before a score of very critical fellow-students, but the results far out-balance the hard work. The vision of the founders has been realized, and were they to return to-day to see the fruits of their labours they would certainly believe that theirs was not a case of Loves' Labour Lost.

The Quindecim--St. Michael's College

"INCE we believe that the study of the Political relations of men is only second in its importance to that of the relations of God and man, and since we believe, moreover, that true and worthy citizenship in a democratic country demands that we train ourselves to render to that country whatever talent or ability we may have, we herewith organize for the purpose of political studies to be conducted with the one desire of obtaining the truth, and of avoiding the errors and prejudices of persons or parties." Such is the preamble to the constitution of the Quindecim, and it is our duty to hold aloft this torch which has been handed on through a succession of characters long since famous in St. Michael's traditions.

If there is any one characteristic which may be said to distinguish members of the Quindecim, it is sincerity. A meeting of the club is a time when one is only too anxious to realise, and to prepare himself for, the responsibilities of the life he will soon be facing outside the college halls. Definite contact is established with the concrete problems facing men to-day by inviting some eminent authority to read a paper and lead the discussion on the subject of his special study.

The opening meeting of the year was one which best illustrates the ideals and achievements of the club. It took the form of a banquet at Hart House at which the Reverend Canon Cody presented for consideration a very stimulating and inspiring account on "Canada, its Background and Problems."

In the discussion which always follows, many embryo ideas first see the light of day, thus is thought formed and directed and any conclusions or suspended judgments reached by this group invariably have the prestige of having given its most meticulous consideration.

It is this feature of the Quindecim which wins for it the admiration of those acquainted with it, and the enthusiastic co-operation of its distinguished guests to do all in their power to aid its advance.

Loretto College Literary Society

HE Literary Society of Loretto College resumed its activities with the opening of the Fall term. At the initial meeting Brother Gabriel, in a most enjoyable talk, transported the members, via the imagination, to New York. There he revealed some of the varied features of the theatres of the Metropolis, with interesting insights into the private feelings of the great actors.

The inter-year debates, which always play such an important part in the lives of the students, were attended with even keener interest than formerly. The subjects were of a novel nature, and so expert were all the debaters that it was impossible to foretell to which year the coveted shield would be finally awarded.

This year the Society has been again honoured by having one of its members chosen as an Intercollegiate debater on the Varsity team. Miss Helena McGrath was one of the University's representatives on the team which debated on Montreal and as a slight token of the appreciation and gratitude of her fellowmembers for the distinction this brought to the College a souvenir of the event was presented to Miss McGrath at a general meeting.

St. Joseph's College Literary Society

HE Literary Society of St. Joseph's College was reorganized in 1922, and beginning again on this new basis, received the name of the St. Theresa's Literary Society. The Executive decided on the exemplary course of supplementing the work of the class-room by studying the more recent literary developments, and in this way discovering what was worth while in contemporary literature. This programme has been admirably

In the beginning a short but thorough study was made of the Modern Poets because it was generally agreed that poetry was the first and the highest form of literary expression. Robert Louis Stevenson, Walter de la Mare, Hilaire Belloc, G. K. Chesterton, John Masefield, Sir Henry Newbolt, Alfred Noyes, W. B. Yeates were all given careful consideration in various papers. Special emphasis was laid on the works of the Canadian Poets.

And in the second year the study of poetry gave way to that of the modern novel. The great works of Conrad, Hardy, Meredith, Galsworthy, Wells, Walpole, were touched upon.

But there were many among the members who wished to concentrate their attentions upon the Modern Drama. So last session was devoted to a review of favourite dramatists of the day. Papers were given on Barrie, Tchekov, Synge, Milne, Eugene O'Neil, G. B. Shaw, by enthusiasts who aroused in their listeners a desire to know the works of these men, and the executive felt that the purpose of the Club was being fulfilled.

The 1927-28 session of the Society was characterized by a few changes in the policy of the executive with regard to programme. The new members were desirous of trying out their dramatic skill, and so the Society turned definitely to dramatics. The Fourth Year girls led the way, and each year in turn presented a play for the enlightenment and entertainment of the other members. The final meeting took the form of an address by Dr. Gertrude Lawler, who has always taken a friendly interest in our organization, and to whom the Executive is deeply grateful.

Medical Women's Undergraduate Association

HE Medical Women's Undergraduate Association, of which all the women in medicine are members, has a dual objective, both social and cultural. Throughout the year the organization holds monthly meetings to provide a meeting-place for students in various years and at the same time brings before them prominent speakers who address them on subjects of medical and general interest.

This year has been a particularly active one under the able leadership of Miss Rachel Haight, the President. The Association has also been very fortunate in having Dr. Edna Guest as Honorary President. Her interest and ready helpfulness at all times are greatly prized by the undergraduates.

The meetings this year have been varied in character, taking the form of a supper party, the initiation, a tea at which Mrs. E. A. Bott spoke, and the annual tea for the members of the Faculty, their wives, and Medical Alumnae.

The Women's Daffydil Skit, which occupies a unique place in the activities of the Society, was this year directed by Miss Margaret Patterson.

The Student Christian Movement is active under the Presidency of Miss Evelyn Gee. Monthly meetings with outstanding speakers are held throughout the year.

2T8 Biological and Medical Sciences

IOLOGICAL and Medical Sciences, more frequently known as B. and M.—to the uninitiated may we explain?—we are in combined Arts and Medicine. Looked on with disfavour by Meds, disowned by Arts, we are orphans! Dr. Olmstead disowned us and sought refuge in marriage! Dr. Wasteneys alone claims us.

However we have struggled on, even though the genial Bursar has acquired the habit, of late, of demanding double fees—one hundred dollars extra for the pleasure of drawing two masquerade tickets or voting in two faculties. The blind god removed one of his two victims in our good friend McLagan. Ballantyne's overseas service gave him his B.A. one year ahead of us. Less subtle influences have accounted for five more, and so we graduate—twenty-one of us: nineteen male, two female.

These are we expert in:

Mendelian ratios, criss-cross inheritance, protozoan consciousness, logarithmic spirals, copper sulphate, one-in-one thousand accuracy, thermometer construction, P.D., Nicol prisms, vitamin E, protein requirement, cerebral cortex, eutectic points, neuro-muscular activity, benzene rings, superficial fascia and the nerve supply of the sole!

These we remember:

"Did you luke in the buke?"—"I could look at this all day!"—"-J-O-H-N-!!!"—"Now when I was overseas. . . ."—"Take a sawse of light. . . ."—"This cat was a, well, er, a very old cat."—"Who threw that snow?"—"Do you consider these tutorials useless?"

And so we graduate, D.V. and weather permitting, from University College, Victoria, Trinity and St. Michael's College. May Dr. J. M. D. Olmsted's parting token serve as our epitaph: "You are the most unique class I have ever known; will you never grow up?"

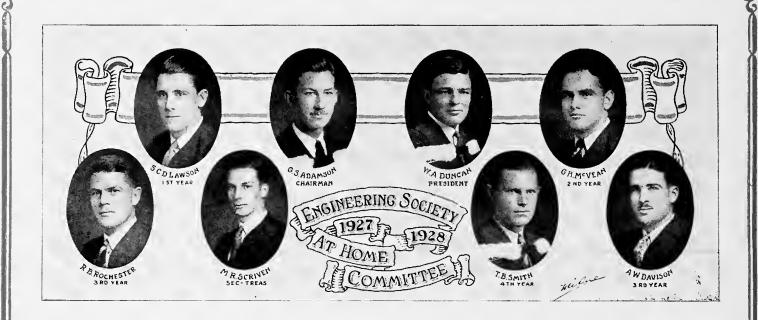

Medical At-Home

N Tuesday, January 31st, the Crystal Ballroom re-echoed to the gay voices and laughter of youth, intermingled with the ravishing melodies flowing from the baton wielded by Gib Watson, and the liquid notes of the "dusky king of jazz."

The Medical At-Home is the most outstanding social event of the medical year. On this night of all nights all these fortunates (transfusions or poker) don their best attire and sally forth to do honour to their faculty. This year the high calibre of this annual event was maintained at its highest pinnacle. Into the small hours of the morning the gaiety persisted, and when the last strains of the Home Waltz died away, many a heart had but one wish, that such a glorious revelry might not come to an end.

And now this night is a remembrance, the memory of it is placed with those, all too few, which form the jewels of the aura which surrounds our undergraduate career. Some of us will be here to enjoy another of these gorgeous displays, while those of us who go forth this year cherish the haunting thoughts of pleasures past, and resolve to some day return and for one night live anew the glamour of our student days.

School At-Home

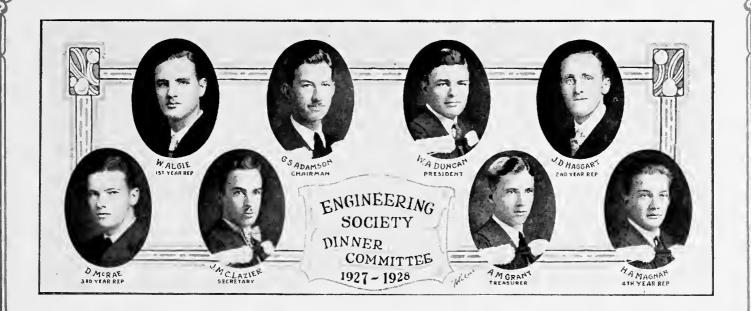

USIC, laughter and the glamour of rainbow lights, laughing eyes and dancing feet, the Crystal Ballroom resounds to the strains of violins, and the sobbing of saxophones. A mad, glorious fantasy of swaying forms and shimmering lights. How far away are lectures now—stuffy labs, drafting tables and books are forgotten, slide rules are discarded. The dance is on.

The next is a waltz, the lights are dimmed and a silver moon shines on the gay revellers. The novelty dance, streamers drifting, laughing couples dodging pith balls, and tripping over serpentine. Gay ladies put up diminutive parasols for it is raining confetti.

Then the nose-dive to the Pompeian Room to supper. Clinking dishes and an army of waiters, favours for the ladies, and fruit cocktail for all. Cigarettes and chat.

Then back to the Ballroom. The lucky number dance and an embarrassed Lochinvar and a blushing maid have to dance while spectators show their approval in showering them with balloons and streamers. Then the prize—"Oh, Charlie, how lovely—let's dance." And so on into the wee hours, till the orchestra will play no more. The long ride in the taxi. "Thanks so much—it was a wonderful party," and so it was.

But all is forgotten now. Long days of lectures, long nights of study, but the School man thinks as he puts out his light, after a grinding day of slide rule manipulation, "Oh, well, it's not so bad, there will be another At-Home next year."

The Annual "School" Dinner

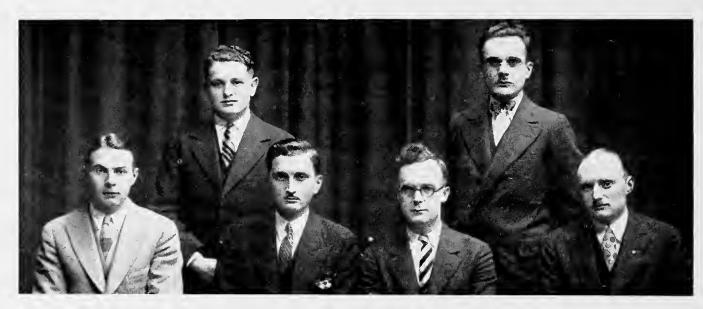

HEAD table across the dais of the Great Hall, with the dignitaries of the University, the State, and the Faculty making cheerful conventionalized black and white silhouettes against the arms on the wall, and all this in a light of becoming dimness, under that window, is a setting which would be difficult to duplicate anywhere on earth.

The School Dinner is always a satisfactory affair, but the one this year was exceptionally so, not only from the angle of the crass matter of eating, but from that of the more important matter of what was said. The toast to the University was proposed by the Rochester, high Gummy, with a most engaging smoothness. Sir Robert replied, with great good nature, and told of the vicissitudes of eight o'clock lectures from the standpoint of the Faculty. He complained that the earnestness of the debate at the Council meeting had kept him awake.

The Faculty was proposed by T. B. Smith, and responded to by the Dean, while Douglas G. W. McRea gave the Profession. Professor Haultain responded for Mr. A. B. Cooper, the President of the Association of Professional Engineers. Harry T. Pritchard said nice things about the Sister Societies, and the representatives replied with happy thoughts about us, and pleasant stories.

The guest of the evening was the Honourable William Finlayson, who gave a very interesting address on the work of the Department of Lands and Forests, especially with regard to reforestation, how it is being carried out, to what extent, and the great importance of this work to the country. He pointed out that heretofore the practice had been to regard timber as an exhaustible resource, but that by propaganda and instruction by the forest rangers, helped by a few well conceived laws, the crop idea was becoming, fortunately, more prevalent. That is, that only mature timber is cut, and only as much as is desirable from the standpoint of good forest economics.

Royal Dental Society

N undergraduate society of the students of the Faculty of Dentistry for the purpose of furthering an active interest in University and public affairs. In this society every student may find proper scope for his oratorical ambitions. A number of meetings are held during the College term, where the problems of the students, college and nation are discussed. Debating was introduced some years ago and now comprises the major part of our programme. The Willmott Shield is open to inter-year debates. This stimulates an interest among the debaters, besides training them for intercollegiate debating, and preparing young men to take a rightful place in their community upon graduation.

Besides the debate, it is customary at each meeting to have another speaker, usually a member of the Faculty. It is with plesaure that we recall such interesting speakers as Dean Seccombe, Drs. Webster, Clarkson, Amy and Cowling, who are well known among the students for their popular addresses.

Each student is privileged to invite his friends to these meetings, where they hear not only debates and prominent speakers, but a good musical programme as well. Afterwards, an hour of dancing is enjoyed, the music being supplied by the College orchestra.

Dental At-Home

HE At-Home Committee is composed of an Honorary President along with six members of the student body; the President of the Committee is a member of the Students' Cabinet and is elected for office at the annual parliamentary elections at the end of each year.

The duty of the Committee is to arrange and carry on the social functions throughout the year.

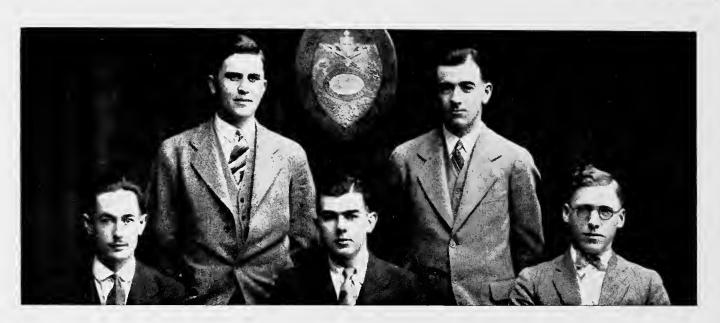

The Committee of '27-'28 have met with marked success commencing on October 28th with a Dental Hallowe'en Dance—the attendance breaking all records since the days of the war classes; the decorations were unique, the music the best yet, and the entertainment by Miss Parker of the Russian Ballet School of Dancing added to the enjoyment of the evening.

On Friday, February 10th, the Pompeian Room of the King Edward Hotel looked most becoming, draped in garnet and skyblue, the Faculty colours, and grads, undergrads and friends voted it the best yet and thus quite in keeping with Dents social status.

At the time of going to press, elaborate preparations are being made for the annual graduation dance; this function is essentially for the graduating class and thus no efforts will be spared in making the dance an attractive one for the class of '28, which has been noted for its social activities throughout the entire course.

The co-operation of Dean Seccombe, the Honorary President, has been invaluable as he has always been ready to assist in every way possible.

Thus the social activities of the Faculty for 1928 will live long as a precedent.

Dental Rifle Team

HE Dental Team were again successful in annexing the DeLury Shield, emblematic of interfaculty supremacy in rifle shooting on the outdoor ranges.

The matches were closely contested and a small margin decided the winners. The Dents are also champions and holders of the Mitchell Cup.

The Dental Team will suffer by the loss of Anderson and Tilson, who can always be depended upon to give a good account of themselves, but with such a brilliant new-comer as Leggett we have every confidence of retaining the trophies. Tommy Hayhurst, the regular on all Interfaculty and Intercollegiate rifle teams, is to be congratulated on his remarkable showing at the matches under the handicap of a recent fracture of the wrist.

The President of the Club is getting plans under way for the annual interyear competition, and it is possibly due to the stimulus of these matches that the Dental Rifle Teams are always dangerous contenders.

This year the team had the unique distinction of every man making a place on the Intercollegiate squad.

HE aim of the Household Science Club is to bring before the students speakers from various fields to interest them in the work open to them after graduation, and to promote unity and fellowship among the students.

The Club executive is composed of the Honorary President with eleven members of the student body who are elected for office at the close of the preceding year. Its duty is the conducting of the meetings and social functions throughout the year.

The co-operation of Miss A. L. Laird, the Honorary President, has been invaluable; she is always ready to assist in every way possible.

Wycliffe College Students' Mission Society

HEORY without practice, like faith without works, is dead. Mission Society, therefore, fills an essential part of student life. Year by year many men are given the opportunity of performing some definite Christian work. During the academic year the sphere of activity geographically is limited to the parts of Ontario in the immediate vicinity of Toronto, but the summer vacation finds our members scattered throughout the length and breadth of our Dominion. Who can tell

An outstanding event in this academic year was the annual meeting which synchronized with the visit of the Right Reverend Bishop Taylor Smith, K.C.V.O., D.D.. the late Chaplain General of the British Forces, who was the guest of the College for the Jubilee Celebrations. Bishop Taylor Smith, on his last evening in Toronto, gave in a graphic manner first hand impressions of missionary endeavour. On the same evening representative students presented reports on summer activity. These showed that there was much cause for encouragement.

how far-reaching is the extent of spiritual influence, for spirit knows no barriers?

Three members of our Executive will leave us, entering upon their life-work in the Spring. The problems which have been faced, the experience in leadership gained, the privilege of serving their fellow-students will afford memorable recollections in the days that are ahead. They carry with them the manifold good wishes of the Society.

Those who will shoulder the responsibility for another term will, we are sure, at the conclusion of their term of office entertain with us the opinion that it is a duty, joyful and satisfying, to carry out in some measure the motto of the Society: "κηρύξατε τὸ ἐυαγγέλιον."

Science Association of Ontario Veterinary College

Honorary President Dr. C. D. McGilvray President P. J. G. Plummer Vice-President Harold A. Webb Secretary-Treasurer C. E. Goodwin

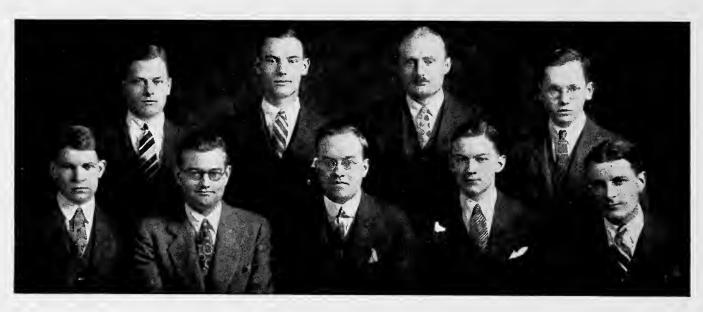

HIS Association was first organized while the College was located in Toronto, under the direction of the late Andrew Smith, F.R.C.V.S., who founded the College during the year 1862. When the College was acquired by the Government of Ontario, in the year 1908, the Association was reorganized under the patronage of the late E. A. A. Grange, V.S., and he continued as Honorary President, until the year 1918, when he was succeeded by C. D. McGilvray, M.D.V., D.V.Sc., as Principal. Throughout all these years the Association has served a useful purpose and has continued with unabated zeal to fulfil its obligations.

The Association has for its object the promotion of class fellowship and the furtherance of scientific knowledge among its members. The constitution provides that the officers of the Association shall consist of an Honorary President, who shall be the Principal of the College, and by election each year of a President, Vice-President, and a Secretary-Treasurer. Any student of the Senior Class in good standing is eligible to membership. To become a member candidates must prepare, present, and successfully defend in debate at least two scientific papers at regular meetings during the session. Regular meetings are held twice monthly at which members in turn present their papers for discussion. The certificate of membership is awarded at the end of each session to successful candidates upon the majority vote of the class that the papers presented are of sufficient merit and have been successfully defended in debate.

The Principal and members of the Faculty frequently attend the meetings and do everything possible to promote interest in the Association. This adds greatly to the success of the meetings, which are usually well attended by the students as a body. The meetings afford members an excellent opportunity to further develop their literary talents, to acquire practice in debate, and to gain additional knowledge of science through an interchange of thought and expression.

Inter-College Debating Union

HE historic Inter-College Debating Union has for its object "the encouragement of debate among the colleges of the city, and to this end the carrying on of a series of Inter-College debates, including the awarding of the championship of the union."

Eight colleges retained membership in the Union during 1927-28, these being University College, Victoria, Wycliffe, Dents, School of Science, St. Michael's, Osgoode Hall, and McMaster University. The withdrawal of Trinity College, winner of the series last year, was a source of much regret to the Union.

It is a sad fact that the interest in the Union seems to be on the wane. For this a number of reasons might be advanced, not the least of which is the growing popularity of the informal style of debate used in the Hart House contests. Nevertheless it is really almost inexplicable why so few students support their colleges in competitive debating, especially since the enthusiasm a few years ago was very keen.

As we write this the winner of this year's series is still undetermined. Colleges still in the running are McMaster, Dents, Osgoode, and Wycliffe. The trophy awarded the winner each year is known as the Kerr Shield. It has been won on seven occasions by McMaster and at present hangs in Trinity College.

The following is the Executive for 1927-28:

H. G. Stapells	. Honorary	President
W. A. Donohue	. Honorary	Vice-President
R. Fowler (U.C.)	. President
C. H. Howard (McMaster)	.Secretary-	Treasurer

The Women's Intercollegiate Debating Union

LTHOUGH the activity of the Women's Intercollegiate Debating Union is limited in quantity, in quality it more than makes up for this limitation.

This year the Intercollegiate Debate with McGill and Queen's Universities: "This House is of the opinion that the present system of education affords adequate preparation for modern life" took place on November 21, 1927. The affirmative in Toronto was upheld by Miss Mary Winspear and Miss Tmima Littner and the negative in Montreal by Miss Helena McGrath and Miss Nora Holden. McGill was successful in winning the trophy; consequently the chief aim of the Debating Union is to bring this much-prized award back to Varsity next year.

An Interfaculty Open House debate was also held at St. Joseph's College on January 18. The subject reveals why the parliamentary style of debating proves so popular—"This House is of the opinion that lectures are helpful." Such a debate is of interest to all university students, and the open-house discussion afterwards affords opportunity for anyone who chooses to express her views. Miss Victoria Mueller, Loretto Abbey College, and Miss Mary Coleman, Victoria College, upheld the affirmative, and Miss Helen Monkhouse, St. Joseph's, and Miss Rhoda Howe, University College, the negative. The vote of the House, 46-26 in favour of the motion, proved that the present lecture system still has staunch supporters.

The many excellent speeches from the floor, and the interest shown by all the faculties, certainly justifies the change in the method of carrying on the inter-college debates from the formal to the parliamentary style.

S.P.S. Debating Club

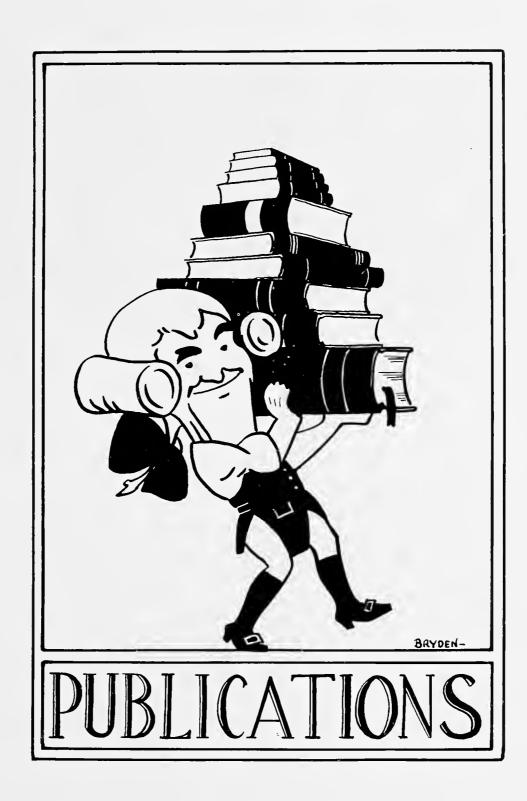

N such a highly specialized study as Applied Science the cultural idea of University life may easily be neglected through constant drilling on technical matters.

Believing that ability in the persuasive art is essential in any walk of life, and particularly in the Engineering profession, the Debating Club of the Faculty of Applied Science furnishes the student with the opportunity in which he may develop his latent talents in debating and public speaking, in conjunction with the intellectual activity which lies beyond the range of his own profession.

. Open meetings are held wherein any student may express his opinion on a subject which has been briefly introduced by some well-informed speaker.

Inter-year debates for the Segeworth Trophy and the debates of the Inter-College Debating Union provide a proving ground for "School men" to measure their ability in the forensic art.

The annual oratorical contest, held at the close of the year's programme, is a means of judging the degree of proficiency attained by rising orators, and it invariably draws a goodly number of men to vie with each other in exposition of a variety of impromptu subjects.

"The Varsity"

HE "medium of the day," The Tarsity, opened its season's campaign in an auspicious manner, matching the peal of centenary bells with an early edition that carried an appeal to the students to throw themselves whole-heartedly into the spirit of the occasion.

The resignation of R. C. H. Mitchell as Editor-in-Chief with the beginning of the fall term, followed by the appointment of James W. F. Robson as his successor, marked the establishment of a new area in which activities of a purely undergraduate nature received greater prominence while the introduction of the personal note into the news columns was in evidence. The arrival of Diognese uncovered the fact that the average student possessed a tremendous fund of information, misinformation, imagination, humour and tact and many learned, if perhaps cautious, theories were advanced. The Varsity also laid claim to the distinction of "scooping the world" on the fire in the Medical Building.

As is customary, the editorial column took the lead in initiating many controversies which were continued at length and with heat through the medium of the Correspondence Column. Companionate marriage was decried and the city dailies were scorned when the latter screamed their fears of communistic tendancies throughout the University.

The Champus Cat, more daring after a summer's adventure, returned to cast challenges which were accepted by all and sundry, and the feline truly had need of its reputed nine lives.

Although handicapped by the graduation of many of the more experienced members of the staff The varsity was familiar in appearance, the probationers showing an amazing adaptability to the requirements of their seniors. Typographical and other technical errors still occurred to the annoyance of the editors, but an attitude of tolerance was in evidence and the impossible was not more than faintly urged or suggested.

Torontonensis

ORONTONENSIS '28 is the fourth of its kind. From its conception in 1898 up to, and including the volume of '24, it was a book devoted almost entirely to the graduating year. In 1925 there was a peremptory demand for a book of genuine interest and more drastic change has seldom been made. In short, the volume of that year was something new, an attempt on the part of the editor to interpret the spirit permeating undergraduate life throughout the University. It was a decided success. The editor of two years later found a very unique situation confronting him with a still more successful book published the year before, improved in layout and character of work.

The Board of Governors had decreed that the work should cost just a little more than half the expenditure of the year before. Moreover the inclusion of the Campus Life section was forbidden by the powers that be. He realized that this was the crucial test of the book—that whether there should ever be another depended on him. It speaks very well for his earnestness and capability, that Torontonensis '27, besides existing, was a still greater improvement on its predecessor.

The present volume is the still further development of a book for the undergraduate and graduates, published under the difficulties of the previous volume. The Art work was all done by students. Photographs by members of the Camera Club are, because of frequent requests, included. In its other departments it is a realization of the ambition of former editors to establish a consistent and workable lay-out.

Future development depends to a great extent on the executives of the different organizations. A little thought on their part would make their pages more interesting to themselves, as well as vastly improving the book. The two pages at the end of the Victoria College biography section are a step in the right direction.

Acta Victoriana

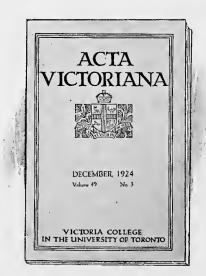

OR half a century Acta Victoriana has reflected undergraduate "life and letters" at Victoria. Founded at Cobourg in 1878 the magazine has passed through all the stages to which humanity itself is heir. Its first decade "in the quiet college town" reveals a period of pious and self-conscious youth. Victoria in those early days comprised three faculties, Science, Theology and Arts. Students in the latter department were in a minority, and thus Acta largely reflected the religious and scientific interest of the college. Imposing reflections on the Magic of the Microscope, and the Mystery of Melchizedek appeared serially and kept the undergraduates in a state of chronic neurosis until the next issue appeared.

In 1892 Victoria moved from Cobourg. The Arts faculty became federated with Varsity, the faculty of Science was discontinued, and the faculty of Theology remained incorporated as Victoria University. Acta now became more specifically an Arts magazine, though for a number of years the policy of publishing weighty theological disquisitions and scientific surveys with appropriate mottoes and diagrams was pursued by enterprising editors.

An era almost purely literary followed during which Acta counted itself one of the most vital and formative influences in our national life. Business men, historians, writers and poets, eagerly subscribed and sent in manuscripts for publication. The editor was a veritable Arbiter Mundi.

Suddenly, about 1910, the magazine suffered a well-earned nervous breakdown. Acta was gradually showing signs of recuperating from this period of invalidism when the war caused a serious relapse. A surgical operation was performed in 1923, which proved highly successful. Acta took a new lease of life; and if the removal of her inhibitions led to the acquisition of a superiority complex, at any rate the batteries of dullness were effectively silenced.

The St. Michael's College Year Book

C. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE YEAR BOOK is rapidly attaining a position of merit in the truly representative class of college annuals. Not only does the Staff endeavour to set up a record and pictorial of the College activities under an ideal of high standard, but they are also succeeding in the creation of a literary section, the character of which elicits criticism of a most favourable nature.

As the motive of such Year Books is to furnish a chronicle of student activities during the course of the academic year, so also can this be recognized as the essential factor underlying the publication of St. Michael's Year Book. And in working out the pictorial side of this principle, the Staff has done much to incorporate with photography a decorative art of true merit, taking pleasure in the fact that this art-work is the creation of St. Michael's students.

It is also worth while noting that the Staff has inaugurated an Alumni section in the Year Book. The Alumni have always subscribed generously to the Book, and, in consequence of this interest, a department has been set aside in which it is proposed to publish such matter as will form a more personal connection between the Alumni and subsequent editions of the annual.

The literary side of the publication is given special attention with the view of enhancing the value and character of the Book as a unit. In this regard the Year Book Staff are grateful to the many prominent men in the world of learning who have so generously contributed articles on philosophy, education, and articles of general interest. Works from the pens of such men as Dr. Gilson, of the Sorbonne, and Professor Léon Noël, of Louvain, are to be recalled with special appreciation.

The current edition of the Year Book will be of particular interest, due to the fact that much valuable data in connection with the Diamond Jubilee Celebrations of St. Michael's College is to be published.

University of Toronto Medical Journal

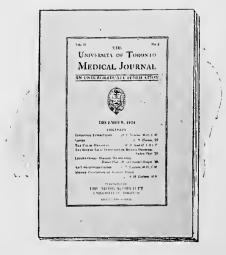

HE official publication of the University of Toronto Society is published seven times a year, November to May. Its chief aim is to serve as a medium for undergraduate expression and to bring to the student recent articles of scientific interest. The Journal was founded in December, 1923, by Doctors E. P. Scarlett, D. M. Meekison and R.

P. Stone, at the time when Dr. B. I. Johnstone was President of the Medical Society. It is now in the middle of volume five. The Journal has found favour among a great many practitioners and prominent staff members of Medical Schools of this country. We sincerely hope that it has fulfilled the expectations of its founders whom we wish to congratulate on launching this most useful publication. The Journal has many loyal friends and we are indebted to them for their timely advice and help.

Many recent graduates throughout Canada are on the circulation list, as well as most of the staff and students of the Toronto School of Medicine, and it is now past the thousand mark.

We hope that the Journal will continue to increase in value to its subscribers. Constructive criticism of any kind is invited. By consideration of such criticism the Journal will best be able to serve its readers.

Hya Yaka

N the year 1903, due to the efforts of Dr. W. E. Willmott, the first editorial board of Hya Yaka was organized. Dr. Leslie Oliver had the honour of being first editor of this official publication of the undergraduate body of the then Royal College of Dental Surgeons.

The fall of 1927 marked the twenty-fifth anniversary of Hya Yaka. Till then it had been published six times a year, but on account of the decrease in registration and the financial obligation involved, a radical change in policy was undertaken this year.

The year 1928 will usher in Hya Yaka as an annual publication—the official publication of the student body of the Faculty of Dentistry, University of Toronto. This year's editor, H. A. T. Keenan, who also held the position last year, is mainly responsible for the change and will have the duty of embarking Hya Yaka on its new journalistic course. It is thought that in this way that the purpose of Hya Yaka will be filled—that of promoting literary talent among the undergraduate body.

Transactions and Year Book

VERYTHING that is worth doing is worth remembering, and the "Transactions and Year Book" of the Engineering Society contains an account of every line of activity undertaken by School during the year.

Originally instituted as a book of record for the speeches delivered before the Engineering Society, Transactions now consists of two parts, the first devoted to technical speeches and papers, and the second to an account of social life and athletic achievement of the year. The Club section contains a detailed account of the activities of each School organization.

In last year's issue was published a paper, written by a recent graduate of School, and the interest which it aroused was fully justified by the excellent manner in which he treated his subject. Such articles facilitate co-operation between the graduates and undergraduates, and brings School activities before the eyes of professional men.

Such a magazine forms a connecting link not only with the graduates but between the undergraduates of the Faculty, and as review of all the activities undertaken by the men of Science it constitutes the only permanent record of undergraduate life. In publishing each year at least one thesis written by a fourth year man, it not only forms a medium of undergraduate expression but also serves to show some of the various lines of research undertaken by School men.

We hope that "Transactions" may always remain as valuable and interesting in the future as it has been in the past.

Toike Oike

"OIKE OIKE" is not like the other periodicals and publications of our University. It defies what might be called the "good practice" of publishing. Instead of the editorial staff wearing themselves out in chasing up ads under the eagle eyes of the Business Manager they dispense with ads altogether. Instead of worrying about the price, and ways and means of increasing circulation, the sheet is given away free to all Schoolmen. However, what is the most important detail about this paper is that it is not planned as papers usually are, but when the word goes round that the day after to-morrow it is desired to have an issue, it is suddenly conceived and appears exactly when wanted. Before such happenings as the Greeting of Freshmen, the Centenary, Christmas, School Nite, Elections, a "Toike Oike" appears, giving all information in a most understandable dialect. So even its periodicity is variable, which makes it something to be disdained by honest periodicals, but to us it is the interest of the unexpected. Is not that sufficient excuse for the existence of "Toike Oike"?

The Trinity University Review

N 1880 three undergraduates, Mr. Travers Lewis, Mr. W. M. Cruttenden, and Mr. F. E. Howitt, started a paper known as Rouge et Noir. After its first issue, the College Meeting enthusiastically adopted it, and for nine years it reflected the opinions and activities of the student body. Among its first contributors at that time were Archibald Lampman and Sir Gilbert Parker.

In 1888 the name was changed to the Trinity University Review, because it was thought that the name Rouge et Noir had undesirable associations, that being the name of the then most popular game of chance, and because it was felt that a name which explained itself would attract advertisements.

In 1889 Convocation came to its financial aid, and in return for a stated number of copies and space rights agreed to make a small yearly contribution. From that time the Convocation Editor has sat as Chairman of the Review Board. The Review appears eight times a year, with the threefold object of stimulating journalistic and literary activity, of mirroring student activities, and of providing a medium by which graduates may keep in touch with their Alma Mater. The present Convocation Editor is Prof. A. H. Young.

University Women's Press Club

HE Women's Press Club was organized in 1919 by enthusiastic University women who were interested in various phases of journalism. The membership of the Club has never been large, but each member is keenly interested in the Club's activities and she gives of her best, voluntarily, to promote its interests.

Few University organizations can boast of greater faithfulness or deeper loyalty on the part of its members who are attracted by the Press Club solely on account of their definite journalistic ambitions.

Original contributions have always been among the requisites for admission to the Press Club. Half the number of meetings are devoted to the reading and criticizing of these contributions and competent critics are invited to attend. Such prominent critics as Napier Moore, J. Vernon McKenzie and Fred Jacobs have acted in this capacity. Miss Marsh, Miss Mona Clarke and Mrs. Mary Lowry Ross have met the members of the Club over the inevitable tea-cups, and with them have discussed their own particular branches of journalism.

Until recently the membership was confined to undergraduates on the staffs of college publications, but this excluded women who were unable to devote any time to these activities although interested in this field. The constitution was amended and now all those interested in journalism are admitted although they may not be on the staff of any publication. The great advantage of the Press Club lies in the fact that it offers to its members the pleasure of meeting women from all the colleges who have one bond in common—a love of writing.

St. Hilda's Chronicle

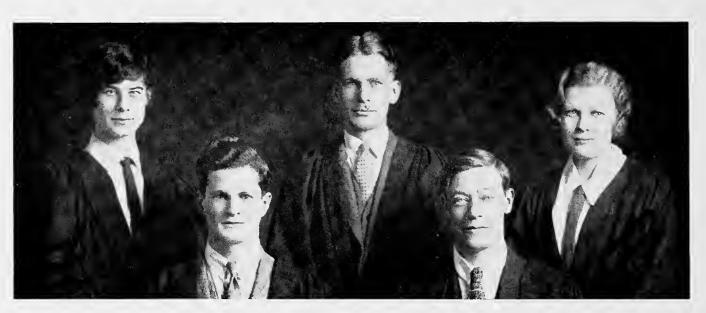

HE Chronicle is the official publication of St. Hilda's College, which was founded in 1888 and is the oldest women's college in Canada. While presumably but the residence for the women undergraduates of Trinity College in reality it holds its own charter and is a college in its own right. This fact may in part explain the Chronicle's existence quite independent of the Trinity Review. The Chronicle made its first appearance before 1900, and despite repeated attempts to amalgamate the two magazines, has kept its own identity for over a quarter of a century. As well as being the first magazine of its kind in Canada, it is the only women's magazine in the University of Toronto.

At first the editor was sometimes an undergraduate, and sometimes a graduate but for the last fifteen years the staff has been entirely undergraduate, including the editor and the business and advertising managers. The Chronicle is primarily a literary magazine, containing principally undergraduate work, with occasional contributions from graduates. Besides stories and poems there are articles, cartoons, pictures, graduate notes, and notes of college sports and other activities. A few years ago a section of literary reviews was added, and this year dramatic criticism has been made a regular feature of the magazine.

Since the circulation was small, for a number of years the financial question was a difficult one. This is easily understood when we realize that there were only eight students in the college when the first issue of the Chronicle was published. Recently, however, it has been entirely self-supporting, producing two issues a year of from thirty to fifty pages.

The Players' Guild of University College

HE Players' Guild of University College will next Fall enter upon the seventh year of its, so far, robust existence, with a present active membership of about a hundred and twenty. The aim of the Guild is to stimulate an interest in and appreciation of all forms and branches of dramatic art, more particularly modern tendencies in the theatre.

A regular meeting is held each Wednesday at four thirty in the auditorium of the Women's Union, when a short play is produced by a member. Settings and technical arrangements are necessarily simple, all stress being laid on the play itself and the acting.

Interest this year has lain chiefly in modern drama, and an interesting number of original plays were produced by their authors, Mr. Raymond Card, Mr. N. A. Benson, Mr. Lindsay, Miss Margaret Gordon and Mr. Paul Gardner. Mr. D. B. Beamish afforded the Guild an unusually interesting meeting when he gave as an extra evening production his three-act tragedy "Ferrara".

For its evening production of the autumn term the Guild produced with considerable success Clemence Dane's "Will Shakespeare"—perhaps the most worthy attempt at serious drama that it has made. For the spring term A. A. Milne's comedy "The Lucky One" was produced.

Several amendments to meet changed conditions were made in the constitution, which has not been revised for some time.

Much of the success of the Players' Guild is due to the continued help and interest of its Hon. President. Prof. E. A. Dale, and of its Director, Mr. Raymond Card.

Victoria College Dramatic Society

HE object of the Victoria College Dramatic Society for 1927-28 was the active participation of every member in the work of the year. A series of one-act plays were produced at the monthly meetings and on special open nights, which included "Fame" by Lord Dunsany, A. A. Milne's "Wurzel Flummery," Lascelles Abercrombie's "The Deserter," Stuart Walker's "Sir David Wears a Crown," and "Danger" by Rupert Hughes. These led to the discovery of much new talent, as well as to the keener appreciation of modern drama.

The major production for the year was "Mariners" by Clemence Dane. It was under the very able direction of Mr. H. E. Hitchman, and was put on in Hart House Theatre on January the twentieth and twenty-first. The undertaking, though an ambitious one for an amateur caste, proved successful, and in keeping with the high standard set in former years. Among the past productions of the Society have been "Lilies of the Field" by Turner, "The Discovery" by Mrs. Shendar, "Fanny's First Play" by Bernard Shaw, and A. A. Milne's "Romantic Age."

The year has been a felicitous one in the history of the Society, both from the point of view of the interest and enjoyment of the members themselves, and the support accorded them in their undertakings.

Victoria College Bob

HE Victoria College Bob is the traditional Vic welcome to the incoming first year. Its approach is heralded every autumn by the appearance of flaming yellow ties on the freshmen and by vague hints in the air of the holding of secret, very secret, song practices by both freshman and sophomore years. It is usually late in October when the long-prepared-for event is held in Burwash Hall. The programme is both long and gay, and consists mainly of satirical entertainment directed against freshman and freshette, faculty and prominent members of every year alike, and when it is over the first year finally enters its recognized place in college life.

A hoary old custom is this Bob. It is related how over half a century ago in the old Victoria College at Cobourg, the janitor, one Robert Beare, used to gather the newly arrived freshmen together to give them a hearty welcome to the college. This informal reception soon grew into a recognized college entertainment called in honour of Robert Beare, the Bob.

It is a long cry from that first Bob to the fifty-fifth annual one held last fall. It, however, continued in much the same old traditional way. There were a few innovations such as the attempt to give a little more form to the programme and the introduction of pantomimes. Then also in accordance with a newer age, co-education was satirized or "bobbed" and radio broadcasting was made the basis for one skit. As usual the freshman year marched in, in a body, to run the dreadful gauntlet of the sophomore year, and as usual the two years waged a fierce battle of abusive songs, with the freshmen bearing up bravely under the loss of their song leader, kidnapped beforehand by the triumphant Bob committee. The main dramatic action of this year's Bob was a series of three scenes, written in blank verse, depicting various Victoria initiations.

Daffydil 1928

RADITION has it that twenty-nine years ago a group of enthusiastic and talented medical undergraduates organized a "Punch and Judy" show to satirize certain of their professors and to emphasize certain idiosyncrasies of their fellows. How well their venture succeeded cannot be estimated till one knows that the "Daffydil" performance which they inaugurated is now, annually, one of the outstanding events in the medical student's life.

The contrast of the years is in growth—not in spirit. In its embryo days the performance viewed by scores was held in a modest room, but now hundreds attend a show which fills Convocation Hall on successive nights. Yet the spirit remains the same. It is at Daffydil that the humble professors and important demonstrators see themselves as others see them.

For years the publication of "Epistaxis," that journal of medical humour and satire has synchronized with the Daffydil performance. In it what those on the stage dare not say is printed, for the censor knows no cure for Epistaxis.

This year the annual fun was held on February 16 and 17, and who is there to say the outstanding quality of previous performances was not attained?

Dental Dramatic Club

HE Dramatics Committee has under its charge two important events during the school term, the management of "Noctem Cuckoo," the annual stunt night of Hart House, and of "Dentantics," the amateur dramatics night. Dentantics is now in its eighth year. Each year it is bigger and better. Founded in 1920 by Dr. Agnew, who presented a shield for annual competition. Dr. Hoskin, the Faculty representative, has done much for the organization and has made for us a very enviable reputation for good clean performance. Each year the competition for the shield is becoming keener. May it continue to be so in the future.

"Noctem Cuckoo," the faculty night for Dentistry, was inaugurated in 1923 and at the present time leads the way in functions of its kind. Mirth and joy and a good night's amusement for all is the slogan of the committee in charge. The Gaston Brule cup for annual competition this year was very closely contested for and was won by the of class 2T8.

North House

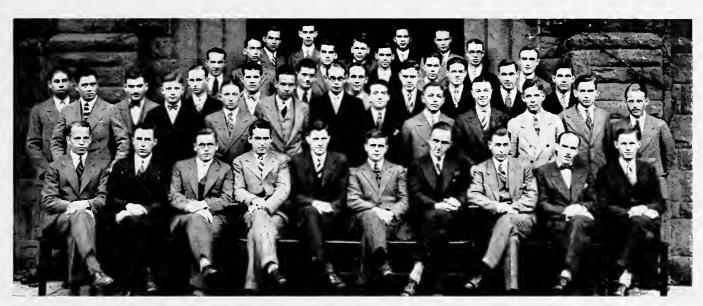

T is now almost four years since we consulted our trusty compass and discovered North House, the centre of the University of Toronto. Since then our conception of the University has grown, and the mystery of yesterday has become the simplicity of to-day. And so, e'er long must we wend our way hither; this time, not with a compass, but with a lamp which we have betimes polished and cleaned, but never filled.

We depart, not with that trepidation and uncertainty which accompanied our arrival, but with a feeling of confidence and satisfaction that comes only from four years' experience in doing as little as possible and yet sufficient.

During our sojourn in North House, our activities and experiences have been many and varied. We have co-operated in social functions and have competed in most of the recognized forms of sport, including that glorious, but perhaps better-forgotten institution -house-raids. Inter-house competition has always been very keen, and it was only after many a hard fight that North House carried off the Athletic Challenge Shield. Thus we have a torch to throw to succeeding generations and perhaps a word of wisdom before we set out again, new worlds to conquer.

Memories and associations formed in Residence will ever remain with us as cherished gems stored in the golden treasuries of thought.

East House

UGACES labuntur anni." The past year has been for East House an era of vast change, and unparalleled achievement. Progress is the keynote, progress in all departments, progress that would read like a fairy tale to one not acquainted with the high character, unflinching honesty, nobility of purpose, and general saintliness of the inmates.

Inspired by the sound common sense, brilliant ability and personal magnetism of the House President and his Committee, we have soared on wings of flame to higher things; till we are what we are.

Our activities are many-sided. Socially, academically, athletically, and spasmodically our representatives have attained prominence to a clique that has left the world gasping. The glorious traditions of the past are our boast and our pride. But are we content to rest on our laurels? No! East House faces the future with confidence. Our graduating members say to their successors, "Uphold the lofty standard we have set," and the latter, with grim determination writ large upon their faces, answer, "Indubitably we will."

South House

NCE more the end of the year looms in sight and with it the departure to parts unknown, of many of the old familiar faces. May Good Luck be with them. No more will we be awakened from our beauty sleep by the wail and moan of "Mont's" phonograph or will the after eating hours of the House Meetings be enlivened by the art of that great tragedian "Mac". Unfortunately we lose our worthy president, Norm

Brown

The social life of the House has been greatly enhanced by one of the finest bunch of freshmen that ever went around the "Horn" in nothing much. It has been largely due to them that our real dances and share in the Residence Dance were so successful. "Good Old Frosh."

As for Athletics, the issue is still somewhat in doubt owing to the unexpected and unusual activities of the other two Houses. However, by the end of the year the Athletic Shield will undoubtedly grace once more its rightful and accustomed place, the mantelpiece in the Common Room of South House.

U.C. Men's Residence

AVING successfully survived the perils of its infanthood the University College residence for the first time opened its College term with a quota of veterans to direct its affairs. These initiated with due ceremony the nine bewildered freshmen who had succeeded in passing the eagle eye of the Dean of Residence, Mr. C. N. Cochrane, M.A.

Another newcomer was the Tutor in Residence, G. A. McGillivray, B.A., the former tutor, W. S. Milne, M.A., having joined the faculty of the University of Western Ontario.

A series of highly controversial house meetings under the chairmanship of Grieve Robinson, led to the formation of a thriving debating society where subjects moral and immoral have been hotly discussed.

Nor have the discussions been confined merely to the residence. On one occasion the ladies of Hutton House honoured us with their presence at a joint debate, at which Principal Hutton was a visitor. On this occasion they learned that the residence men strongly approved of those masculine tendencies in modern woman, which are sometimes deplored by less enlightened members of either sex.

House dances are highly popular and three have been held in the course of the term.

Residence traditions, too, are fast establishing themselves, and it is gratifying to see that our fame has spread even to the columns of the Brantford "Expositor."

Hutton House

EGISTRATION day found some twelve worried and woebegone survivors of graduation and examinations welcoming to Hutton House double that number of aspiring co-eds. Soon the clatter of tea cups and the hum of conversation introduced the newly acquired residents to the most popular pastime of the house. The confusion of unpacking and settling was superseded by the routine of lectures, labs and P.T. as the occupants found their niche in residence life. Dire threats and Machiavellian strategy aided the ingenious sophs in their task of subduing the meek freshies until after initiation, where original and entertaining stunts were a prominent feature. Multi-coloured lights and frocks of rainbow hue, combined with the throbbing strains of an orchestra to make Hutton House social functions unique events. Toasts and speech-making marked the Junior-Senior party while the sophs and freshettes played havoc with their senior's possessions and were properly punished for their misdemeanours on the return of the revellers. The shadow of examinations having darkened the otherwise peaceful horizon of residence life, the forty-hour a week programme was religiously observed and gradually increased by the more ambitious members. The last interminable weeks finally ended, graduation loomed large for the Seniors, its joys slightly tinged with regret by memories of four happy years spent within the congenial atmosphere of Hutton House.

Queen's Hall

N young minds there is commonly a strong propensity to particular intimacies and friendships. Youth, indeed, is the season when friendships are sometime formed which not only continue through succeeding life, which glow to the last, with a tenderness unknown to the connections begun in cooler years." After looking back on four years of life in Queen's Hall we can fully appreciate the significance of Blair's statement. We cherish the old Hall not only for the good times she has given us but for the many happy friendships we have made. Of all the bright spots in our memory of college life, those which will remain brightest are the ones which are peculiar to life in residence. There is an indefinable "something" about the traditions of Queen's Hall that every girl feels bound to uphold.

In view of the fact that Queen's Hall has recently been sold it should be a very vital interest of every residence girl to do her share in the campaign for the new Women's Building. For, if this campaign fails, the members of Queen's Hall will be scattered and the traditions we now cherish so highly will only be a vague memory in the years to come. And there is not a single person who would like to think that there would no longer be the mad rush for breakfast at 8.29; the excited crowd awaiting the morning mail; the last minute dash "to make" a 9 o'clock lecture (a difficult feat indeed); the cup of tea and the inevitable fortune-telling; the midnight parties and those informal talks which last till the "wee sma" hours, 'tis said – these are some of the daily events the memory of which the years cannot erase.

Now, as another graduation approaches, each senior goes out expressing the wish that in the future there will always be a Queen's Hall to which she may look back as the symbol of all that was happiest and the warder of highest ideals in college days.

Argyll House

RGYLL HOUSE, University of Toronto"—thus reads the brass plate on the door. "100 Queen's Park" one may read on the gate-post. And that is all the information which may be extracted from the exterior or from the neighbouring oaks of the old grey house.

Argyll, one of the newer women's residences, began its career as such under the stress of a war-time situation. The war had increased the registration of women students in all faculties and the problem of finding more accommodation was a serious one. Miss Wrong, then head of the U.C. Women's Union, at last managed to secure Argyll House for a women's residence.

The problem of a name was quickly settled. The Campbell family, the former owners, had belonged to the Clan of Argyll—there was the name! In the fall of 1918 the house was opened with Mrs. Atken as resident head.

After it was definitely taken over by the University the house was ruled by the uniform regulations which apply to all women's residences. Normally, the Senior House Committee replaces a dean, the house being under the guidance of a resident head, Mrs. Howard, and in minor matters of discipline, under a Junior Committee composed of students.

Argyll is unique in the fact that it houses (and quite peaceably too) students of three faculties—Arts, Medicine and Dentistry.

Its traditions are many: the ghost that haunts the common room, dragged forth for the benefit of the timid freshette; the annual Christmas breakfast party, with such gifts as "no parking" signs and other appropriate articles from Mr. Woolworth's. Then there is the story of the Argyll flood—now long past but still told with gusto by grads—water rushing down the front stairs and in the corridors, and a freshie dashing with outstretched arms to a sedate Rhodes Scholar who happened to be the neat man to ring the doorbell, saying, "Oh! are you the plumber?"

Annesley Student Government Association

NNESLEY student government was formed in the autumn of 1906, upon the petition of the students to the Senate. Inspired by, and founded somewhat upon the lines laid down in the Wellesley College constitution, it has been in continuous operation ever since. It is founded on an agreement between the authorities of Victoria College and the students in Residence, whereby the powers and scope of student government are clearly defined. Many other institutions have made its organization and rules the basis for their own.

After twenty-one years of experience it is the firm belief of all concerned that student government makes for honour in the student body, develops just judgment and dealing, independence of thought and action, corporate spirit and loyalty to College and University. It has been recognized that true government consists in co-operation among those who are governed and that one of the essentials of education is to learn to live in harmony with one's neighbours. A.S.G.A. unites these two functions in itself even while it serves as a natural training for women, for in A.S.G.A. they face problems of government similar to those they will later meet in the outside world.

Annesley Hall is the first Women's Residence in Canada to adopt this system of Government and to continue it without a break, a record which the Student Government feels is largely due to the understanding and co-operation of the Dean, Miss M. E. T. Addison, B.A.

International Students' Association

HE purpose of the I.S.A. is as follows: (i) To promote friendly relationship among students of other countries in the University of Toronto and to create mutual understanding between Canadian students and those of other countries. (ii) To study Canada from the standpoint of her political, social, economic and industrial institutions and to compare these institutions with those of other countries represented in the Association.

This Association was organized during the Session 1918-19, under the name "Foreign Students' Association," to promote a close bond of friendship among students from other countries at the U. of T.

In 1921 it was reorganized, taking on wider significance as the International Students' Association.

Any student attending the U. of T. who is interested in international affairs and good-will is eligible for membership.

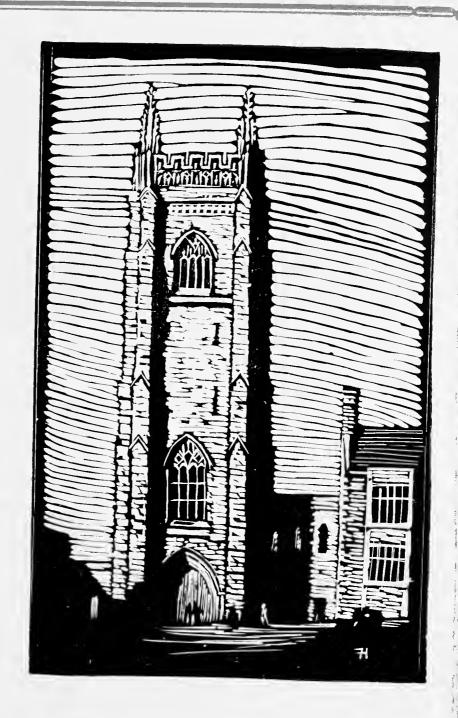

The members of the Association are enrolled in three divisions, viz.:

- a) Active members.—Students in attendance at the U. of T.
- (b) Honorary members.—Persons interested in the purpose of the Association but not necessarily in attendance at the U. of T.
- (c) Corresponding members.—Those active members who are no longer in attendance at the U. of T.

the generations to come the highest interests of this University by drawing into a common fellowship the members of the several Colleges and Faculties, and by gathering into a true society the teacher and the student, the graduate and the undergraduate; further that the members of Hart House may discover within its walls the true education that is to be found in good fellowship, in friendly disputation and debate, in the conversation of wise and carnest men, in music, pictures and the play, in the casual book, in sports and games and the mastery of the body; and lastly, that just as in the days of war this House was devoted to the training in arms of the young soldier, so in time of peace its walls may be dedicated to the task of arming youth with strength and suppleness of limb, with clarity of mind and depth of understanding, and with a spirit of true religion and high endeavour."

HART HOUSE FROM THE PARK

Hart House

HART HOUSE is so called in memory of the late Hart Massey. Begun in 1911, it was completed in 1919 and presented, fully equipped, to the University of Toronto by the trustees of the Massey Foundation. To Vincent Massey, Vice - Chairman of the Massey Foundation, is due the idea of Hart House as well as the form it assumed under his personal supervision. From the autumn of 1914 until November, 1918, it was used for military purposes, and within its walls thousands of men were trained for service overseas. On the first anniversary of the Armistice—November 11th, 1919—Hart House was formally opened by His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire, who was at that time the Governor-General of Canada. Mr. Henry Sproatt and Mr. Ernest Rolph were the architects of the building, which comes as near to meeting the requirements of the ideal House for student activities as any on this continent or perhaps in the world.

In its widest interpretation, Hart House, which is for the use of men only and is non-residential, seeks to provide for all the activities of the undergraduate's life which lie outside the actual lecture rooms. Architecturally of great beauty and built round a quadrangle, Hart House is unique in that it houses under one roof a finely proportioned hall, called "The Great Hall," common rooms of every description, a library, a lecture room, a small chapel together with rooms for the use of the Student Christian Association, a studio for painting and sketching, photographic dark rooms, a billiard room, senior common rooms and dining rooms for both faculty and graduate members, an upper and lower gymnasium, both admirably equipped, separate rooms for boxing, wrestling and fencing, an indoor running track, a large swimming pool, racquet courts, an indoor rifle range, extensive locker rooms, offices for the Students' Administrative Council, also for the athletic and medical staff, a few bedrooms for guests, and the office and private rooms for the Warden. Below the quadrangle is a fully equipped theatre with foyer, green room, dressing rooms, wardrobe and the office of the director of the theatre. Every male undergraduate of the University is required to be a member of Hart House, towards the upkeep of which he pays an annual fee of eight dollars. The House has no endowment and these fees are its chief source of revenue.

The care of Hart House and its welfare has to a large extent been entrusted to the undergraduates themselves. There are six Standing Committees—House,

Hall, Library, Music, Billiard and Sketch. Each of these Committees consists of two Faculty members, one of whom is the Chairman, one graduate member, ten undergraduates and the Warden. Eight of the ten undergraduate members are elected annually by the whole undergraduate membership of Hart House, the other two being elected by their own number to serve on the same committee the following year. The personnel and duties of the Standing and Special Committees subject to the authority of the Board of Stewards are as follows:

House Committee

The House Committee is the senior of the Standing Committees and has charge of the general management and social activities of Hart House. Under its supervision come all regulations governing the use of the House and all plans for the comfort and convenience of its members. The Barber Shop and Guest Rooms are under its care. The Committee is also responsible to the Board of Stewards for seeing that the House is kept in good repair both as regards its structure and equipment. The annual elections of the Committees of Hart House are also under the management of this Committee. The Masquerade was again successfully held last November.

Hart House played a prominent part in the Centenary of the University last October. The Undergraduate Centenary Ball and the Graduate Centenary Ball were both held in Hart House. At the former about 1,800 persons were present, and, it being a fine night, the quadrangle, which was specially lit, was used with great effect. The Graduate Centenary Ball was attended by about 3,050 persons. This is the largest number of people that have ever been present at any single function in Hart House.

The Comptroller of Hart House, Mr. J. R. Gilley (S.P.S. '21), and the

MEMORIAL TOWER

Secretary of Hart House, Mr. J. Hornal (U.C. '24), were welcomed back to Hart House this fall after many months of sickness, and the appointment of Mr. W. R. Cowan (S.P.S. '24) as Assistant Comptroller has greatly strengthened the administrative staff of the House.

The members of the House Committee for 1927-1928 are: Professor J. H. Parkin (Chairman), the Warden, Professor G. H. Duff, J. R. Gilley (Comptroller), A. G. Lang (Graduate), J. R. McGillivray (Rep. Ath. Assoc.), E. E. Creeper, J. U. Curtis, T. E. Hayhurst, C. L. Lewis, W. E. McCraw, W. R. McIntosh, T. E. Mooney, R. D. Ralfe, T. R. Sarjeant, K. E. Perfect (Secretary).

Hall Committee

As in former years the duties of the Hall Committee have been to exercise a general supervision over the Great Hall, the Graduate Dining Room, the Kitchen Department of Hart House and the Tuck Shop. During the present year the numbers of students using the Great Hall has again increased. About fourteen hundred meals a day are served there and, if the Faculty and Graduate meals are taken into consideration as well as special functions and banquets, the number of meals served on some days in full term time does not fall far short of two thousand. This number in itself is proof of the quality of meals served by Mr. Campbell and the moderate prices charged. The Comptroller and the Assistant Comptroller have given much time and thought to the operation of this department of Hart House and of the Tuck Shop, which continues to do a large business.

The Committee has given particular attention to the financial statements presented to it each month, and the many problems inseparable from a large and complex organization such as the Great Hall, have received careful consideration.

The members of the Hall Committee for 1927-1928 are: Professor H. B. Speakman (Chairman), the Warden, Dr. H. A. Hoskin, Leo Smith, J. R. Gilley (Comptroller), A. H. McBride (Graduate), H. D. Branion, D. B. Dingle, D. C. MacGregor, J. F. Mallon, J. F. McCullough, E. W. M. Paisley, W. A. Rooke, L. E. Simpson, A. A. Somerville, F. A. Wansbrough (Secretary).

Library Committee

The Library in Hart House is recognized as one of the most beautiful rooms in the whole building.

In accordance with the idea of the Founders, the Library Committee has for the past nine years been engaged in the building up of a collection of books such as might be found in a good private library and as a result of their work the room has now become a popular resort of all those who like to spend their leisure hours reading the casual book.

At present there are 2,900 volumes on the shelves about half of which are fiction, while the rest are composed chiefly of biography, history, languages and general literature. Additions to the Library are made at regular intervals and the activities of the Committee are chiefly centered around the selection of new books for purchase. Gifts are also received from time to time, and in the last year Hart House has been particularly fortunate in this respect.

The Library Committee is further responsible for the selection of periodicals for use in the Reading Room and the Graduate Common Room, and in these departments of the House a wide range of weekly and monthly journals may be found.

The Curator, an undergraduate member, is responsible for the care and checking of books, but no other supervision over the Library is exercised. From the first the policy of the Library Committee has been to keep the shelves open at all times and to encourage the feeling that the contents of the Library are the common property of members of Hart House. It is by this means that the unique character of the Library has been preserved.

The members of the Library Committee for 1927-1928 are: Professor L. Allen (Chairman), the Warden, Professor J. F. Macdonald, H. O. E. Asman (Graduate), J. P. E. Brown (Curator of Library), R. C. Bertram, J. L. Davenport, H. S. Dodgson, D. G. Guest, D. R. Gunn, J. R. Hilborn, G. M. Kirkpatrick, F. H. C. Reinke, L. R. Seheult, R. H. Soward (Secretary).

Music Committee

The Music Committee directs and generally supervises the various musical activities of the House. The major function of the Music Committee is to arrange a number of concerts, recitals and songsters and thus to encourage and stimulate an appreciation for good music among the undergraduate members of the House. Pursuing the policy of former years the Committee has, during the present academic year, arranged eight Sunday Evening Concerts, and a series of Friday Afternoon Recitals. The Sunday Evening Concerts, the most popular musical institution of the University, are held in the Great Hall of Hart House at 9 p.m. on Sunday evenings at intervals of three weeks during the term. Owing to the generosity of the leading musicians of the city, undergraduates are afforded the opportunity of hearing music of the highest order, and it is evident from the very large audiences which regularly attend them, how much these concerts are appreciated. From the beginning of October, and continuing until the middle of March, Friday Afternoon Recitals are held each Friday at 5 p.m. in the Music Room. These Recitals have drawn a large number of undergraduates week by week.

This year the Songsters came under the management of the Music Committee.

They are held in the Music Room on Sunday evenings when there is no concert in the Great Hall and are conducted by Mr. Campbell Mc-Innes. From the first they have drawn a large and enthusiastic number of students.

The members of the Music Committee for 1927-1928 are: Professor H. J. Davis (Chairman), the Warden, Professor H. R. Kemp, Dr. E. C. MacMillan, F. R. MacKelcan (Graduate), E. J. Bramah, F. S. Edgar, J. W. Johnson, A. J. Mueller, W. J. O'Meara, A. F. W. Plumptre, F. Van V. Snell, W. M. Thompson, M. St. A. Woodside, G. S. Adamson (Secretary).

Billiard Committee

The Billiard Room of Hart House is a recreation centre for a large number of undergraduate members. It is under the control of the Billiard Committee. The general idea of the

THE NORTH CORRIDOR

Three Twenty-one

Billiard Committee of past years has been to promote the English game of Billiards in preference to other games. With this object in view three tournaments, Open, Ladder and Handicap, have been held this year in the fall and winter months. To each winner and runner up in these tournaments is given a suitable prize, such as the Hart House cup for the Handicap Tournament. The policy of the Billiard Committee has been in the past to replace the smaller tables with English Billiard tables until the room now has eight full size billiard tables and one pool table. An exhibition game between two professionals which aroused much interest was held in February.

The Billiard Room is a source of revenue to Hart House and financial statements are placed before the Committee, which is directly responsible, as are all other Standing Committees, to the Board of Stewards.

The members of the Billiard Committe for 1927-1928 are: Professor R. K. Young (Chairman), the Warden, H. C. Rickaby, T. L. Campbell (Graduate), F. R. Brebner, W. C. Caldwell, H. S. Dawson, E. H. Dewart, D. G. Hilliard, E. R. Hopkins, J. R. Mooney, J. R. Perras, W. D. Regan, C. A. Farewell (Secretary).

Sketch Committee

The Sketch Committee is responsible to the Board of Stewards for the Art activities of Hart House. They include control of the Sketch Room and the Little Sketch Room and the holding of exhibitions therein, the Winter Loan Exhibition, which is hung in the principal rooms of the House, the management of sketching classes under an artist and the occasional purchase of pictures.

The Exhibitions during 1927-1928 have included French-Canadian pictures, water-colours from England, "one-man" shows by leading Toronto artists, and pictures from British Columbia. The Exhibition which have changed every two weeks have attracted large numbers of students. The annual Exhibition of work done by members of Hart House themselves was held as usual in February and proved very popular.

The lighting in the Sketch Room has been entirely changed, and this room is now one of the best lit galleries in Canada. The Sketch Room is accumulating so many possessions in the shape of prints, books and frames, that an undergraduate member has been appointed permanent Keeper of the Prints.

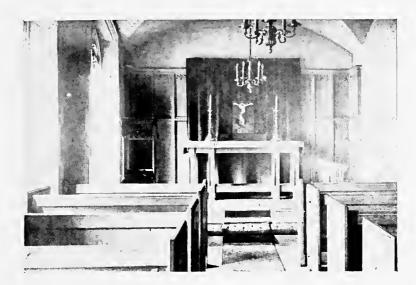

Several Canadian pictures and a number of prints have been added to the permanent collection owned by Hart House.

A series of sketching classes were again held under the direction of Mr. F. S. Haines and were particularly well attended.

The members of the Sketch Committee for 1927-1928 are: Professor W. S. Funnell (Chairman), the Warden, Professor E. R. Arthur, D. F. MacLaren (Graduate), F. D. Shannon (Keeper of the Prints), V. J. Bourke, J. T. Bryden, C. N. Carscallen, A. W. B. Hewitt, H. F. Jeffrey, R. M. Mitchell, S. V. Railton, B. S. Shenstone, W. E. Shute, M. J. C. Lazier (Secretary).

Camera Committee

The Camera Committee, which is a special Committee of Hart House, is responsible for the management of the dark rooms in Hart House, the care of photographic equipment and the general encouragement of photography among the members of Hart House. Last November the Camera Committee, as in past years, operated a studio in connection with the Masquerade and took about a hundred and fifty photographs. In February the Committee arranged an exhibition of photographs by members of Hart House in the Little Sketch Room. This exhibition was held concurrently with the annual exhibition of work by members in the main Sketch Room.

A number of the Club's members, co-operating with the Editorial Board, provided the photographs from which some of the illustrations for Toronto-Nensis are made.

Membership in the Camera Club is open to any member of Hart House; there are at present forty-five members.

The Club's quarters, opposite the Billiard Room, are equipped with lockers for the use of members, separate rooms for developing negatives, apparatus for contact printing, enlarging camera, copying camera and other accessories.

The members of the Camera Committee for 1927-1928 are: Professor A. F. Coventry (Chairman), the Warden, J. F. Phillips (Graduate), W. T. Grant, J. W. McFarlane, D. Y. Solandt, K. F. Tupper, J. L. Lehman (Secretary).

Squash Racquet Committee

The Squash Racquets Committee, which is a Special Committee of Hart House, is responsible to the Board of Stewards for the general control of the Squash Courts. The game has steadily increased in popularity during the past few years.

A most successful Interfaculty Tournament and also Individual Tournament have been held this year. Mr. John Jennings kindly presented a cup for the Interfaculty Tournament and a cup for the Individual Tournament was purchased with subscriptions from members.

The members of the Squash Racquets Committee for 1927-1928 are: A. B. Fennell (Chairman), the Warden, J. F. Woods (Graduate), D. D. Gunn, R. B. Robinson, R. A. Harris (Secretary).

Debates Committee

On 31st January, 1924, the first debate ever held in Hart House took place under the management of an informal Committee appointed for that purpose. This debate was held on the open parliamentary system and special Rules of Procedure were drawn up by the Committee. The Lecture Room in Hart House was arranged as far as possible like the Provincial or Federal House; the Speaker's chair was placed in a central position, members for the motion being on his right, those against the motion on his left. After the four speakers "on the paper" had finished their speeches, the debate was open to any member, who, having caught the Speaker's eye, might then rise and address the House. At 10.30 p.m. the House divided on the motion. There were no judges, and the whole procedure was a definite attempt to get away from the competitive type of debate, which is really an oratorical contest, by which a team of three men from one University or Faculty tries to win a victory over a team of three men from another University or Faculty.

The undoubted success of this first debate led the Committee to plan further debates of a similar character. During the present academic year they have been continued, and have now become an integral part of the life of Hart House and of the University.

The aim of debates held under the Hart House system is to encourage real debating in contrast to the delivery of speeches carefully prepared for weeks beforehand and also to give undergraduates an introduction into public life by discussing questions of general interest across the floor of the House with the country's ablest men. Among visitors who have spoken "on the paper" from the floor of the House are the Hon. W. E. Raney, K.C.; the Hon. J. W. Nickle, K.C.; Mr. Andrew McMaster, K.C.; the Hon. E. C. Drury; the Hon. Manning Doherty; the Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King (Prime Minister of Canada); and the Hon. Hugh Guthrie (at that time Leader of the Opposition).

This year the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Prime Minister of Ontario, took part in a debate, speaking on the resolution "That it would not be in the best interest of Canada to assume the right to amend her own Constitution."

The elections for the Debates Committee are held at the last debate.

The members of the Debates Committee for 1927-1928 are: Professor V. W. Bladen (Chairman), the Warden, Professor N. A. MacKenzie, C. H. A. Armstrong and E. H. Blake (Graduates), W. T. Aitken, C. F. Burk, J. G. Currie, F. S. Daly, R. M. Fowler, J. H. Gringorten, D. D. Gunn, J. M. Kling, B. J. Thomson, D. G. McCullagh (Secretary).

Board of Stewards

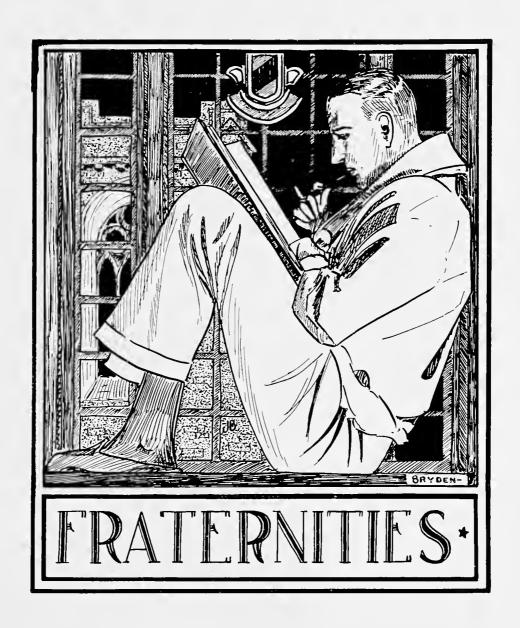

The Board of Stewards is the governing body of Hart House and is so constituted as to include among its members the secretaries of the six Standing Committees and representatives of the chief organizations in Hart House. Subject to the superior authority of the Board of Governors of the University the direction, management and administration of Hart House, including matters of discipline, are entrusted to the Board of Stewards. The Board is assisted by a Finance Committee which makes recommendations with regard to financial matters. The general supervision of the whole House is entrusted to the Warden, who is appointed by the Board of Governors of the University and is ex-officio chairman of the Board of Stewards. He is assisted by the Comptroller and Assistant Comptroller, whose duties are chiefly administrative.

The members of the Board of Stewards for 1927-1928 are: The Warden (Chairman ex-officio), Sir Robert Falconer, K.C.M.G., the Hon. Vincent Massey (appointed by the Board of Governors), Professor C. N. Cochrane, Professor H. Wasteneys (appointed by the President), T. A. Reed (Financial Secretary, Athletic Association), G. N. Kennedy (Graduate), W. L. Smith (S.C.A.), W. M. Master (Athletic Directorate), W. A. Duncan (S.A.C.), Professor G. A. Cornish (Faculty Union), K. E. Perfect (House Committee), F. A. Wansbrough (Hall Committee), R. H. Soward (Library Committee), G. S. Adamson (Music Committee), C. A. Farewell (Billiard Committee), M. J. C. Lazier (Sketch Committee), J. R. Gilley (Secretary).

Do You Know?

That Eaton's is the largest retail store within the British Empire? That it employs over 26,000 people?

That eighty per cent of the merchandise sold by Eaton's is of Canadian manufacture?

That it has its own factories for the manufacture of men's, women's and children's clothing, stockings, sweaters, knitted fabrics and underclothing, thread, harness, leather goods, perfumes, drugs, candies, school books, stoves and furnaces—thus making possible lower prices, under the factory-to-consumer method?

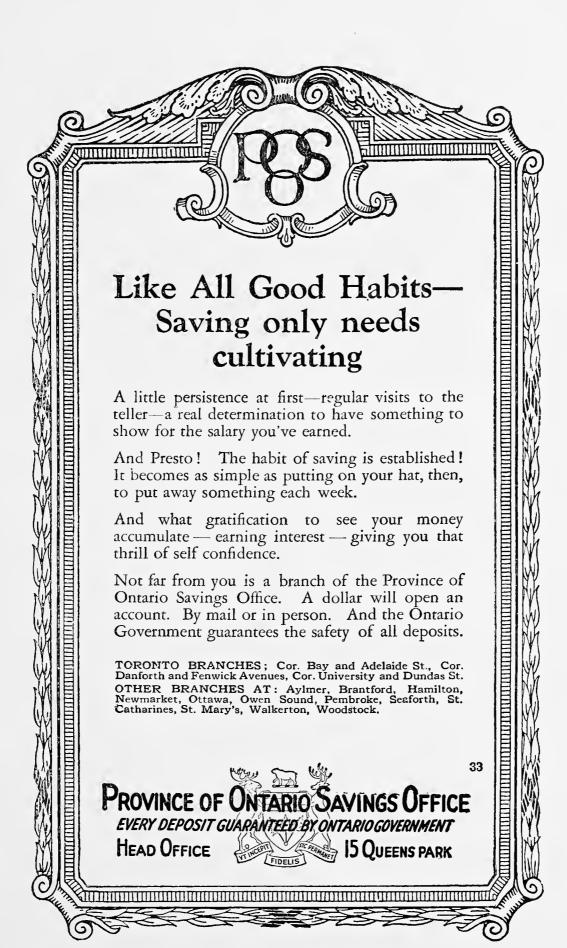

That the plants of these factories rank among the finest in the world? That the entire output of Eaton factories is sold in Eaton stores?

That Eaton buying offices are maintained in London, Manchester, Belfast, Leicester, Paris, Zurich, Berlin, New York?

That a Research Bureau with well equipped laboratories and a staff of chemists and merchandise experts, tests all kinds of merchandise?

That such an institution, with its numerous ramifications, offers countless opportunities to young men and women who are desirous of embarking on a business career?

WESTINGHOUSE RESEARCH ACHIEVEMENTS

The Knowles Grid-Glow Relay

D. D. Knowles, Westinghouse Engineer

Without even the incantation of mystic words, a practitioner of the modern black art of electrical wizardry may pass his hand over a necromancer's crystal ball and presto!—a large motor is set in motion and electric lights will be illuminated.

This amazing feat is made possible by a tiny tube, closely resembling a radio tube in size and appearance. This is known as the Knowles Grid-Glow relay, a power-controlling device so sensitive that the mere wave of a human hand will operate it. It is the product of the inventive genius of D. D. Knowles, a 28-year-old research engineer of the Westinghouse Company. For this invention Mr. Knowles recently was presented the John Scott Medal and a $1,000 award in recognition of his valuable contribution to scientific knowledge.

This device figures in one of the last public acts of the late Judge Elbert H. Gary, then chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation. Seated in his office in New York, Judge Gary passed his hand over the crystal ball, immediately setting in motion a new electrified steel mill in Pittsburgh.

The Knowles relay has an amplifying power of about one hundred million. The energy required to operate is about one-billionth of a watt, or about one-fortieth of the amount of energy exerted by a fly in crawling vertically upwards one inch in one second.

This infinitesimally small amount of energy is sufficient to start a current of as high as 25 milliamperes flowing through the tube. This latter current is sufficient to open or close a switch handling upwards of 25 amperes; and this, in turn, is ample for controlling almost any operation.

The Lights that Failed

It remained for electricity to furnish a light which would rival the brightness of day . . . a light that would not fail.

All over the civilized world, millions of bright, happy homes, well-lighted workrooms, handsome public buildings, light-protected thoroughfares, stand to witness how perfectly electricity has performed its task.

In the history of electric lighting two names stand out pre-eminently—Edison, inventor of the electric incandescent lamp—Mazda, the symbol of a research service. These two names are linked together inseparably in an outstanding product of Canadian General Electric Company... the Edison Mazda Lamp.

The foundations of the Canadian General Electric Company were laid on a few feel of land 36 years ago. Today its factory premises alone cover a hundred acres and with its chain of sales branches across the Dominion give employment to over 4,500 men and women.
